Britons Tie Cold War to Economy

23 Killed In Crash of Canadian Airliner

St. Joachim, Que., Sept. 9 (U.P.).—A Canadian Pacific airliner crashed and burned on a barren mountainside near here today, killing all 23 persons aboard, including E. E. Stannard, president of the Kennecott Copper Corp., and two other top-ranking American industrialists.

Also killed were Arthur D. Storke, 55, president of the Climax Molybdenum Co. who was to succeed Stannard as Kennecott head at the end of this year, and R. J. Parker, a vice president of Kennecott Corp. and president of the Quebec Iron and Titanium Co.

All three were New Yorkers. They were on a business trip.

There were no survivors among the 19 passengers, including three babies, and four crew members. All were Canadians except the three American businessmen.

Explodes in Flight

Eyewitness said the DC-3 plane exploded in flight before it plummeted to the mountainside in the rugged bush country on the north shore of the St. Lawrence River, 16 miles east of here.

The first word of the crash was brought out of the bush by Patrick Bouchard, a fisherman. He ran to a railway section gang and reported he had seen a big plane go down.

The first rescue party reached the crash scene by pumping a handcar on the tracks of the Canadian National Railroad to within 2 miles of the wreckage. Then the party hacked and pushed through heavy underbrush to the charred and still burning wreckage, strewn over an area of more than a city block.

There was no sign of life.

The 66-year-old Stannard had planned to retire on December 31 after 39 years service as president.

Sky Heavily Overcast

The sky was heavily overcast when the crash occurred at 10:45 a. m. The flight had originated in Montreal, where the three Americans boarded the plane, and a stop had just been made at Quebec City before the DC-3 proceeded on toward Baie Comeau, Quebec.

"There was a sudden explosion and pieces of debris fell from the sky like rockets," Patrick Bouchard, a farmer, said.

Four members of one family were killed. They were a Mrs. R. Sharados, her daughter and two young boys, one a babe in arms. The mother died clasping the young child to her.

The crew consisted of Capt. Pierre Laurin, pilot; Gordon Alexander, co-pilot; Emile Therries, flight engineer, and Gertrude McKay, stewardess.

Stannard, a native of Chittanango, N. Y., was one of the Nation's top industrial executives. He also was connected with the J. P. Morgan Banking Co. and with the Johns-Manville Asbestos Co. He was educated at the Phillips Andover Academy, Yale University and the Michigan School of Mines.

Storke, 55, a native of Auburn, N. Y., also was connected with the Climax Molybdenum Corp., of Climax, Colo.

Police Probing Injuries to D. C. Nine-Month-Old

A 9-month-old baby was admitted to Gallinger Hospital with possible skull fracture last night, and police began an investigation into whether it had been beaten or tossed or dropped down a stairway.

The child, William James Apple, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Apple, 735 New Jersey ave. nw., had been left in care of a 44-year-old woman while the father, a Navy shore patrolman, and the mother, a waitress, were at work.

Police said a janitor found the child lying on the apartment stairs.

"Homes of '49" Show Begins Tomorrow

A special broadcast at 12:30 p.m. Sunday over WTOP will raise the curtain on the great "Homes of '49" exhibit.

Claude Mahoney will act as master of ceremonies for the program. Guests will be Frederick Siddons, president of the Board of Trade; William Banks, president of the Washington Home Builders Ass'n.; Post managing editor J. Russell Wiggins; and Lucia Brown, Post homemaking reporter.

Listen to the broadcast, then visit the "Homes of '49."

Cite Figures for Year

Police Believe Serious Crime Is Leveling Off in District

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

Violent crime in Washington continued to increase in the 12 months ending June 30, 1949, over the preceding 12-month period, the annual report of the Metropolitan Police Department showed yesterday.

But the report sounded this hopeful note:

"Serious crimes during the year seemed to level off to a large extent for the first time since the war and the ratio of detection to the incidence of crime showed a small but pleasant increase."

Most startling set of figures were those involving rape—but Inspector Floyd A. Truscott, assistant superintendent and executive officer of the Police Department, cautioned that the comparative figures on that point were deceptive.

The reason, he said, is that the latest figures are based on a complete year of using the crime reporting procedures keyed to the FBI uniform system, while the full year of 1947-8 was not keyed that way.

293 Cases Reported

The figures showed there were 293 rape cases reported here in the 1949 fiscal year, 89 in the year before. Ninety-two per cent of the cases were cleared in the past year, and 91 per cent in the year before.

Inspector Truscott said the latest total includes not only rape, but carnal knowledge, attempted rape and attempted carnal knowledge cases. He said that despite the figure he believes there has been no marked increase here in that type of crime; that the figures sim-

Bumper Crops With Surplus Of Corn Seen

By Ovid Martin
Associated Press Reporter

A near-record volume of farm crops—topped by another surplus-creating corn crop—is virtually assured the Nation this year.

Reporting this, the Agriculture Department said yesterday that present indications are that total production will be second only to last year's record harvest. Since the growing season for most crops is almost over, there is little likelihood of any material change from today's production estimates, officials said.

Highlighting the latest report was the prediction for the corn crop—3,526,000,000 bushels—only 3.5 per cent below last year's record, but 27 per cent above average. The new figure is only about 13 million bushels less than forecast a month ago.

A corn crop of this size is virtually certain to lead the Government to invoke production controls on the 1950 crop in a move to prevent accumulation of a burdensome surplus. This year's indicated crop—as was the case with last year's—is much larger than prospective needs.

As a consequence, corn from this year's crop is expected to move into Government hands under price support programs to join more than 400 million bushels remaining there from the 1948 crop.

No official decision on corn controls is likely, however, until after the October crop estimate.

It now appears that production controls of some sort will be put into effect next year for cotton, wheat, corn, tobacco, rice, peanuts, potatoes, flaxseed, and possibly soybeans and dry edible beans.

Yesterday's wheat estimate of 1,129,000,000 bushels is virtually unchanged from a month ago. The fourth largest record, it compares with 1,288,406,000 bushels last year and a 10-year average of 991,950,000 bushels. The wheat supply will again be ample to provide large exports in addition to meeting domestic needs.

The Agriculture Department said feed grain supplies will be the most liberal on record.

Only rice and tree nuts promise record production this year, but soybeans and grapes, in addition to corn, are the second largest in history. Among relatively large crops are cotton, wheat, flaxseed, sorghum grain, dried beans, cherries and sugar cane.

Crops exceeding average by narrower margins include oats, tobacco, apples, peaches, pears, hops, cranberries and broomcorn. Below average in production are hay, barley, peanuts, potatoes, sweet potatoes, sugar beets and apricots. Very small crops of rye, buckwheat and dry peas are indicated.

The department said oilseeds—peanuts, soybeans and flaxseed—will total considerably below the 1948 record, but will be liberal enough to meet needs.

The department said August was favorable for the development and maturing of fruit crops. Prospects for new crop citrus fruits, on the other hand, are less favorable than for several seasons.

Plowing and preparation of fields for fall-sown crops of winter wheat and rye and oats was well advanced and some seeding has been done throughout the Great Plains in good seedbeds, the department reported.

Officer Links Rep. Deane, B-36 Memo

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

A Navy court of inquiry was told yesterday a request by Representative Deane (D., N. C.) resulted in preparation of the memorandum that led to congressional investigation of the B-36 bomber.

Lieut. Samuel P. Ingram, the "red-haired lieutenant from Texas," had been accused by Chairman Vinson, of the House Armed Services Committee, of "peddling" the memorandum on Capitol Hill. This Ingram denied, contending he never had seen the document until it appeared in Vinson's committee, though he had seen notes containing similar material in the office of Cedric R. Worth, who has admitted preparing the memorandum.

A special assistant to Navy Undersecretary Dan A. Kimball, Worth was suspended promptly after he admitted writing the document.

Staff to Check Further

At the close of yesterday's morning session the court recessed until September 21. Capt. Sanford B. D. Wood, examiner for the court, said the recess was to permit his staff to check further into conflicting testimony given so far to the court.

Ingram testified yesterday he met Deane on a carrier cruise last spring and that he had dined with him several times since.

When the Congressman said he would like to discuss national defense with someone in the Navy, Ingram said he suggested Worth and arranged a meeting of the two. He selected Worth for the conference, the witness said, "because everybody respected him."

"And," he added, "I still do."

At the meeting, Ingram continued, Deane and Worth discussed the B-36 and related matters and Deane expressed a desire to have a written "summary" of the discussion.

Deane told him later, the young officer said, he "had the summary which he requested" and that "as I recall, he said he showed it to a fellow Texan—Sam Rayburn," the Speaker of the House.

But he never did see the memorandum until the hearings by Vinson's committee, Ingram insisted.

Savage Hurricane Lashes Atlantic Shipping Lanes

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 9 (U.P.).—The 349-ton Canadian coastal steamer Bayfield was reported aground tonight near Cape Pine, Newfoundland, in the path of a hurricane. The crew was reported abandoning ship.

New York, Sept. 9 (U.P.).—A savage hurricane whipped into the North Atlantic shipping lanes, today, and the Weather Bureau urged all ships in or near the area to change their courses to avoid the 130-mile-an-hour winds.

The United States Weather Bureau in New York said the storm was about 400 miles southeast of Halifax and 650 miles east of New York moving northward. It is in the luxury liner shipping lane.

Judge Takes a Broad View Of Right Answers to Auto Test

Louis Dorch, 27, yesterday was acquitted of obtaining a driving license by misrepresentation when he made a perfect score on a traffic-regulations quiz administered by the judge.

It was the same test on which Dorch, who lives at 1112 10th st. nw., had scored only 41 2/3 per cent when he took it the day before.

Municipal Court attaches called the case a unique application of "practical justice."

According to testimony, Dorch, a laborer, came to Municipal Center Thursday morning for his permit and was given the routine written test. Permit Examiner J. E. Snow said Dorch failed, scoring only 41 2/3.

Snow said he gave Dorch a booklet of traffic rules and told him to come back for a retest. Somehow or other, according to Snow, Dorch picked up a copy of the test.

Dorch said he met a stranger outside the center who asked if he knew how to fill out the form. The stranger filled it out when

27,500 Idled On Missouri Pacific Road

St. Louis, Sept. 9 (AP).—Operating employes of the Missouri Pacific Railroad went on strike at 3 p. m. (EST) today. Service on the big railroad already was at a virtual standstill, with almost all of its trains halted earlier in the day to avoid last-minute confusion.

The few trains still rolling when the strike deadline passed continued on to their terminals, with consent of union officials.

Five thousand engineers, firemen, conductors and other trainmen left their jobs in a dispute over interpretation of operating rules.

An additional 22,500 non-operating employes were laid off at the close of business today. Only about 2500 were to be kept on the railroad's payrolls Saturday.

Last Hope Collapses

The last hope of a settlement collapsed shortly after noon. Frank Douglass, member of the National (Railway) Mediation Board, announced in Washington the unions rejected proposals made as a basis for delay or settlement. He would not disclose the nature of the suggestions.

A prolonged strike would cripple many industries in the 11 States served by the 7200-mile railroad and lead to shutdowns idling many more thousands of workers.

The Missouri Pacific, with its subsidiaries, normally carries about 12,000 passengers a day.

Among the larger cities affected by the strike are St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha, Nebr.; Memphis, Tenn., and Little Rock, Ark.

The Missouri Pacific is the only line serving many factories in the vast area. With an embargo placed on freight shipments by the road last Tuesday, the paralysis of a railroad strike already was felt.

Robert C. Young, general superintendent of the Railway Mail Service, said trucks would operate out of Missouri Pacific terminal points to give some mail service to cities served by the line.

"Unjustifiable," He Says

Paul J. Neff, chief executive officer of the Missouri Pacific, termed the walkout "one of the most unjustifiable in railroad history."

He charged the four brotherhoods violated "the letter and spirit of American democracy" in failing to accept the findings of a fact-finding board named by President Truman last July.

R. E. Davidson, assistant grand master of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said a proposal for arbitration of the dispute was rejected because "some issues are just not arbitrable."

The unions that called the strike are the Brotherhoods of Locomotive Engineers, Railway Trainmen and Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and the Order of Railway Conductors.

The complex dispute that led to the strike involves 282 grievances by the unions. Some three million dollars is involved, although wages and hours in general were not an issue.

Each claim is different, and some of them date back 10 years. The prolonged negotiatons preceding the strike started in 1943.

80 Co-Op Feed Mill Workers Go on Strike

Baltimore, Sept. 9 (AP).—Some 80 feed mill employes of Southern States Cooperative, Inc., were on strike today in a dispute over a 5-cent-an-hour wage increase they have asked.

Pickets permitted executives and office workers to enter the building.

$1.3 Billion Arms Voted Tentatively

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

A $1,314,010,000 military assistance bill acceptable to the Administration and including a 75-million-dollar optional sum for China and the Far East was tentatively approved yesterday by a joint Senate Foreign Relations-Armed Services Committee.

An effort to cut Europe's share was defeated by a bare three-vote margin and will be renewed on the Senate floor.

The bill carried one billion dollars for arms to Europe. Of this, 100 million dollars would be available immediately, plus another 400 million when the western Europe defense committee approves a plan. The remaining 500 million dollars would be in contract authority.

Sponsored by Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Tom Connally (D., Tex.), the European arms section was approved 19 to 3 after the effort to slash it narrowly failed.

George Motion Defeated

Senator Walter F. George (D., Ga.) moved to hold arms cash for Europe to 300 million dollars which he said was all that could be spent pending formulation of a Europe defense plan. His motion lost 10 to 13.

The total amount, including funds for Greece, Turkey, Iran, Korea, the Philippines, China and the Far East came within 86 million of the President's original request.

The House had approved only $819,405,000, including $580,495 for Europe.

Added at the last minute by a 11-to-9 vote was the Administration's 75-million-dollar China aid compromise. Offered by Connally, this gave the President complete discretion over use or non-use of the money in China or the Far East. He could even make confidential use of it, without disclosing the recipient.

Amendment Voted Down

Senator William F. Knowland (R., Calif.), leading GOP China aid forces, sought to substitute his own amendment for 175 million dollars in military aid for China, subject to presidential discretion but not confidential use. He was defeated, 12 to 9.

Knowland denounced the China compromise as "meaningless." Later he and Connally again tangled on the Senate floor over the Texan's charge that Chiang Kai-shek "absconded" with Nationalist gold. Knowland read the Chinese embassy denial. Connally repeated his charge that Chiang uses gold to "dominate" Nationalist China.

Other Provisions

Subject to final action Monday, when the joint committee meets on its report, the bill to arm foreign nations against communism also provides:

$211,370,000 for Greece and Turkey and $27,640,000 for Iran, Korea and the Philippines. These were the amounts asked by the Administration and approved by the House.

A ban on use of the funds to actually build new war plants in Europe and pay workers in them.

A limitation confining United States officials strictly to the amounts authorized in the bill.

A prohibition on use of the funds to reimburse European factory owners for any loss in reconverting their plants from peacetime to arms production.

Clergy Hears Truman Urge Moral Revival

By Martha Hall
Post Reporter

President Truman yesterday told a group of Church of England clergymen the world would have a better chance of stopping wars if it lived by the Sermon on the Mount.

The Anglicans, including nine bishops and an archbishop, met Mr. Truman in his office. They are visiting the United States as part of the 400th anniversary of publication of the Book of Common Prayer. Seven of them will participate in Episcopal Church services here Sunday.

"I think one of the greatest things that we can do is to mobilize the moral forces of the world for a real awakening of the things that originate in the Sermon on the Mount," the President said.

'Very Delightful'

"That is what we try to live by, and if we can get all the world in that frame of mind, we will come nearer stopping these terrible wars than by any other method that I know of."

Later, the Most Rev. John C. H. How, Primus of the Scottish Episcopal Church, characterized

Morgenthau Ill, Call to Meeting Here Discloses

With Henry Morgenthau, jr., United Jewish Appeal general chairman, seriously ill of pneumonia in New York hospital, the U. J. A. will open an emergency conference here today. Inadequate cash contributions have jeopardized the U. J. A.'s entire 1949 campaign.

Mrs. Morgenthau is reported critically ill at the same hospital.

Eight hundred Jewish leaders have been summoned to the two-day meeting at the Hotel Statler because the present rate of cash contributions and pledges indicates the 1949 gifts will fall substantially short of the 150 million dollars raised in 1948.

Virtually all money raised is used to help immigrants settle in Israel. There are between 70,000 and 80,000 Jews in camps in Israel.

U. S. Salesmen To Give British Business Tips

By Chalmers M. Roberts
Post Reporter

America's top sales executives yesterday agreed to give the British some tips on how to boost their declining sales in the United States and thus solve their dollar crisis.

The board of directors of the National Sales Executives, closing a two-day meeting at the Hotel Statler, voted to accept a British request to send a 10-man sales team to England and Scotland next February.

The American sales group, which represents executives who boss some two million salesmen, was asked for the mission by the Incorporated Sales Managers Association, its British counterpart.

NSE President Robert A. Whitney said he expects the idea to develop into an Anglo-American Council on Distribution, similar to the United States-British Productivity Council, which yesterday received warm praise from Sir Stafford Cripps. The productivity group, under the aegis of the Economic Cooperation Administration, has been improving British production methods so British products can better compete in world markets.

Britons to Come Here

A British sales group will come here in the spring, Whitney said. The British association has been after Cripps to help set up a joint sales body to parallel the productivity council. ECA favors the idea, as does Treasury Secretary John Snyder.

Whitney said the reason the British are not selling enough goods in the United States is not because their prices are too high—as they have said themselves—but because their sales techniques are not designed for the American market.

"They need to send their sales managers here," Whitney told a reporter, "to find out what America wants and then style their business to American desires. They've been shipping just what they normally make rather than making things for our markets."

Whitney takes a "there's-plenty-

Currencies' Balancing Vital, Say Cripps, Bevin

Failure Can Void Free Democracies' Political, Military Gains, They Warn

By Ferdinand Kuhn
Post Reporter

Sir Stafford Cripps, the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Ernest Bevin, the Foreign Secretary, warned yesterday that Britain and the United States might lose the Cold War unless they could work out a new balance of sterling-dollar trade.

Both ministers, speaking at a National Press Club luncheon, proudly recalled what the western democracies had done in the last 18 months to build political and military defenses against communism.

"But all this progress will be in vain," said Cripps, in a carefully prepared speech, "if we fail to provide a sound economic basis for these combined efforts of the free democracies."

Horror Always With Us

And Bevin, echoing his cabinet colleague in brief impromptu remarks, said "the horror has always been with us" that a failure in the economic field might disrupt the political unity built up by the western union agreement, the Marshall Plan and the Atlantic Pact.

Both ministers expressed confidence of ultimately finding solutions, although neither one advanced any new suggestion.

Cripps hinted, in fact, that it might be years before the pound sterling could again be freely convertible into dollars.

"As we found at the time of the disastrous declaration of convertibility in 1947," said Cripps, "directly one currency is declared convertible, while dollars still remain in short supply, everyone in the world tries to use that currency to convert their own into dollars or gold. No currency can bear such an unregulated and unlimited strain—it is too great.

Equilibrium First Goal

"In other words, our first task must be to establish a new trading equilibrium to take the place of that which was destroyed in the two wars. Only after this is done"—and Cripps emphasized the word "after"—"will it be possible to have convertibility of currencies—dollars, pounds, francs, guilders and all the rest.

"And I may add that no country stands to gain more from this convertibility than Britain, whose past viability and prosperity was dependent on its ability to offset its surpluses in trade with some areas against its deficits with others.

"But these most desirable objectives cannot be attained by a wave of the hand. They can only be the result of prolonged and continued effort, as your President said at Philadelphia—effort to bring about equilibrium on the basis of an expanding world economy."

If any American officials still thought sterling could be made convertible soon—and fewer of them think so than in 1947—Cripps' words were a dash of icy water.

The Chancellor had seldom been so firm in public in saying that convertibility of the pound would

5-Year-Old Girl Is Kidnaped on Trenton Street

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 9 (U.P.).—An unidentified man kidnaped a 5-year-old girl on a residential street here tonight, police reported.

A teletype alarm identified the child as Janie Franz. It said she was picked up by a man driving a 1936 or 1937 sedan bearing New Jersey license plates.

Police described her abductor as about 30 years old, 5 feet 8 inches tall and stockily built.

A 5-year-old boy told police he saw the man force the girl into the car, which sped away toward the nearby Pennsylvania State line.

Action Follows Hot Dispute

Capitol Press Group Extends Many Gallery Admission Rules

The Standing Committee of Correspondents, which governs the congressional press galleries, yesterday voted unanimously to continue many of the old admission standards that have been in effect for years.

The five-man committee left otherwise unchanged a proposed new rule giving the governing group broad discretion to make and interpret regulations limiting gallery membership to "bona fide correspondents of repute in their profession."

The old standards were revived in the basic rule following a hot dispute among Washington correspondents over the proposed change wiping them off the books. Some 55 newsmen had petitioned the committee to reconsider its action.

These had protested the change gave the committee discretionary power and should have been submitted in a referendum to the full gallery membership.

The committee failed, by a 3 to 2 vote, to submit the latest change to gallery members, but the committee's action was posted in House and Senate press galleries.

The changes cannot become final unless or until approved by the Senate Rules Committee and the Speaker of the House.

Yesterday's committee vote would add the following language to the substitute rule proposed August 24 by a 3 to 2 vote:

"Provided, however, that the Standing Committee of Correspondents shall admit to the galleries no person who does not establish to the satisfaction of the Standing Committee all of the following:

7 Ounces of New Germ Weapon Held Enough to End Mankind

St. Cergue, Switzerland, Sept. 9 (U.P.).—Brock Chisholm, director-general of the World Health Organization, said today that new developments in bacteriological warfare had made the atom bomb obsolete.

"Mankind can be wiped out by seven ounces of a known biologic agent if it is spread wide enough," the Canadian psychiatrist told the international conference of the World Union of Peace Organizations.

He called for a radical change in the pattern of human behavior if mankind's fight for survival is to meet the challenge of "whether man will succeed in controlling his ability to kill himself."

Chisholm said the atom bomb was "child's play" compared to the developments in bacteriological warfare. He declared "large armies, air forces, navies and even atomic weapons are obsolete, and manpower and industrial strength are unimportant."

He said "a small country with a couple of bacteriologists and a few fanatics to act as distributors

Destructive, Says Taft of Trade Bill

By The Associated Press

Senator Taft (R., Ohio) declared in the Senate yesterday that the reciprocal trade agreements bill as passed by the House would give President Truman "the power to destroy American industry."

Already, he said, the oil, wool, pottery, glass, watchmaking and bicycle industries have sustained damage under the now expired law under which the President negotiated mutual tariff cuts with other countries.

With debate on the bill in its third day, there were these other developments:

1. Senator Thomas (D., Okla.) offered an amendment to limit imports of foreign oil to 5 per cent of the domestic United States demand.

2. Senator Butler (R., Nebr.) charged that the State Department is "sabotaging" the Agricultural Department's price support program by advocating lower tariffs on farm products.

Want Free Trade

Taft told his colleagues that those who oppose the so-called "peril point" amendment sponsored by Republicans simply want this country placed on a basis of free trade with all the world.

The amendment, opposed by the Administration, would require the Tariff Commission to fix the point at which it thinks a reduction in rates would damage American industry. The President could go ahead with such a reduction but would have to explain his action to Congress.

Taft said that without this mild restriction the bill would give the President "arbitrary power with no standard whatever."

Taft said that even if the peril point amendment were adopted, he probably will vote against the bill.

Senator Thomas's proposal to curb imports of foreign oil drew strong support from Senators representing petroleum-producing States. One of those who said in advance that he would vote for the amendment was Senator Connally (D., Tex.), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee which approved the trade bill.

The domestic demand for petroleum now is about five million barrels a day. Five per cent of that is 250,000 barrels. Thomas said that imports now are running about 600,000 barrels a day, while domestic production is down 900,000 barrels a day below the level of last December.

To Few Corporations

The Oklahoma Senator, arguing for his amendment, told the Senate:

In oil we find the benefits of unrestricted imports flowing not to citizens of other countries but primarily to the few large corporations engaged in world trade in petroleum."

Butler said the State Department policy permitted foodstuffs to be sent to this country in the face of existing surpluses. He declared, for example, that the State Department's policy encouraged Canada to ship potatoes to the United States last year at a time when the Commodity Credit Corporation was buying surplus United States potatoes.

Lucas Blames Republicans

Meanwhile, Senator Lucas of Illinois, Democratic leader, placed a statement in the Congressional Record declaring that the restrictions written into the trade agreements law by the Republican-controlled Eightieth Congress last year had "practically destroyed" the program.

Lucas charged that the Republican opponents of the Administration bill are high-tariff men who want to return to the high rates of the Smoot-Hawley tariff. Lucas declared that law was "one of the major factors in producing the depression of 1931 and 1932."

From St. Louis

Veep Vague On Status With Widow

Chicago, Sept. 9 (AP).—Vice President Alben Barkley told a Chicago luncheon club today "I have no way of knowing whether I'll make the grade" in his much-publicized romance with Mrs. Carleton Hadley of St. Louis.

The Vice President jocularly referred to the luncheon president's remark that it was too bad today's meeting couldn't have been designated "Ladies' Day."

(Mrs. Hadley did not accompany Barkley here).

"I appreciate the reference of the president to the impossibility of having this as Ladies' Day," Barkley grinned. "I didn't understand the spelling—whether he meant 'ladies' day' or 'lady's day'.

"In either case, I deeply appreciate the reference, as well as your sympathetic interest . . ."

"I have no way of knowing whether I'll make the grade or not, but it's wonderful to have so many people pulling for me."

Spaak Urges Sacrifices to Unite Europe

Strasbourg, Sept. 9 (NYHT).—Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium, president of the European Consultative Assembly, called on the nations of Europe today to make economic sacrifices in the interest of creating a European union.

Spaak said the Council of Ministers of the Council of Europe probably will meet at Strasbourg before November 10.

Spaak again declared he believed in the possibility as well as the necessity of a European union, and again confessed he felt a "little disappointment at the resolution of the economic committee which was "not energetic and precise enough."

"The great danger is that people will hesitate to sacrifice anything of their present position and present advantages. But we will have to sacrifice some of our immediate interests for the sake of higher but more distant interests. Unless we build Europe on certain economic sacrifices we will not be able to build it at all."

Annual Meeting Set Tuesday for World Bank, Fund

The fourth annual meeting of the World Bank and International Monetary Fund will open Tuesday following the British dollar crisis conference here.

In a joint announcement yesterday, the international lending agencies said the sessions of the boards of governors will last for four days.

Maurice Petsche, French Foreign Minister, will preside over the meetings of the bank's board, and Pierre Mendes-France, chairman of the funds board will preside over the fund sessions.

The governors are for the most part the finance ministers or central bank heads of their respective countries. They include Secretary of the Treasury Snyder and, for Britain, Sir Stafford Cripps, both principals in the dollar conference now in progress.

Resignation Of Bruce Now In Effect

JAMES BRUCE
Back to Maryland

The White House said yesterday that James Bruce's resignation as Ambassador to Argentina was effective about September 1, more than a week ago.

President Truman told his news conference Thursday that he will appoint Stanton Griffis, New York industrialist and former Ambassador to Poland, as Bruce's successor.

He indicated then that Bruce's resignation had not yet taken effect. The White House explained yesterday, however, that the announcement was merely withheld pending the normal diplomatic inquiry as to whether Griffis was acceptable to Argentina.

Bruce called on the President yesterday but refused afterward to say what his future plans are except that he is going to his farm in Carroll County, Md., for a rest.

The President, in his letter accepting the Ambassador's resignation, referred to Bruce's desire to "return to private life."

Queuille Cites French Gains During Year

Paris, Sept. 9 (NYHT.). — The Queuille cabinet completed today an entire year in office, the first French cabinet to accomplish such a feat since the end of the war.

Premier Henri Queuille, who took office on September 10, 1948, issued today an anniversary statement in which he said the country is now in better condition economically than since 1938. He said steel production has increased from 549,000 tons a month to 767,000 tons, output of coal has risen from four million tons a month to 4,500,000, the franc recovered almost a third of the value it had lost and a record was set for industrial production, 130 of the 1938 index of 100.

Premier Queuille said: "Little by little, our country has freed itself from the fear complex that weighed upon it. I am certain today that the orders of the Communist Party are being followed less and less by French workers."

Since January, 1946, when Gen. Charles de Gaulle resigned, there have been seven different cabinets—an average of a new government every five months.

Queuille had his closest call on July 28 when he won a 289 to 286 vote of confidence as he opposed vacation bonuses for workers.

Greek Army's Wins Called Theoretical

Hoboken, N. J., Sept. 9 (U.P.). Brig. Gen. William A. Matheny, retiring air chief of the American Mission to Greece, said today the recent victories of the Greek army over the guerillas were only "paper victories."

"Too many of the bandits escaped," Matheny said on his arrival here for reassignment.

He said Gen. James A. Van Fleet, head of the mission "has brought an exclusive infantry approach to the situation."

He added he thought the solution lies in the use of much lighter-equipped troops that can move as quickly as the guerillas.

He said the Communist-led units are enforcing American aid to Greece into military channels and are thus preventing its use to build up the country's economy.

Matheny has been named chief of staff of the Continental Air Command's eastern defense division at Mitchel Field, N. Y.

East German Soviet-Planned, Reports Say

Berlin, Sept., 9 (AP).—Russia plans to give eastern Germany a Communist government and lead it into her Cominform of Soviet satellites within six months, responsible informants said today.

Non-Communist political leaders in eastern Berlin report the "German People's Democracy" will be built around the Socialist Unity (Communist) Party in the five East German lands (provinces) with Berlin as the capital.

Informants disagreed as to the exact timing of the step. Some said it would be sprung during the New York meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers this month.

Others believed it would be held off until Soviet zone elections tentatively set for October or November.

A high American source said "something is afoot just about on those lines. So far the Russians have absolutely failed to sell their brand of communism to the majority of Germans in their zone."

West German Leaders Seek Parties' Accord

Bonn, Germany, Sept 9 (U.P.).—The leaders of western Germany's largest political parties today worked to repair differences which threatened to wreck the coalition government before it had even begun to operate.

While Konrad Adenauer, of the Christian Democrats (CDU) met with Karl Arnold, leftitst leader of that party, Kurt Schumacher and Carlo Schmid of the Social Democrats (SPD) talked secretly with Thomas Dehler of the Free Democrats.

Informed sources said the Free Democrats, Western Germany's third most powerful party, and the Social Democrats, second most powerful, might agree on a "neutral candidate" for President who might be acceptable by the Christian Democrats. They mentioned Hans Schlange Schoeningen, bizonal food chief, as most likely.

U. S. Urged to Admit 10,000 Arabs as DPs

By The Associated Press

A leader in Palestine relief work yesterday proposed letting 10,000 Arab refugees into this country as displaced persons.

George M. Barakat, executive director of American Middle East Relief, Inc., said it would help strengthen friendly relations with the people of a "vitally strategic area."

He told a Senate Judiciary subcommittee that more than one million Arabs, uprooted from their homes by the Jewish-Arab war in Palestine are in an almost hopeless plight."

The committee is holding hearings on a House-passed bill to liberalize the Displaced Persons Act passed by Congress last year. It also would increase the number of displaced persons who could be admitted to this country.

No Provision for Arabs

But the House bill makes no provision for the entry of Arab refugees. Chairman Celler (D., N. Y.) of the House Judiciary Committee recently assailed the plan to let spokesmen for the Arabs come before the Senate committee with an appeal for aid.

He said the Arabs were the aggressors in the Palestine war and had created the refugee problem among their own people.

Barakat told the Senate group he regretted that Celler "was unable to restrain himself from injecting partisan political considerations" into what he called "a great tragic and human problem."

An American citizen of Arab descent, Barakat said changing the House bill to include Arab refugees would be "a friendly gesture" that would boost the morale of the Arabs.

Director Favors Action

Mrs. Louis Nassif of Wheeling, W. Va., a member of the board of directors of American Middle East Relief, also testified in favor of admitting Arab refugees.

She said she had been an eyewitness to the "misery and suffering of the refugees" and told the committee that Lebanon and Syria and other Middle Eastern nations "have strained themselves to the breaking point trying to help them."

A band of Americans who flew around the world found it a "somewhat depressing" place, one of the travelers said yesterday.

Almost everywhere they went they were shocked and saddened by the plight of displaced persons, said Dr. Guy Snavely, director of the Association of American Colleges.

And they were alarmed, particularly in the Middle East and India, by smoldering national hatreds and the threat of further conflict.

Convinced of Turmoil

"If we hadn't realized it before, this trip convinced us the world is in a turmoil," Snavely told a reporter.

"The trouble between the Hindus and the Moslems, continuing in the wake of the massacres at the time of partition, has filled the cities of India and Pakistan with starving refugees.

"On a much smaller scale there is the conflict between the Arabs and the Jews.

"And many nations are afraid of the way communism may grow if they cannot feed and clothe the people."

Snavely is one of the first of the 33 members of the globe-girdling "town meeting of the air" to return home.

Hongkong, Sept. 9 (U.P.). — Two thousand British troops arrived in Hongkong today to reinforce this Communist-threatened island.

Winchell Will Have New Sponsor Next Year

New York, Sept. 9 (U.P.).—The American Broadcasting Co. said today it will continue broadcasting Walter Winchell's weekly program next year, but Kaiser-Frazer will no longer be the sponsor.

Kaiser-Frazer will not continue in network radio after this year, ABC said. Winchell's 1950 sponsor will be announced soon, the network said.

U. S. Air Experts Hail British 'Comet'

Slightly Bruised

Chute Fails, GI Plunges 1000 Feet

Fort Benning, Ga., Sept. 9 (U.P.). An Army paratrooper, screaming for divine help, plunged 1000 feet in an almost free fall yesterday and escaped with a case of nerves and bruises.

Hendrix

Sergt. James P. Hendrix of LcPanto, Ark., was the 13th man to bail out of a plane nine miles from here during a routine jump.

Hendrix said his main chute was caught in the backwash of the prop and blew against him, the chute shrouds becoming entangled in his boot buckles.

At 500 feet, he jerked the emergency rip cord. It opened for a moment, then became enmeshed with the other chute and Hendrix plummeted earthward with nothing above him but flapping silk and tangled lines.

"I screamed to God for help as I fell helpless," Hendrix said.

An instant before he hit the ground, Hendrix said he summoned all his strength and pulled his body into a V-shape, head and feet high. That permitted him to roll when he hit the ground.

Hendrix said he couldn't move for a few minutes after hitting, but after the initial shock his faculties returned.

He was rushed to the hospital where doctors said he apparently had only a case of nerves and minor bruises.

(Sergeant Hendrix received the Medal of Honor from President Truman at the White House in August, 1945, for heroism during the Battle of the Bulge. While in Washington as a guest of the Army, Hendrix and his party were asked to leave the Willard Hotel dining room because his father was in shirt sleeves.)

Farnborough, England, Sept. 9. (U.P.).—Britain has far outstripped the United States in perfecting the first pure jet and turbo-prop commercial airliners, American visitors to Britain's greatest air show here said today.

Top executives from American airlines and representatives from the Civil Aeronautics Administration carefully inspected the 4-jet 32-passenger De Havilland Comet and four turbine-powered craft of similar design.

The Comet has almost reached the speed of sound and its regular cruising speed is 500 miles per hour.

The new turbo-prop airliners, the only ones hin the world, and the jet Comet are tried and tested planes with proved commercial worth.

Executives Amazed

Top executives of the three scheduled American airlines flying to Europe were amazed at the speed, rate of climb and vibrationless flight of the new airliners.

The American executives indicated their companies soon would have to consider seriously putting jet airliners on their runs. This would mean British-built airliners.

Gen. Harold R. Harris, vice president and chairman of American Overseas Airways, called the development of the Comet "a great forward step . . . America has nothing to compare with it."

Denies Orders Placed

John C. Collins, vice president for operations of Trans-World Airlines, said he felt "considerable progress has been made with this beautifully designed airplane." He denied that TWA already had placed a "sizable order."

Charles W. Yates, United Kingdom district manager for TWA, said "as far as I can see, the transition from piston engine airliners to jet would be fairly easy."

A spokesman for Pan American Airways said its officials were "tremendously impressed."

"The shoe is on the other foot now," one British aviation writer said. "For the past five years we have been buying Constellations, Skymasters, Dakotas and other American-built aircraft for our airlines. Now America will have to buy from us."

Shooting Seen 3-Man Canton Fight Climax

Canton, China, Sept. 9 (AP).—Two prominent American members of the Canton foreign colony, wounded in unexplained gunplay that caused a third man's death, both asked today to see the attractive blonde wife of one of them.

"Tell Maya to come to see me," gasped Leonard Clark, 42-year-old San Francisco explorer as he was being treated with oxygen for a bullet wound in the lung.

He referred to Mrs. Maya Freeman, vivacious Polish wife of his friend, William Freeman, 41-year-old businessman from Bridgewater, Mass.

"Where's Maya? Tell her to come see me," said Freeman from another room in Canton emergency hospital. He apparently was unaware he was near death from two bullet wounds in the abdomen.

Nor did Freeman know that his business associate, Harold Harris, 45, Shanghai-born British subject, had been killed.

Both Clark and Harris were house guests in the Freeman home, where the shooting occured about 4 a. m. Thursday.

Gangster Hit By 10 Slugs But Survives

Fairfield, Ill., Sept. 9 (AP).—"Little Earl" Shelton, hit by 10 slugs but his pistol still blazing, fought off machinegun assassins in a brisk predawn gun battle today. He was the fourth of the notorious Shelton clan to be ambushed in two years—the second to survive the attack.

Shelton

At Deaconess Hospital in Evansvile, Ind., where he was taken by ambulance, the 33-year-old Shelton's condition was reported "fair." He was hit in the thigh, legs and head.

Shelton, fired upon from a parked car as he drove up to his home here, complained:

"The dirty dogs never even let me get out of the car for a shot at them."

"Little Earl" is the nephew of Carl and Bernie Shelton, who were shot to death, and of "Big Earl," who was critically wounded in earlier ambush attacks. The older Sheltons led a gang that terrorized southern Illinois during the prohibition era.

Police wanted to question "Black" Charlie Harris, one-time ally of the Sheltons who later fell out with them.

Cohen Fears Aide Has Been Murdered

Los Angeles, Sept. 9 (U.P.).—A worried and nervous Mickey Cohen today called in police to search for his friend and chief lieutenant, Frank Niccoli, 38, missing for a week and feared dead by the pudgy gang leader.

Police Chief William A. Worton refused to get excited about Niccoli's absence, declaring he had word the missing man was seen Wednesday.

Dock Strike Talks Show No Progress

New York, Sept. 8 (AP).—The third day of peace talks in the Hawaiian dock strike ended today with United States Mediation Chief Cyrus S. Ching reporting "no progress."

"I wouldn't say we'd made any progress," Ching told reporters after all-day conferences with negotiators for the CIO International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union and the Hawaiian Employers Council.

The 73-year-old mediator added, however:

"This thing should begin to round out one way or the other by tomorrow night."

Ching summoned representatives of both sides to the conciliation service offices at 9:30 a. m. (EST) tomorrow. He said he hadn't decided whether to hold a joint session or to meet with each side separately as he did today.

He met first today with the employers in a morning session that stretched into the afternoon.

Then he delved into the wage issue with Union Chief Harry Bridges. Bridges left the meeting without seeing reporters.

Ching then went to the Plaza Hotel, where the employer representatives are staying. He said he wanted to give them "two or three new angles" to consider overnight.

He wouldn't say what these angles were.

Earlier, employer spokesmen were pessimistic about the situation.

"I have no particular feeling of progress," said W. Russell Starr, an employer spokesman after one in the series of conferences with Ching.

Wages remained the chief issue in the long dispute. Starr said money was discussed both yesterday and today and that other issues were not touched upon.

Bridges originally demanded a 32 cents an hour increase for 2000 Hawaiian dock workers. They were making about $1.40 an hour. He trimmed this demand to 26 cents or less. The best employer offer was 14 cents, later withdrawn.

Other issues are union demands that 1000 dockmen now taking the place of the strikers be barred from post-strike employment and that the union's right to refuse to cross picket lines be guaranteed.

15 Navy Ships In Mediterranean Being Relieved

The Navy announced yesterday that 15 ships now on duty in the Mediterranean will be relieved by a slightly larger force about September 16, under the rotation of assignment system.

The vessels now in the Mediterranean are the large aircraft carrier Coral Sea, the light cruisers Fargo and Juneau, the destroyers Cone, Stribling, Meredith, Vesole, Leary, Dyess, Bordelon, Brownson, R. H. McCard and C. H. Roan, the cargo ship Marquette, and the LST 980.

They will return to East Coast ports.

The relief vessels, now en route from East Coast ports, are the aircraft carrier Leyte, heavy cruiser Des Moines, light cruiser Worcester, the destroyers English, Hank, W. L. Lind, J. W. Weeks, Ault, Haynsworth, J. P. Kennedy, jr., W. R. Rush, Johnston, Fiske, Turner, C. P. Cecil, and N. K. Perry, the submarine Tigrone and the cargo ship Algol.

U. S. Diplomats Being Recalled From Hankow

NYHT News Service

The United States ordered the closing of the American consulate general in Hankow and the reduction by half of the embassy at Nanking and the consulate general at Shanghai yesterday because of the failure of Communist authorities to "discharge the normal obligations of international intercourse."

It was also learned that complete withdrawal of American Embassy and consular personnel from Communist-held China may be ordered if the Communists continue to disregard the minimum standards of international law. Communist authorities apparently are doing everything possible to make Americans "lose face."

The present plan, is to maintain official representation until a decision is made on whether or not the United States will recognize a Communist government.

Findings Due This Afternoon In Steel Row

The report and recommendation of the President's fact-finding committee in the steel dispute will be made public by the White House at 5 p. m. today.

President Truman is expected to issue, simultaneously or immediately thereafter, a call to the CIO Steelworkers Union to delay for a short period a strike scheduled for Wednesday midnight.

On the basis of the board's report, efforts will be made by the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service to effect a settlement between the union and the steel companies. The President's request for a delay would be to give the Conciliation Service a reasonable period of time to find a peace formula.

Paper Reports Indications Strike Will Be Averted

New York, Sept. 9 (AP).—The New York Post-Home News today said there are "strong indications" the steel fact-finding board's report to the President will avert a national steel strike.

But neither the steel industry nor the CIO Steelworkers Union will like the board's recommendations, Murray Kempton wrote for the newspaper in reviewing what he called an "apparently solid" version of the guarded report.

On the main point—pay and benefits—Kempton said the board is likely to ask the steel companies to grant a 10-cent-an-hour "package," in contrast to the 30-cent-an-hour demand by the union.

Only a small part of this would show up in wages, with most of the raise going for pensions and medical insurance, Kempton said.

Unions in Four States Back Strike, 15 to 1

Pittsburgh, Sept. 9. (AP).—CIO United Steelworkers in four States have voted 15 to 1 to strike if agreement on demands is not reached with the steel industry, the union announced today.

Steelworkers headquarters released the count from Minnesota, Wisconsin, Utah and Missouri. All four States require a strike vote. Results were:

Minnesota—9928 yes, 746 no; Utah—3183 yes, 428 no; Misouri—2055 yes, 170 no; Wisconsin—690 yes, 48 no.

Egg Price Support Will Continue During October

The Agriculture Department said yesterday that it will support prices on eggs during October at the same 35 cent-a-dozen rate that has been in effect since January.

The department already has bought 80 million dollars worth of eggs, nearly 180 million dozen, so far this year.

The department said the support program is being continued in the Mid-west because of lack of demand for large supplies of low quality eggs. This factor, it said, tends to force the average farm price of all eggs below the support level required by law.

Fourth Army Gets Lutes as Commander

The Army yesterday named Lieut. Gen. Leroy Lutes as commander of the Fourth Army with headquarters at San Antonio.

He will assume his new command about October 15, succeeding Gen. Thomas T. Handy who recently took over as commander in chief of the European command.

Strike at Bell Under Control, Dewey Says

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 9 (U.P.).—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey tonight said conditions at the strike-bound Bell Aircraft plant had "definitely improved" and that local law enforcement agencies were in control of the situation.

After a conference with the sheriffs and district attorneys of Erie and Niagara Counties, Dewey said he was convinced law and order could be maintained by local officers. He agreed, however, to have eight State troopers take over duties of the Niagara sheriff's office not connected with the strike.

Sheriff Henry E. Becker of Niagara County told the Governor he had built up his force to 125 men in the past two days and "is still appointing new deputies."

Invitation Not Accepted

"He (Becker) states he now believes that under conditions now prevailing he can preserve law and order," Dewey said.

"The sheriff and district attorney informed me that they make no request for other State police assistance or for the National Guard."

The Governor, however, said he would invoke a war emergency law if new rioting broke out at the Niagara Falls Bell plant.

He pointed out that he could call police from Buffalo, Niagara Falls or Rochester. The sheriff's forces of all the surrounding counties could be used.

Representatives of the Bell company also were on hand at the meeting, but those of the CIO United Automobile Workers did not accept Dewey's invitation to attend.

"They failed to appear and their failure speaks for itself," Dewey said.

The Governor's staff was in close touch with Msgr. John Boland, mediator of the dispute. He reported an agreement had been obtained from the union leaders that there would be no more violence.

Picketing Now Quiet

Meanwhile, strikers quietly picketed the Bell plant today. Nonstrikers were allowed to pass through picket lines unmolested.

As the workers passedfi jeering pickets offered no resistance, in contrast to the violence which injured 30 persons earlier this week.

Of the 25 strikers for whom warrants were issued Thursday, eight were arrested in a matter of hours and lodged in Niagara County jails. The remaining warrants were said to include the names of Regional UAW-CIO Director Martin Gerer and his assistant, Edward F. Gray.

Nineteen other strikers were arrested this morning as they loitered near the scene of one of yesterday's big melees south of the plant. Newly deputized volunteers found clubs and rocks in the strikers' automobiles, they reported.

Nineteen were arraigned before a police justice on charges of having dangerous weapons in their possession.

increase have been in progress for two months and are in the hands of a Federal mediator.

S. J. Beyhan, executive vice president, said the millers have received three wage increases totaling 24 cents in the past three years. They now average $1.215 an hour.

Board Creation Delays Monongahela Walkout

President Truman yesterday created an emergency board to investigate a labor dispute on the Monongahela Connecting Railroad. His action heads off a strike that had been called for 4 p. m. today.

Names of the board members will be announced later.

Under the Railway Labor Act, the creation of the board automatically suspends a strike for 60 days.

Argentine Peso Drops In Black Market Value

Buenos Aires, Sept. 9 (AP).—The black market price for the Argentine peso fell today after President Juan Peron proposed eliminating the gold backing of the currency.

Black marketers offered only 9.09 cents for the peso. A week ago the black market price was 9.90 cents and a month ago it was 10.52 cents.

Banished a Year

Eskimo Helps His Mother To Kill Self

Cambridge Bay, Northwest Territory, Sept. 9 (U.P.).—A 21-year-old Eskimo youth began a year's sentence of isolation from the rest of his tribe today as punishment for helping his mother commit suicide.

The Resources Department announced in Ottawa yesterday that the youth, known as Eerkiyoot, was found guilty of the charge. Another Eskimo, Ishakak, also 21, was acquitted of a charge of assisting Eerkiyoot.

The woman, known as Nukashook, 46, was suffering from advanced tuberculosis and was in great pain from her teeth, which were worn almost to the gums, it was testified at Eerkiyoot's trial.

(Eskimo women frequently wear down their teeth by chewing leather to soften it.—Editor's note).

She asked her son to help her die. He requested his friend Ishakak to help him, prosecution evidence showed.

The evidence was that the two went to her tent. Tied a sealskin rope to the ridge pole and placed her head through the loop. Eerkiyoot then pressed down on her head until she was dead.

It was testified Nukashook had asked her son several times to help her die, but he agreed only when she threatened to commit suicide. Eskimo witnesses said it was an Eskimo custom to help the old and sick to die if they so asked.

Memo Linked To Rep. Deane

though he did see the notes in Worth's office.

These notes, he explained, contained material "similar" to that in a speech by Representative Van Zandt (R., Pa.) in the House May 26, in which Van Zandt demanded investigation of the B-36, its performance and procurement policies. The Worth memorandum and Van Zandt's speech both quoted reports and rumors of political influence in stepping up purchases of the big bomber.

Van Zandt has denied he had ever read or owned a copy of the Worth memorandum, but had only "seen" a copy. However, Ingram said yesterday that "the only people I knew that would have copies were Mr. Deane and Mr. Van Zandt."

Asked by Captain Wood if he was "positive" Van Zandt had a copy, Ingram hesitated and then said he was "not certain." Then he pointed to the similarity between material in Van Zandt's speech and in the memorandum.

"I Don't Start Rumors"

Ingram and Wood had a minor brush a little later when the witness said he had a "hunch" Worth had written the document before its authorship became known.

When Wood asked why he didn't inform his superiors, Ingram retorted: "I don't start rumors."

The Navy court learned yesterday that the Air Force has made its own investigation of the Worth memorandum. Vinson wrote the court, which is endeavoring to discover if anyone other than Worth had anything to do with preparing the document, that his committee would decide October 5 whether to give it the Air Force report.

Admiral Thomas G. Kinkaid is president of the court, which is composed of three admirals.

Flying Tigers to Give Air Show Here Sunday

Capt. Tommy Walker, 34-year-old stunt flyer from the Bronx, will crash a plane through a solid wall from full flight, during the Flying Tiger Show, to be held 1:30 to 5:30 p. m. Sunday at the Hybla Valley Airport.

Sponsored by the District of Columbia Department of the American Legion, the show will feature 15 acts, including spins, parachute jumps, wing-walking and others. Proceeds will go to veteran charities.

D. C. Car Sales In Month Show Sharp Decline

By S. Oliver Goodman

After a record-breaking July, Washington new car sales in August slumped to one of the lowest levels of the year.

Registrations last month totaled 1931, as compared with 4465 in July, acording to the Washington Automotive Trade Association.

The sharp drop was attributed to the new 2 per cent excise tax, placed in effect here on August 1. Auto dealers are believed to have exerted pressure to get extra factory deliveries in July in order to save their customers substantial amounts. Some apparently "borrowed" in July on their August allotments.

For the first eight months this year, new car registrations here totaled 22,473, as compared with 19,544 is the same period last year and 17,219 in the 1947 period.

By months, local registrations compared as follows for the past three years:

January	2601	2346	1888
February	1829	1973	1425
March	2497	3151	2766
April	3332	2770	2463
May	2826	2339	2304
June	3300	2600	2210
July	4465	2669	2231
August	1931	2696	1928

STORE SALES: Washington department store sales in the week ended September 3 scored a 5 per cent increase over the same 1948 week, the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond reported yesterday. For the four weeks ended September 3, local dollar volume was 1 per cent below the like period last year. In the Fifth Federal Reserve District, store sales showed no change for the latest week, but were down 5 per cent for the four-week period.

WHO'S WHO TODAY: William D. Schaff is the new general sales manager of the American Trailer Co., Inc., with headquarters at 4030 Wisconsin ave. . . . Leroy S. Clark, vice president of Marine Midland Trust Co. of New York, will address the Fall educational dinner of the Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, on Wednesday night in the Mayflower . . . Ben C. White has been appointed editor of The Certificate, a publication of the D. C. Institute of Certified Public Accountants. . . . Benjamin F. Castle, executive director of the Milk Industry Foundation, will address a local public relations group at a luncheon Monday in the Hotel Sheraton.

BUYS CONTROL: City Stores Co. has acquired stock control in Franklin Simon & Co. by purchasing 161,986 of the outstanding 219,000 common shares from the Atlas Corp. Albert M. Greenfield, City Stores chairman, said there would be no change in management, policies or character of the Simon stores (one of which is in Washington).

WALDORF BANK: A State charter has been granted for the first bank in Waldorf, Md. The proposed institution will have $225,000 capital funds, of which $75,000 will be surplus. The incorporators plan to offer 15,000 shares of $10 par stock at $15 a share. L. Harold Sothoron, attorney for the group, said yesterday the institution will be housed in a new building to be erected on the town's main street near Route 5. The bank is expected to open late this autumn and will be known as The Waldorf Bank. Incorporators are R. Harry Moreland, James P. Ryan, W. Mitchell Digges, William H. Winstead, jr., and P. Henry Bealle.

FOOT NOTE: Comes word from New York, where the National Shoe Retailers Association is meeting, that radically new shoe styles loom for men. The retailers see more "brushed leather" for men, especially in BLUES. And next summer, they say, men's shoes will take on a more open look and more sandals will be worn.

SCRAP TROUBLES: The steel scrap market is more disorganized than it has been since 1948, the Iron Age said. Describing some deliveries at "prices that would have been called fantastic a few weeks ago," the publication noted at the same time that most mills have not come into the open market for big tonnages. "Many mill bids on scrap — from big manufacturing plants," the Iron Age said, "are at least 50 per cent above what they were in June. Prices are poised to get out of hand and it will take some cool buying to hold them in line. This is precisely what big mill buyers feared when the market collapsed early this year—that prices would go too low and that the possibility of real buying would discourage the market and skyrocket prices."

ODD LOTS: Stockholders of National Airlines, Inc., will vote September 23 on a proposal to increase authorized stock by 600,000 shares to cover purchase options with Pan American Airways and W. R. Grace & Co., as part of an interchange agreement . . . A minority stockholder of Eastern States Corp. has brought an injunction suit, seeking to stop a stock trade involving the St. Regis Paper Co. . . . International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. and its Buenos Aires subsidiary have concluded financial arrangements covering payment of 20 million dollars for telephone material to be exported to the Argentine . . . Mack Trucks, Inc., announced plans to combine its New Brunswick and Plainfield, N. J., plants as an economy move.

Window Broken

Cross Burns In Northeast Front Yard

A crude cross, covered with oil-soaked rags, burned briefly in the 1700 block of M st. ne. early yesterday, just 12 hours after a Negro family moved into an all-white block of modest row houses.

Ralph Sneed, 30, and his wife, Vinita, 25, the new occupants of 1709 M st. ne., told police they were awakened about 1 a. m. by breaking glass as rocks were hurled through the living room window. They found neighbors in their front yard extinguishing the flaming cross with hoses.

Police said they believe the cross was set up and burned by teen-age white boys. Several youths were seen hanging around the Sneed home late Thursday night, neighbors told police.

Lived A Few Blocks Away

An all-night police patrol was detailed in the area. Police have been instructed to keep a protective eye on the Sneed home for the next few nights to prevent further trouble.

Sneed, a mail clerk in the Navy's Bureau of Aeronautics, said he is buying the home from a private party. The Sneds lived only a few blocks way at 2012 Maryland ave. ne. before moving into their new home.

Kerosene Lamp Thrown

A Marine Corps veteran of World War II who saw duty at Iwo Jima, Sneed said he had been given no warning there might be trouble. They intend to stay, he said, but added, "I certainly hope nothing like this will happen again."

The cross was about 3½ feet high and 2 feet wide. In addition to several rocks, an empty kerosene lamp was hurled through one of the windows.

Cross Burned Near New Baltimore County School

Towson, Md., Sept. 9 (AP).—Baltimore County police said a 12-foot cross was burned early today in a Negro community near here.

It was placed on a hill at Sandy Bottom, just north of Towson.

Police said they extinguished the flaming cross, which was visible for miles. It was made of gasoline-soaked fiber rugs and burlap tied with baling wire.

Officers said there were a number of footprints and tire tracks around the cross.

Baltimore County school authorities joined the investigation today because the cross was burned near the new two-million-dollar Carver High School for Negroes.

They expressed a belief the incident was an outgrowth of protests made by white residents over the school's location. The fall term began yesterday.

Mother Held As Smotherer Of New Baby

Montgomery County police yesterday charged a 38-year-old mother with manslaughter in the death of her new-born baby who, detectives said, was wrapped in a newspaper last June and left in a closet to smother.

The mother was identified as Mrs. Irene Nancy Douglass of Washington Grove. Police said they learned of the strange death only this week through a tip.

Police said that after the baby was born last June 15 at the Douglass home, Mrs. Douglass told her husband, John, that the child had been stillborn and they buried it beneath their house.

In an investigation, however, detectives said one of the Douglass' four children, a 14-year-old girl, told them the baby was wrapped in newspaper and some cloth and, still alive, was placed in the closet.

The baby's decomposed body was exhumed Thursday night. County Medical Examiner Dr. Frank Broschart, unable to determine the cause of death, had the body sent to the office of Maryland's chief medical examiner in Baltimore for a thorough autopsy.

Mrs. Douglass was released in $500 bond for a hearing in Rockville Police Court at 9:30 a. m. September 29.

Man Shot Witness Who Opposed Him, Police Charge

A 29-year-old laborer was held for action of the Alexandria grand jury yesterday, charged with shooting a man who had testified against him at a previous trial.

Alexandria police said Walter Lee Reynolds of 230 N. Henry st., had been convicted of a misdemeanor there a few months ago on the testimony of Whitney Eugene of 224 N. Henry st.

When Reynolds got out of jail, police say, he went looking for Eugene and shot him in the leg on July 29. Reynolds, who was arrested Thursday, pleaded innocent in Alexandria Civil and Police Court but was held under $2500 bond.

Prague, Sept., 9 (AP).—Long-strained relations between Czechoslovakia's Communist government and the Vatican appeared at the breaking point tonight.

Roman Catholic sources at the Vatican said relations were considered virtually broken off because the Czech government had refused an entry visa to the Holy See's new charge d'affaires for its nunciature to Prague.

This amounts to refusal to accept an envoy. Spokesman for the Czech foreign ministry refused to explain why the visa had not been granted or to admit officially that it had been refused.

Other Developments

Other developments in the state-church controversy included:

A declaration by lay teachers of religion that they would refuse to submit to government control of their teaching and that parents should withdraw the children from religious classes in state schools.

A Vatican order to Czechoslovak priests to refuse to take a government-dictated oath of loyalty.

New bombardment of the Pope in the government-controlled press with charges he is supporting alleged German aspirations to regain the former Sudentenland from Czechoslovakia and the war-lost eastern territories from Poland.

Last With Full Relations

Czechoslokavia is the last Soviet orbit country retaining full diplomatic relations with the Vatican.

These relations now rest on one man, Msgr. Ottavio de Liva, nunciature secretary and formerly the lowest-ranking of its personnel.

The Vatican envoy who has been unable to gain admittance to Czechoslokavia is Msgr. Paolo Bertoli, appointed in July.

are as powerful as the largest in a military sense."

Chisholm said bacteriological research, originally begun by Germany, was cloaked in secrecy but had achieved "almost unbelievable developments."

One bacteriological weapon which he did not identify could kill all life within six hours of being spread, he said.

"Six hours later its lethalness is entirely dissipated from contact with air and an occupation force can be sent in," he said. "This makes it an ideal weapon, militarily speaking."

He said dealings between peoples should be placed in the hands of specialists trained in human relationships, since "one more war can result in the killing of as much as nine tenths of the human race."

He told delegates the United Nations was a step in the proper direction of conducting world affairs in the interests of humanity but that more world citizens were needed if the U. N. was to fulfill its ideal.

Rape Attempt Charge Against Ward Is Dropped

Fairfax County officials yesterday dropped a charge of attempted rape against a Civil Service Commission employe when the alleged victim's father withdrew the complaint.

Cleared as a result of the action was Mahlon C. Ward, 50, of Groveton, who had been accused of entering a home at Spring Bank August 29 and attacking a 5-year-old girl.

Lytton H. Gibson, assistant Commonwealth's Attorney, said that after studying the facts he told the girl's parents he thought they had a "very weak case." The girl's father then withdrew the complaint, and Trial Justice Harry L. Carrico said he would dismiss the case.

Drowning Held Suicide

Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald yesterday issued a certificate of suicide in the death of Raymond McDaniel, 37, of 2117 10th st. nw., who was drowned after he walked into the Eastern Branch of the Anacosta River Thursday afternoon.

Yugo Radio, Press Silent On U. S. Loan

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Sept. 9 (U.P.).—Belgrade's radio and press today virtually ignored the United States' 20-million-dollar loan to Yugoslavia, although some Yugoslavs heard about it on foreign broadcasts.

The only local mention was made in the last newscast of the Belgrade radio. It briefly reported the loan and its terms of payment with no comment.

The Communist Information Bureau (Cominform) radio lost no time in railing against the new "evidence" of Marshal Tito's "sell-out" to the "imperialists."

The official Yugoslav silence on the loan was somewhat surprising since it was reported that a simultaneous announcement was planned here. The Yugoslavs also have kept mum on the Polish government's charges that the Yugoslav embassy in Warsaw was a "spies' nest."

Soviet Aide Assails Tito in Sofia Talk

Belgrade, Sept. 9 (NYHT).—Marshal Nicolai A. Bulganin, vice president of the Soviet council of ministers, attacked Premier Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia last night in an address in Sofia as "Judas Tito" who turned Yugoslavia into a "veritable gestapo prison."

Broad View Of Auto Test

Dorch hesitated, Snow was told, and asked Dorch the questions verbally, marking down the answers.

Dorch returned to the test room, Snow said, and presented the paper. Snow noted it was 100 per cent accurate and that the handwriting differed from the form submitted in the morning.

The case was brought to court and Dorch, through his attorney, declined to contest the charge.

Dorch denied intending to break the law.

At this point, Judge Milton S. Kronheim, who was presiding, picked up the form and gave Dorch the test.

After it was over, the judge said Dorch had answered perfectly.

"Case dismissed, judgment, not guilty," said the judge.

Operation Slums

It is good to see the District's slum clearance and low-rental housing program going into operation once more. The promising movement inaugurated in the thirties for the rehousing of slum dwellers was necessarily halted by the war, and Congress was slow in permitting it to operate again. But the planning loan of $550,000 granted to the National Capital Housing Authority by the Public Housing Administration will set the wheels in motion once more. If the projects for which detailed plans will now be drawn are approved by PHA, loans permitting the construction of 4000 low-rent dwellings will be forthcoming.

Fortunately, the NCHA already owns two sites, one at Stanton rd. and Alabama ave. and the other at Ridge and Anacostia rds., on which it can build a total of approximately 400 housing units. This should enable it to make a prompt beginning. Fortunately, too, its site acquisition powers have been restored so that land for the additional projects may be acquired without waiting for the Lumstrung Redevelopment Land Agency to take over the land-purchase and clearance functions in slum areas. Because of the acute congestion of low-rent housing, it may be assumed that most of the new units to be built by the NCHA will be on vacant land or in sparsely occupied slum areas. Houses into which slum dwellers may move must be provided before any substantial amount of demolition can be undertaken.

This does not mean, however, that the new public housing program will be divorced from reclamation of the slums. On the contrary, the NCHA is preparing to renew its cooperation agreement with the District Commissioners under which the city fathers will guarantee the removal of one substandard dwelling for each new housing unit provided under the terms of the new National Housing Act. NCHA housing will thus displace disease-breeding slums but not likely on the same spot. As the congestion in low-rental quarters is relieved, the worst areas of blight and decay in the older sections of the city can be attacked. Because of the strain imposed upon local housing by the war, we can see no reasonable alternative to this approach.

Speed Madness

The Cleveland air tragedy is only the latest in a long list of grim accidents that have cost the lives of participants and spectators who assemble to witness the daredevil feats of men who risk their lives in an endeavor to win fame and money by breaking speed records. This time, however, a young mother and her baby, some miles away from the racing course, went to their deaths in the hideous crash that destroyed their home. And the public, or at least that section of it that lives near the scene of the accident, is aroused by a sense of community peril to demand that closed-course air races be banned in heavily populated areas.

In reply the race officials say they are considering moving the races to Los Angeles, Detroit or Chicago, but are hoping that sentiment against the races will subside and they will be able to continue to operate their death-dealing show at the old stand. We hope, however, that the residents of Cleveland will not permit public indignation to wane. On the contrary, we want to see it fanned into a flame that will arouse the country and put a stop to air races, the chief purpose of which appears to be to provide death-defying thrills for spectators. Other death-dealing contests should likewise be banned. We have in mind such affairs as the Indianapolis automobile speed races where the attraction consists largely in the knowledge that lives as well as speed records may be smashed for the edification of spectators.

That these exhibitions are not only dangerous but degrading is indicated by the crowd's reaction to accidents. For instance, a report on the last Indianapolis speed race stated that though the ultimate plaudits of the holiday crowd of around 150,000 went to the winner, the "real thrills of the race were supplied in the first 100 miles when three drivers were involved in smashups." It is significant, too, that the first news and radio accounts of the recent Cleveland accident gave the lion's share of space to the death of the famous flier, Bill Odom, paying comparatively little attention to the fate of the other victims.

Pattern Of Recovery

Some weeks ago when unemployment was still on the way up and production declining, there was good reason to believe that a business upturn was just around the corner. For, despite the shift from a sellers' to a buyers' market, which had caused manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers to pursue a cautious buying policy in an effort to work off high-priced inventories, consumer purchasing power remained at high levels. Hence, it was practically certain that at no distant date replacement orders would have to be stepped up and factories would be in the market for labor as well as raw materials.

This anticipated reversal in the trend of business activity is reflected in the August census report which shows a considerable drop in unemployment during the month and a pronounced advance in nonfarm employment, more than offsetting a seasonal decline in farm employment. Moreover, on the basis of advance information the President's Advisory Council estimates that the Federal Reserve Board's August index of industrial production will be six points higher than it was in July—only one point below the June index. This official confirmation of the recuperative powers of industry justifies Secretary of Commerce Sawyer's optimistic prediction that "the end of the recession may be at hand." Even cautious Dr. Nourse, chairman of the Advisory Council, says that he and his associates are "very definitely encouraged" by current business developments. However, Dr. Nourse called attention to the danger of a setback if strikes occur in basic industries, such as coal and steel. Moreover, he says that disinflation has not yet been completed. In short there are shoals ahead.

There is good reason for thinking that the most difficult phases of our postwar economic adjustment lie behind us, and that the price adjustments that have still to be made—especially in the field of retail prices, which are far out of line with wholesale prices—can be effected without seriously impeding recovery. Unfortunately, a favorable economic environment may become highly unfavorable overnight if strikes close mills and factories and throw thousands of men out of work. Whether the country is to go forward toward business recovery or backward toward recession and possibly into a real depression, may be decided by the companies and the unions involved in major wage disputes. If they resort to industrial warfare as a means of settlement, "the pattern of recovery" will certainly be upset, as Dr. Nourse says, and the business analysts may have to revise their forecasts.

Part-Time Schools

No remedy is in sight for the overcrowded condition of our schools. This is especially true in the area across the Anacostia River in the far Northeast and Southeast sections of the city. As a result, more than 3700 pupils in the elementary schools of the District alone will be on a part-time basis when the academic year commences Monday. Even so, schoolrooms will be hazardously jammed, the ratio of students to teachers will forbid the individual attention requisite to sound instruction and many desirable curricular and extracurricular activities will have to be skimped.

No purpose can be served by blinking at the facts or pretending they can be overcome by palliatives. Conditions, while not everywhere quite as bad as in the District, are generally bad enough in the schools all over the United States. Inadequate and antiquated physical facilities, insufficient teachers, are the rule rather than the exception.

The most practicable remedy—and it seems at the moment a remote one—lies along the lines suggested by President Truman in his remarks at the opening meeting of the Executive Committee of the Mid-Century White House Conference on Children and Youth. The President spoke of a pressing need for improvement of the Nation's educational system and of a program long discussed in the Congress of Federal aid to education. He cited the District situation as a glaring example of present-day defects. The fact that the District Commissioners have told the Board of Education that it cannot have additional funds for school construction or for an increase of teaching personnel gives special point to his words.

Gruenther's Promotion

The Joint Staff which has done the spadework for strategic military planning epitomizes the kind of thinking beyond individual service doctrines that is a prime object of unification. The task of organizing this staff, one of the most demanding in the military service, was done with consummate skill by Maj. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, just named deputy chief of staff for plans and combat operations. The Joint Staff, now expanded from 100 to 210 officers, has toiled virtually 24 hours a day to provide the background for decisions by the Joint Chiefs of Staff. As director of the Joint Staff, General Gruenther has had to be not only an indefatigable workhorse and strategist of the broadest concepts, but also a leader and diplomat. Withal he has managed to keep an affability back of which is perhaps the most incisive mind in the military establishment.

In conformance with the policy of rotating direction of the Joint Staff among the services, General Gruenther's successor will be Rear Admiral Arthur C. Davis. Admiral Davis is no newcomer to joint planning; since 1945 he has been a member of the joint strategic survey committee on naval operations of the Joint Chiefs. During the war he was operations officer on the staff of Admiral King and later chief of staff to Admiral Spruance. More important, Admiral Davis has the confidence of General Bradley and the Joint Chiefs as an officer who is able to grasp the whole defense picture.

Although in some ways General Gruenther's new post will cover a narrower field than that in which he has been working, it is one of the most important jobs in the Army and represents an advancement in his career. The Army is fortunate in having a man like General Gruenther to groom for top leadership, and the public may expect to hear more of him.

Postscript To Peekskill

Governor Dewey and the New York State police, it seems to us, have come in for a good deal of unjustified criticism as the result of the second riot provoked by the Paul Robeson concert at Peekskill. It is hard to see what more the Governor could have done in the circumstances. Having decided, and we think properly, that the rights of free assembly and free speech must be upheld, he had ordered every available member of the State police to the scene to reenforce the local authorities, who had themselves increased their forces by several hundred extra deputies. Had the Governor called out the militia, as some persons now seem to think he should have done, it would have been a tacit admission that the civil power was no longer effective, and in that case there would have been every reason for prohibiting the concert entirely.

It was no doubt a mistake to permit the veterans' organizations to hold their counter-demonstration simultaneously with the Robeson affair, for that created a highly incendiary situation. Yet to have prevented the anti-Robeson hotheads from assembling outside the concert grounds would have required a police force at least twice as large as could have been mustered. A committee, evidently composed of Mr. Robeson's sympathizers, did ask for an injunction, but it was refused by Judge Clancy of the Federal District Court who observed appositely, "You want your rights protected, but no one else's." The judge said the court lacked any authority to grant such an injunction, and he might have added that it lacked any power to enforce the injunction if it had been granted; for we suppose that no one besides the Communists really believes that the Army and Navy should have been mobilized to protect Mr. Robeson's right to sing.

The police and the deputies did manage to preserve a reasonable order at the concert, despite several efforts of the counter-demonstrators to break it up. All the serious rioting occurred after the concert had ended and the crowd was going home. Much of it occurred at a considerable distance from the scene of the concert. The police could hardly have been expected to provide armed escorts for 12,000 persons, the doubtless exaggerated estimate of the number who came from New York by automobile or bus to attend the concert.

We may as well realize that the popular irritation against the Communists and fellow travelers in general, and against Mr. Robeson in particular, has grown so strong that wherever he makes a public appearance, trouble is likely to result. Thus to uphold the right of free assembly in his case is to risk the possibility of riot. Governor Dewey decided the question in favor of the traditional civil rights of Americans, and it seems rather mean spirited of those who demanded that he should do so to reproach him now for the consequences of his decision.

Lehman Vs. Dulles

Citizens of other States as well as those of New York have an interest in the announcements that former Governor Lehman and Senator Dulles will run for the Senate in a special election in November. In a narrow sense a Senator is the representative of the people of his State, but in practice he becomes a lawmaker for the entire Nation. When men of broad experience and high caliber offer their services as Senators, it may be taken for granted that, if elected, they will become primarily national legislators acting in behalf of their country as a whole. Mr. Lehman clearly falls into this category. As a four-term Governor of New York, as director general of UNRRA and as a citizen interested in world problems, he has amply demonstrated the qualities that make a good Senator.

We would pay the same tribute to Senator Dulles. Appointed by Governor Dewey to fill the gap between Senator Wagner's resignation and the election in November, Mr. Dulles has already established himself as an influential member of the Senate. In spite of the fact that he was denied a seat on the Foreign Relations Committee, his long experience in foreign affairs enabled him to step into an important role in this field without serving the usual novitiate. His record of public service will make him a formidable contender. Both the major parties in New York will deserve congratulations for offering the public a choice between two men of the standing of former Governor Lehman and Senator Dulles.

MARTINS AT SUNSET

This is the hour the martins fly,
Piercing the fabric of the sky
Like arrows shot from unseen bows
Into a mass of taupe and rose
Where piled clouds light their evining fire.
Then up through flame, and high—and higher
They climb the heavens, swift and free,
In a wild, voiceless ecstasy.

O little dark tumultous birds,
Your silence rings like shouted words!

Labor Day Toll

The true irony and horror of the Labor Day weekend death toll was highlighted most effectively by The Washington Post in its listings, State by State, of the number and causes of deaths. In Ohio, for instance, the toll classified "miscellaneous" was represented by the mere number "1." Yet that number marked the violent death of one of the greatest and most colorful pilots of the postwar years.

When the total deaths, 425, are considered, we are forced to realize that, at least to the families and friends of those killed, there were 425 Bill Odoms who became just another digit in the newspapers; their deaths meant just as much to the country. And if your paper had printed an article comparable to the one which was devoted to Bill Odom for each of those killed, it would have required an obituary section of more than 50 pages.

Obviously there is something wrong with a country which requires a weekly volume entitled, "Accidental Violent Deaths for the Week," to be printed in order to correctly report the news.

Recession Cause

As a consumer, I wish to report recent experiences which show why we have unemployment not accompanied by a substantial cut in prices, when purchasing power is ample for consumer goods at adjusted prices.

In August an order for a $450 air conditioner for an apartment was refused because the stock was exhausted and no more supplies were to be produced until next spring. There is no reason why installation of air-conditionining should be a one-season industry.

In one of our leading department stores, a customer wishing a ladies' brown tie (a standard type of shoe normally purchasable all year round) was told that no shoes of that type would be available until September 15. At that time, summer shoes were selling out at reduced prices. Either the store was compelled, by inability to purchase, to reduce its shoe business to nil for six weeks or it preferred to.

On the physical basis, the starting point was failure to expand steel capacity and production. This prevented manufacturers from expanding plant and setting a pattern of more production of goods selling for a cheaper price with a smaller unit profit.

On the psychological side, the cry that it was dangerous to expand steel production and that investment capital could not be obtained without reduction of corporate taxes induced timidity on the part of manufacturers of consumer goods and retail merchants. Fear of a sudden drastic drop forecast by the steel companies' retrenchment caused these manufacturers and sellers of consumer goods to reduce both production and ordering. Hence unemployment, reduced sales, reduced turnover of dollars, shrunken national wealth.

To cap the climax, your newspaper then comes out for reduced corporate taxes to stimulate investment capital. But why are not my $465 helping to turn the wheels? Why are they not paying wages?

Loan To Tito

Secretary Acheson is reported to be a strong advocate of the loan to Dictator Tito of Yugoslavia. So now we have our State Department favoring a loan to a dyed-in-the-wool Communist, who was engaged comparatively recently in the pleasurable pastime of shooting down our airmen, while refusing it to the bitterest foe of communism in Europe—Dictator Franco of Spain—whose country could be of invaluable service to us in another world war, because, forsooth, we don't approve of his method of running his country.

One wonders what school of logic our State Department policy-makers ever attended.

Holiday Deaths

After reading about the traffic deaths during the last holiday the National Safety Council must be convinced that printing probable traffic deaths during a coming holiday does not reduce the number of such deaths.

The business of warning the public that certain numbers of deaths will occur over a holiday on the highway serves no purpose except to deter a mother who could really enjoy such a holiday from taking her family on a trip in the family chariot. The accidents are news and should be printed but not the morbid releases issued by the council before a holiday.

Printers' Identity

A headline in your issue of September 3 reads: "Printers Ask ITU to Grant Strike Right."

When will your reporters learn the difference between a printer and a compositor? The dictionaries define "printer" as "one who prints books, pamphlets, newspapers, etc."

During the recent printing pressmen's strike, no newspapers were printed in Washington. Who was on strike? In Chicago the compositors have been on strike for a long, long time but the Chicago papers are printed every day.

Calling a compositor a "printer" is like calling a hod-carrier a bricklayer. The pressmen are the printers. The union to which the compositors belong is the International Typographical Union—not the Printers' Union. BILL HOUSTON.

Visit To Franco

An article in your issue September 3 stated that "four warships today made the U. S. Navy's first official visit to Generalissimo Franco's Spain."

Please be informed that I was on board the USS Trenton while visiting Cadiz, Spain, from February 24, 1940, until March 5, 1940. If the above visit was not considered official, then perhaps we invaded Spain.

Proportional Representation Menace

The economic Marshall Plan has in due course been followed by the diplomatic Marshall Plan of the North Atlantic Pact and the military Marshall Plan of the Military Assistance Plan. But the three plans so far adopted, or about to be adopted, are not enough. What use would an economically sound and militarily strong western Europe be, even if it could be a reality in the near future, if there remained the possibility of the Trojan Horse of Right- or Left-wing radicalism seizing a key country from within, or if political weakness would leave a country so divided and so disheartened that it would not be able to act effectively in the moment of danger?

Political weakness of dangerous proportions exists in several countries of western Europe. The various factors which have caused it could have been largely controlled had it not been for proportional representation.

In France, the Communists are, in the P. R.—elected National Assembly still the strongest party. The extent to which they owe their electoral success to P. R. is made plain by their near-elimination from the ranks of the 1500 provincial councillors elected under the majority system last May. New elections held under P. R. would, as long as present conditions persist, still give to Communists and De-Gaullists combined a majority, and make the country "ungovernable."

In Belgium's recent elections, the leading party fell short of an over-all majority by only three seats. In spite of its commanding lead, its outstanding men did not succeed in forming a coalition: 50 days of negotiating, on each of which the prestige of representative government reached a new low, were needed before a coalition was formed with the understanding that the major question requiring a solution—that of King Leopold—would not even be tackled.

In Italy, Premier de Gasperi's Christian Democrats secured 53 per cent of the seats with a little more than 48 per cent of the votes, thanks to an inconsistency in the P.R. election law. Signor de Gasperi himself leaves no doubt that he does not expect to duplicate his success. At present, the Communists remain the second strongest party in the Chamber, ever bent on noisy obstruction, and the development of a strong and moderate (in this case, Socialist) opposition, so vital to the lasting success of democratic government, is prevented.

In Japan, the system of voting constitutes what the Tokyo correspondent of the New York Times called "a crude form of P.R."; each voter can, in constitutencies electing several deputies, vote for only one candidate. The Communists secured 36 seats. A detailed investigation shows that the highest percentage their successful candidates polled was a little less than 28 per cent and the lowest a little less than 8 per cent. Under a majority system, such percentages would mean the virtual elimination of the Communists from the Diet, with a correspondingly increased chance of the strategically placed Socialists to become the second pole of a two-party system.

Western Germany was, from 1946 to 1948, close to a two-party system, as a result of Communist losses at the left and the formation of the Christian Democratic Union at the right. The majority system could have completed the process; continuing application of P. R. has led to its reversal. In the recent elections to the West German Diet several splinter parties achieved successes which would have been unthinkable under a majority system.

Dr. Adenauer will form his new government with the nucleus of a Nationalist opposition at the right, as a Socialist government would have a nucleus of a Communist opposition at its left. In addition to the regular opposition there will, therefore, be irresponsible snipers, always ready to exploit the misery of their countrymen as Hitler and the Communists did so successfully during the world economic crisis.

In Austria, a quirk of the present P. R. law gave the Christian Democrats a majority of the seats with a minority of the votes. This will soon be a matter of the past. Several Rightist parties are in the race for the new elections, and they bid fair to make the life of Austrian democracy as difficult as the two or three Rightist parties did between 1919 and 1934.

A political Marshall Plan would have to contemplate more than the abolition of P. R.; it would, however, have to begin with that step. So far as our wartime Allies are concerned, our only weapon is moral persuasion; it is, however, as I was assured in Europe last year, a very powerful weapon. In Germany, Austria and Japan our position is stronger. If, in the other countries a definite effort were made to spread the knowledge of the subject, a victory for the system of voting which has been the first line of defense of the Anglo-Saxon countries against irresponsible opposition and weak governments could, I believe, be confidently expected.

Barometer Of Uneasy Nation

By Malvina Lindsay

Disturbed Children

ON THE SURFACE times seem to be getting back to normal. People are absorbed in vacation talk or fall planning. There's a general sense of abundance despite increased unemployment. Americans are healthier than they've ever been. Jobs are almost at a record high, bank deposits likewise. The cold war seems a little less menacing.

We should be reasonably happy—yet we aren't. Psychiatrists are working overtime. Book dealers report an increasing demand for "don't-be-afraid" books. Another barometer of our state of mind is the increase of emotionally disturbed children. Social agencies for some time have been aware of this. Recently the Children's Court of New York reported a new pattern in the maladjusted and delinquent children it referred to other agencies for treatment. Not only were these children upset emotionally, but they were younger than in the past and coming increasingly from middle and well-to-do homes.

This new pattern shifts the emphasis from the material side of child rearing to the mental and emotional, an emphasis likely to be reflected in the program of next year's Midcentury White House Conference on Children and Youth, planning for which began at a meeting in Washington this week.

EMOTIONALLY disturbed children naturally go back to anxious parents. What, then, is upsetting the parents? True, times are uncertain, but as historians remind us, when have they ever been secure? Yet in a postwar period more emotional tension and anxiety hang on.

The increase of divorce and of broken homes is reflected in children's emotional upsets. Yet a large proportion of these unhappy children come from unbroken homes, from homes still legally held together even though they may be intangibly torn apart by tension and conflict.

Adults in the last 20 years, it must be admitted, have had a hard time of it, even though Americans have escaped much of the misery known to those in other countries. While Americans have been improving physically, they have been losing ground in mental and emotional health. Conflict of all kinds, national, class, racial, religious, has kept them stirred up.

American adults have had two great disillusionments in the last two decades. The depression of the 1930s shattered their naive economic faith in the future.

They also got the greatest shock concerning war any American generation has had to take. It was that peace didn't inevitably follow the end of war, that this country couldn't withdraw from the dangers, rigors, responsibilities of a warring world. They also found their social patterns breaking down leaving them no moorings. Now this is reflected in the emotional malnutrition of children who sense their parents' fears and instability.

SCHOOLS offer the best hope of helping these children if there were teachers who could understand and help. Heretofore schools have been oversold on intellect, but happily now there is a tendency to select teachers more on the basis of emotional outlook and adjustment than on the number of facts stored in their heads. However, schools have to take largely what they can get in teachers, especially in the elementary grades where the emotionally disturbed child can be best helped. And teachers are so overburdened with large classes they cannot give much individual aid.

Child guidance centers are helping but many States do not have them. However the National Mental Health Act of 1946 has provided some funds to further such clinics.

But how help the parents? The most immediate need today of anxious adults is someone to tell their troubles to. Family service agencies are doing an increasing work in this field but they lack funds and workers. Churches are increasingly ministering to this need and psychiatrists help those who can afford to pay. The white collar and middle class, which can't afford this service yet is too proud to go to free clinics, suffers the most.

There is an ever increasing need in every community for means by which people can receive sympathetic advice in meeting the complexities of life. In some neighborhoods this is found in a wise and understanding person who is described as the "one everybody goes to." An increase of such illumined volunteers would be in itself a great help.

A Communication

British Farming As An Economic Asset

By Harry Ferguson

Chairman of the Board, Harry Ferguson, Ltd.

COVENTRY, ENGLAND.—As the American, British and Canadian representatives assemble to discuss Britain's grave financial problems, it is desirable to review what Britain ought to be doing to help herself.

Like most British subjects, I have an intense feeling of gratitude for the deep and abiding friendship Americans have shown us in the past. We are most appreciative of America's desires to help us out of our present troubles.

Britain is facing economic disaster. Every sensible man can see it. At all costs, she must increase home production and conserve dollars. She is spending at present over 800 million pounds on foodstuffs of which all, if necessary, with the exception of citrus fruits, tea, coffee, etc., could be grown in the British Isles.

The British economy was built up on cheap imported food, which will never return. Imported food in 1948 cost our nation nearly half the value of our total imports and over half the value of our total exports. Under the present regime, imported food and feeding stuffs cost us, on the average, £16 a head plus £5 a head in income tax to keep down the over-the-counter price.

As one who has been active for more than 30 years in agricultural improvements and in the development in the British Isles and in America of modern farm machinery for efficient and low-cost production of food, I would be neglecting my duty to both America and Britain if I did not attempt to point the way out of our problem.

IT IS being said that for our economic ills "the only cure is to export a lot more." This is not so. The real remedy lies in our escaping from the assumption that to import over half our food is to obey a natural economic law.

By growing a lot more of our own food, we could drastically reduce our imports with the same effect on our trade balance as increasing exports.

To maintain, let alone increase, our exports we must reduce prices, as Mr. Paul Hoffman and other leading Americans have so wisely and strongly urged. Basically, this is the objective of the entire ECA program. Only as our industries reduce costs and prices can we hope to get back rapidly on our feet.

Efficient food production methods here at home are the key to reduced prices because that is the most effective way to cut the cost of living.

A 20 per cent fall in the cost of living, which I believe is quickly and easily possible, means that after taxation a £5 wage will purchase what £7 now does.

ASSURED of a progressive fall in the cost of living, workers could afford to accept wage stabilization. Freed from the threat of increases in the cost of coal, or steel, or electricity, or transportation, or wages, or something else, manufacturers could reduce their prices. Reduced prices would lead to increased demand and further price reductions. Manufacturers would be encouraged to modernize their factories and work hard on new manufacturing methods.

By thus substituting a price-reducing system for a price increasing system, we could stop Britain's slide to ruin and make her strong again.

The obstacles to this development are our failure to use all the millions of acres which are capable of efficient production, and the continued use of hand labor and animal power on our farms. Replacement of these ancient methods of production on the farm by modern machinery can save the country but is being fatally slowed by prejudice and inertia.

The application of mechanization and better husbandry methods to all our farms—particularly the small farms—could make us independent of imported foodstuffs to whatever degree was considered economically desirable.

EQUALLY important would be the beneficial effects on employment, business and industry all the way from the smallest farm to our greatest cities. Raising the efficiency of production of our farmers would increase their purchasing power which, in turn, becomes of real service to industry. The first to benefit would be the small rural shops, then the village shops and right back through the town and city shops to the factories supplying them.

A chain of new jobs would be created in processing food materials and transportation of them to consumers. Similarly, the establishment on our farms of the machines required for the production of this food would create another chain of new jobs and new home markets for our industries all the way from the central factories down to the local machinery dealers and fuel suppliers.

I have urged the governments of Britain, Eire and northern Ireland to get together and proceed with the utmost vigor on a program of land reclamation and farm modernization. The action required is, I suggest:

1. Concerted action by the governments, press, agricultural and educational bodies to convince farmers of the benefit to the nation and themselves of using modern methods and modern machinery.

2. Granting by the governments of loan facilities which will enable farmers to equip their farms efficiently.

3. Careful planning and organization to insure that the advantages of lowered production costs on the farm will be passed on to the public.

IT IS imperative that we all recognize that the one industry upon which our lives literally depend, in peace and in war, is agriculture. America has the right to know that we are safeguarding ourselves in war and in peace, and the people of your great country should understand that the power animal is our greatest potential danger in any future war.

The more we mechanize the less food we will have to import for ourselves and our power animals. One tanker load of tractor fuel will enable us to grow here food that would take, on the average, 40 ships of the same tonnage to transport from abroad. By clinging to the power animal on the farm, we are needlessly exposing valuable shipping and our very existence to attack from the new, fast submarine at sea, and to the threat of the atom bomb on our ports.

It is time we put first things first and put the modernization of agriculture at the top of the priority list. Mr. Hoffman recently impressed on us the urgent need for action. I have been impressing this upon our government for about four years without result. We can be saved and become an asset to the free world instead of a liability. What we need is planning and action on the grand scale that stirs the imagination. We need all the drive and vision that made possible the magnificent achievement of the Berlin air lift.

By taking energetic steps to save our own country, Britain would set an example which could be followed by all the free countries. Only thus can we merit further help from your generous people.

Good News In The Near East

IN THIS day and age one crisis folds into the next with such monotonous regularity that good news tends to get obscured. Recently there have been two pieces of good news—small, to be sure, like pin points of light in a dark sky, yet none the less meaningful.

Childs

They both concern a part of the world that has been full of trouble—the Near East. The first is, of course, the fact that the Greek government seems at least to have subdued the Communist guerillias. Confidential dispatches to the State Department and the Pentagon confirm optimistic news stories.

This can be put down as positive and conspicuous credit for the Truman policy of containing Communist aggression. Aid to the Greek government to date has cost upward of 700 million dollars and further assistance is requested in the arms aid program.

One encouraging aspect is the way in which the Departments of State and the Army cooperated. The Army has sent the Greeks some new and powerful weapons, including the recoilless rifle. The last has been invaluable in blasting out pillboxes in the remote Grammos Mountains. The Helldiver planes furnished the Greeks have served the same purpose.

This could never have come about if Marshal Tito had not closed off the Greek-Yugoslav border so that aid for the rebels could no longer come by that route. Albania is still a refuge and the rebel bands that escaped the latest drive of the Greek armies are believed to have escaped into that wild and primitive country.

But it is practicable to seal up the Greek-Albanian border and thereby prevent the bands from returning refreshed and re-equipped. The border with Yugoslavia, much longer and more tortuous, could never have been sealed by Greek forces.

THE SECOND piece of news means a lot in hope for the future rather than in the immediate present. In authorizing Gordon R. Clapp, head of the Tennessee Valley Authority, to go to the Middle East as chairman of an economic survey mission, President Truman has taken a step toward raising the standard of life in a part of the world where poverty is the rule.

But the mission, which is being sent out by the United Nations, means more than that. It could mean the beginning of a durable peace between Jews and Arabs in Palestine.

The economic survey Clapp will direct was proposed by the Palestine Reconciliation Commission, which has been struggling in vain for weeks over one of the major obstacles to peace left in the wake of the Arab-Israeli war. The No. 1 obstacle is the presence of several hundred thousand Arab refugees on Israel's border, most of whom fled from Palestine.

No one has said very much about these refugees—they may number close to 800,000. They are eking out an existence with food furnished through the United Nations, most of it supplied by this country. So long as these people hover in a miserable no-man's land, wanted by no one, there can be no lasting peace in the Middle East.

ONLY through large-scale rehabilitation which greatly expands agriculture and develops industry can these "surplus" people be absorbed. That is the real meaning of the U. N. survey mission on which Clapp has now departed.

The TVA pattern, with its development of water resources, may be applicable to Palestine and the Arab countries. Throughout the world the achievements of TVA are known and the very fact that Clapp is heading the group will mean a great deal. He is one of the country's able administrators who has grown up with the TVA idea.

Even after the U. N. mission has made its recommendations, lots of obstacles will stand in the way of action. But, as President Truman pointed out in his statement on Clapp's appointment, this is in the direction of the Point IV program of technical assistance to under-developed regions that the President spoke about in his inaugural address in January. Able, energetic Assistant Secretary of State George C. McGhee (for the Middle East) has worked intensively for a start at rehabilitation.

With the civil war ended in Greece, that will be the only hope of stability there, too. The Greek people have suffered terribly from invasion, ther. the cruel German-Italian occupation and finally five years of bitter fighting between Greek and Greek. With peace, wealthy Greeks who rushed their capital to New York banks should invest it in productive enterprise at home. That is the least they can do to contribute to the stability of their homeland.

2 Services Cut Sharply in '51 Budget Draft

By Robert S. Allen

Admiral Louis E. Denfeld wasn't idly crying "wolf" when he recently warned the Fleet Reserve Association that the Navy faces a "receding budget for a long time to come."

What the Navy Chief of Operations knew, but didn't say, is that the military budget for fiscal 1951 contemplates heavy cuts for both the Army and Navy.

That budget is already in concrete form, even though Congress has not yet approved the 14 billion dollars-plus military expenditures for the current fiscal year. The budget is Defense Secretary Johnson's first, and is "economy" aimed.

As now being circulated among top defense authorities, this budget proposes a total outlay of $12,200,000,000 divided as follows:

Air Force	$4,300,000,000
Army	4,100,000,000
Navy	3,800,000,000

These figures mean for the Army a cut of $500,000,000, and the Navy $600,000,000.

There is no reduction in Air Force funds. In fact, there is a strong possibility its allocation may be increased 200 million dollars. A Johnson notation explains this may be necessary to meet expected developments in new-type jet aircraft.

A significant fact about Johnson's budget is that it includes the military pay raise pending in Congress.

If the 303-million-dollar boost is approved, that will actually mean a $11,900,000,000 budget for the three armed services for fiscal 1951, as compared with the 14 billion dollars-plus figure for the current fiscal year.

plus arms, the original cost of which could not exceed 450 million dollars.

Vote Is Postponed

The committee approved in principle an amendment to stimulate arms production overseas by machine tooling factories overseas, but had trouble drafting the language and postponed a final vote until Monday.

The bill is slated for Cenate consideration immediately after passage of the reciprocal trade renewal bill.

Here's how the committee divided on important votes:

For—Thomas (Utah), Pepper (Fla.), McMahon (Conn.), Green (R. I.), Fulbright Ark.), Chapman (Ky.), Johnson (Tex.), Kefauver (Tenn.), Hunt (Wyo.), Tydings (Md.), and Connally, all Democrats, and Vandenberg (Mich.), Smith (N. J.), Gurney (S. Dak.), Saltonstall (Mass.), Morse (Oreg.), Baldwin (Conn.), Hickenlooper (Iowa) and Knowland (Calif.), Republicans.

Against—George (Ga.), Russell (Ga.) and Byrd (Va.), Democrats.

For—Thomas, Pepper, Green, McMahon, Fulbright, Chapman, Johnson, Kefauver, Hunt, Tydings and Connally.

Against — Vandenberg, Smith, Hickenlooper, Bridges, Gurney, Saltonstall, Morse, Baldwin and Knowland.

George motion to limit arms cash for Europe to 300 million dollars:

For—George, Russell, Byrd, Smith, Hickenlooper, Bridges, Gurney, Saltonstall, Baldwin and Knowland.

Against — Thomas, Pepper, Green, McMahon, Fulbright, Chapman, Johnson, Hunt, Kefauver, Tydings, Connally, Vandenberg and Morse.

Connally Sticks to Guns On Chiang's 'Absconding'

Senator Connally (D., Tex.) yesterday refused to back down on his statement that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek had deserted his people and "absconded" to Formosa with the treasury of the Chinese Nationalist government.

"I made no statement," Connally told the Senate, "that is not fortified by the facts."

Senator Knowland (R., Calif.) had rebuked Connally for saying in a Senate speech earlier this week that Chiang had absconded.

Knowland said he held no brief for Chiang, who went to the island fortress of Formosa after stepping out as head of the Nationalist government. But he called attention to the fact that the Chinese embassy had denied Chiang had taken the money for his own benefit.

In a voice heavy with sarcasm, Connally said: "I want to apologize. I made an error when I said that Chiang Kai-shek had taken 138 million dollars in gold to Formosa. As a matter of fact he took over 300 million dollars in gold.

Cripps, Bevin Tie Cold War Success to Currency Balance

have to be the last of a long series of steps requiring effort by many nations.

He said that in the process "a lot of people's standards of living may decline" in the next two years; that Britain would have to cut her purchases from dollar areas, however unpleasant such cuts might be; and that the only way to make up for Britain's war losses of her overseas investments was "by earning a large income from the sale of our goods abroad."

"What we need," he said, "is for the sterling area to have the greatest possible opportunity of earning that necessary income, and fair terms of trade upon which to exchange their goods with those of your country and other countries.

"There is no sweeping readjustment of any single item in the complex that will influence the solution of this problem that can bring us sudden and complete relief from our difficulties.

Is Difficult Task

"It is a hard and difficult task . . . But just as combined operations brought us victory in wartime over difficulties every bit as great, we can and we must combine successfully our efforts to put our economic relationship upon a firm basis and so bring victory to the free democracies in the cold war."

The Chancellor recited statistics of British progress since the end of the war—industrial production at "an all-time high"; output per man in the first half of this year 4 to 5 per cent hgiher than a year earlier and well above the prewar figure"; the average working week "just above 45 hours," the volume of exports 51 per cent greater than in 1938 and of imports 15 per cent less.

Naturally, he said, many of Britain's friends abroad were puzzled by the contrast between swift progress at home and the shortages of dollars in foreign trading.

Reasons for Troubles

He ascribed the dollar difficulties to the loss of British overseas investments during the war, to the interruption of output in southeast Asia, and to many other things beyond British control.

The whole prewar pattern of trade was gone, he declared, and it was useless to try to revive it; a brand new basis of sterling-dollar trade had to be found.

Bevin, who followed him, put the case in a way that won a roar of applause from the Press Club audience.

"You're not to blame for this trouble; neither are we," he said. "Then don't let's blame each other. Let's get together to solve it."

As part of the present effort to "get together," the nine-man steering committee of American, British and Canadian cabinet ministers and top officials held its fifth meeting yesterday afternoon, and planned to resume today. Special ECA Ambassador W. Averell Harriman attended the meeting, which suggested that the subject under discussion was still the pushing of British and other European sales in the dollar market.

Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder, chairman of the conference, reported "progress" as he left the meeting, but declined further information. "We will be able to tell where we stand tomorrow."

The American delegation, under Snyder's leadership, was reported standing firm against any action that would require going to Congress for money or authority this year.

Leaders Give Up Smoking Because of Dollar Crisis

Sir Stafford Cripps yesterday said he and Foreign Minister Bevin have given up smoking because of Britain's dollar crisis.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer told the National Press Club at a luncheon the shortage has resulted in diminished tobacco imports.

Cripps long favored a curved-stem pipe but also enjoyed cigars and cigarettes, his associates said.

ply derive from the change in the reporting system.

All told, the report showed 15,405 felonies in the 1949 fiscal year, compared with 14,845 in the 1948 fiscal year. The percentage of cases cleared—Truscott said the term "cleared" generally means closed by an arrest—was 61.7, compared with 58.2 percent cleared in 1948.

The report showed a continued increase in the assualts, a category of crime in which Washington led the nation in the calendar year, 1948, according to the Uniform Crime Reports issued by the FBI last March.

The police report listed these crimes simply as "assaults" but Truscott said it was based on the same definitions as the FBI category "aggravated assaults."

In 1949 fiscal year, 4300 assaults were reported, 3557 were cleared; in 1948 fiscal year, 3307 assaults were reported and 2703 cleared. The percentage of these cases cleared remained about the same, 82.7 per cent in 1949, 81.7 per cent in 1948.

In general terms, the report said that "vice has been held to a minimum during the (1949) fiscal year and further steps have been inaugurated within the department to hold it in still closer check."

It said the District pay increase has made the Police Department's manpower problem more promising but still acute.

The report showed that the Police Department receives an average of close to 1000 complaints a day—a total of 361,512 for the year.

The number of arrests was not far behind, a total of 238,935 for the year; of which 9807 were for felonies; 60,885 were for misdemeanors; 161,084 were for violation of municipal regulations, and 7159 were arrests of persons for other jurisdictions, including fugitives.

Ukraine Calls Vatican's Ban 'Moral Suicide'

Lake Success, N. Y., Sept. 9 (U.P.).

The Ukraine, in an outspoken Soviet attack on the Vatican, warned the Holy See today that it is "committing moral suicide" in excommunicating Communists.

White-haired Dmitri Z. Manuilsky, foreign minister of the Ukraine, thundered the criticism of the Vatican in a United Nations Security Council meeting considering the applications of 13 countries for membership.

When the discussion got into a procedural wrangle, Council President Sir Alexander Cadogan of Britain adjourned the council until next Tuesday.

Manuilsky accused the United States and the other western powers of blocking the admission of the Balkan people's democracies because they objected to the policies of those countries.

"The Vatican press," he told the council, "and behind it the press of the United States, alleges that in the countries of the people's democracies governmental authority is fighting against religion. That is not true.

"It is merely fighting against those who are turning religion into a tool of politics, and not only of politics but of extreme reactionary politics."

2 White Men Held For Kidnaping, Beating Negro

By the United Press

The Justice Department yesterday announced arrest of two white farmers in Missouri for kidnaping and beating a Negro man, Robert Lee Talley, of Arkansas.

Those arrested were Frank Brown and Chester Brown, brothers, of Hermondale, Mo. They are charged with kidnaping and conspiracy to kidnap for forced labor.

The crime of kidnaping is punishable by death if the victim is harmed. Talley was beaten unconscious.

If the death penalty is not imposed, kidnaping is punishable by imprisonment for any term up to life.

of-room-for everybody" attitude concerning the effect of British products competing with American goods at home.

He listed products that could have much larger American sales: Cutlery, liquor, woolens, shoes, pipes and smokers' supplies, leather goods, autos, novelty furniture, drugs and toys.

Selling Methods Proplem

But, said Whitney, American sales executives believe the problem is not the products so much as how the British go about selling them in the American market.

At home, he said, British industry is "protected" from any real sales competition by agreements dividing up sales territories and by cartels among manufacturers.

When it comes to selling in America, however, Whitney said, the average British firm "doesn't know any markets exist outside New York," thinks a $10,000 selling campaign is big money," doesn't know Americans want "service with their purchases," and frequently hires too small American firms to represent them.

Another sales executive added that he knew of American representatives of British firms who deliberately discourage doubling or tripling sales because the extra commissions would put the American into too high an income-tax bracket.

Whitney said the British sales group next spring will hold a show in this country of products on which they hold patents, which they would be willing to lease for manufacture in this country, another method of obtaining dollars.

respondence intended for publication in newspapers entitled to second class mailing privileges.

"2. That he or she is not engaged in paid publicity or promotion work in prosecuting any claim before Congress or before any department of the Government and will not become so engaged while a member of the galleries.

"3. That he or she is not engaged in any lobbying activity and will not become so engaged while a member of the galleries."

The new language would follow in the rule the change proposed last month, which started the controversy.

This provides simply:

"Persons desiring admission to the press galleries of Congress shall make application in accordance with Rule 35 of the House of Representatives and Rule 34 of the Senate, which rules shall be interpreted and administered by respondents.

"The Standing Committee of Correspondents shall limit membership in the press galleries to bona fide correspondents of repute in their profession, under such rules as the Standing Committee of Correspondents shall prescribe."

N. Y. Reds Seen Urging Robeson for Senate

New York, Sept. 9 (NYHT).—Michael J. Quill, president of the Transport Workers Union, said today at the State CIO Convention at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., that Communist Party leaders are urging Paul Robeson to run for United States Senator on the American Labor Party ticket.

Henry A. Wallace, the man most prominently mentioned as a candidate, has "kicked over the traces" and will not run, Quill said, without revealing the source of his information.

Moral Awakening Urged by Truman

the President as a "very delightful and very human" person with "a good sense of fun and humor."

At a press conference at the College of Preachers at the Washington Cathedral, where the clergymen are staying, Archbishop How told reporters Britain's financial condition has made the situation difficult for the churches and that their incomes have been reduced markedly.

An effort now is being made to raise the "miserably poor" stipends of Scottish clergy, he said, and is meeting with some success.

In spite of the fact that the minimum salary for a rector is £340 a year (a little over $1300), plus a house, the low pay is not discouraging young men from entering the ministry, he said.

Rural Britain is relatively unconcerned with modern economic problems, according to the Right Rev. Harold W. Bradford, Lord Bishop of Bath and Wells, one of the most rural dioceses in England. In the small agricultural communities, he said, the church still is a central part of community life.

Asked about the British Government's program of medical care, Bishop Bradford said it was "too early to pronounce judgment" on the plan, but said "the whole thing has a germ of sense in it."

Before the plan took effect, he said, the clergy were treated free by physicians, who considered the service as part of their contribution to the church.

Men and women in British universities are much more serious about religion than ever before, the Right Rev. Kenneth E. Kirk, Lord Bishop of Oxford, asserted.

"All branches of study are dominated by the feeling that the solution to the problem of the world is not possible on the basis of a merely human philosophy, and that something in the nature of spiritual power is absolutely necessary," he said.

Priests Seek Funds

The Rev. C. E. Young, vicar of St. Silas parish, called one of the poorest in England, said one of his greatest problems is keeping the church going financially.

To aid in the effort, priests from the church beg in the market place two days each year, and visit each of the 35 pubs in the parish once a month to distribute a church paper for men.

The bishops are visiting the United States under the auspices of the American Church Union and will conduct a series of Eucharistic Congresses here. The series will open Monday at Williamsburg, Va., with a service at Jamestown where the Prayer Book was used first.

On Sunday they will preach at the following Washington churches: The Primus of Scotland at the Washington Cathedral at 11 a. m.; the Right Rev. John W. C. Wand, Lord Bishop of London, will preside and the Right Rev. William James Hughes, Bishop of Barbados, will preach at Ascension and St. Agnes Church, 12th st. and Masachusetts ave. nw. at 10 a. m.

Condition Unchanged

The English clergymen paused in Washington en route to Williamsburg, Va., for the American Church Eucharistic Congress.

Mission Board Lists Institute

The board of missions of the Baltimore Annual Conference of the Methodist Church will sponsor a missionary institute and Women's Society of Christian Service seminar on Thursday at 1:30 p. m. at Wesley Methodist Church, Connecticut ave. and Jocelyn st. nw.

Members of 50 churches in the West Washington District of the Methodist Church will participate in the institute. Among the speakers will be the Rev. Dr. Frederick E. Reissig, executive secretary of the Washington Federation of Churches; the Rev. Robert S. Spencer, former missionary to Japan, and Ugo Carusi, chairman of the Displaced Persons Committee.

At 8 p. m. the Rev. Dr. T. T. Brumbaugh, former missionary who is now associate secretary of the board of missions of the Methodist Church, will speak on "Japan Begins Again."

Bishop Flint to Act At Church Dedication

Bishop Charles W. Flint, resident bishop of the Washington area, of the Methodist Church, is in northern Pennsylvania to speak at a laymen's convention and dedicate a new church this weekend.

Yesterday he met with the Central Pennsylvania Cabinet and Advance Committee to plan a conference mass meeting in October. Bishop Flint's first official act after his return from vacation was to appoint the Rev. J. A. Leatherman pastor of Hamline Methodist Church, 16th and Allison sts. nw. Mr. Leatherman will speak on "The Man and His Cross" in his initial pulpit appearance at 11 a. m. at the church.

'Cosmic Age' Is Text

Dr. Grace L. Faus, minister of the church of the Healing Christ, will conduct services at 11 a. m. Sunday in the new church home, 2460 16th st. nw. She will speak on "The Cosmic Age."

Detroit U. Head Installed

Detroit, Sept. 8 (AP).—The Very Rev. Father Celestine J. Steiner (S. J.) was installed as new president of the University of Detroit last night.

Construction Of Church Starts Sunday

Ground for a new $300,000 Clarendon First Baptist Church, Highland and Wilson blvds., Arlington, will be broken at ceremonies at the site at 5 p. m. Sunday.

The new building, which will take the place of the present sanctuary which is to be torn down, will include a main auditorium seating 1100, Sunday school classrooms and a kitchen.

Organized in 1909 with 23 members, the Baptist congregation erected its present building in 1915 and today has a church membership of 1150 and a Sunday school membership of 1073.

A $35,000 educational building was completed in 1936 and will be part of the complete plant of the church when the new sanctuary building is completed.

With the rapid growth in congregational membership since erection of the present church building, the congregation agreed several years ago to build a new church to replace the sanctuary, which seats only 400.

Estimates of the cost of the church do not include furnishings for the building. Church officials estimate that by the time the building is completed, about October 1, 1950, the complete property will be worth more than half a million dollars.

Final services in the old building will be held at 11 a. m. Sunday. Beginning next Sunday, morning services will be in the Ashton Theater, 3166 Wilson blvd., and evening services will be in the educational building.

Participants in the groundbreaking ceremony Sunday will be the Rev. F. L. Snyder, pastor of the church; Arlington County Manager Albert T. Lundberg, Sheriff Elwood Clements and several members of the congregation.

Rev. H. B. Sedgwick Will Preach Sunday

The Rev. Harold Bend Sedgwick, rector of St. Thomas' Episcopal Church, 1772 Church st. nw., has returned from a vacation in New England and will preach at 11 a. m. Sunday.

During August Mr. Sedgwick preached at Dark Harbor, Me., and at the outdoor island chapel at Squam Lake, N. H.

On Sunday

Rev. Miller To Preach First Sermon

The Rev. Dr. DeWitt L. Miller will preach his first sermon as pastor of the Washington City Church of the Brethren, 4th st. and North Carolina ave. se., at 11 a. m. Sunday.

Dr. Miller was recently named pastor of the church to succeed the Rev. Dr. Warren D. Bowman, who resigned his pastorate after 12 years to become president of Bridgewater College, Bridgewater, Va.

The new pastor comes to Washington from the McPherson, Kans., Church of the Brethren.

He is a graduate of Bridgewater College and was awarded his masters, bachelor of divinity and doctor of divinity degrees by Bethany Biblical Seminary in Chicago, Ill.

Dr. Miller has held pastorates in Huntington, Ind.; Cleveland, Ohio; Meyersdale, Pa., and while at McPherson also served as pastor of the student body at McPherson College.

At 11 a. m. Sunday Dr. Miller will preach on "Transforming the Church" and at 8 p. m. on "Let's Be Choosy."

Europe's '4 Horsemen' Will Be Sermon Topic

Dr. Robert Moten Williams, pastor of Ashbury Methodist Church, 11th and K sts. nw., has returned from an eight-week tour of Europe and will speak at 11 a. m. tomorrow on "The Four Horsemen of Europe" and at 8 p. m. on "Europe and Religion."

As a member of a Columbia University study group, the minister visited Denmark, Belgium, Germany, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Italy, Switzerland, France, England and Ireland. Last Sunday he preached in Westminster Church, London.

Evangelist to Preach

The Rev. Robert F. McFarlane, Baptist minister and evangelist, will conduct services at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday at the Anacostia Baptist Church, 13th and W sts. se. The evening service will be transcribed for rebroadcast on the Baptist Radio Hour on September 18.

Audio-Visual Aids Are Topic For Workshop

New trends in the use of audio-visual materials will be discussed at a workshop at Hurst Hall, American University, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from 6:30 to 10 p. m.

Mr. Watterworth

The institute, fifth to be held, is sponsored by the Visual Education Committee of the Washington Federation of Churches. Mrs. Josephine H. Kyles, assistant executive secretary of the federation, will be its director.

Films and other materials for use with all age groups will be shown at nightly previews from 6:30 to 7:30 o'clock and from 9:30 to 10 o'clock.

In addition, new and unusual equipment will be demonstrated at various exhibits.

A staff of 30 clergymen and lay church workers will aid in conducting the school, leading discussions and showing how to use materials.

Class sessions, to be held from 8 to 9:30 p. m., will be divided into two sections. One will be for those who are just beginning to use audio-visual aids, the other for those who have had previous experience.

In preparation for the institute the Rev. David L. Watterworth, pastor of Fifteenth Street Christian Church, recently attended a workshop on religious drama conducted by the International Council of Religious Education at Green Lake, Wisc.

In Wisconsin he discussed with churchmen and professional theater people the means by which drama can be made a vital part of church life. Mr. Watterworth, who will teach script writing at the Washington workshop, was named a member of a continuing committee on religious drama at the ICRE meeting.

Among the other courses to be offered at the workshop here are: Production of religious radio and television programs, production of film strips, movies and slides, technical points of production, and use of aids for children, young people and adults.

33 Dominican Priests Open 'General Chapter' Here Today

Thirty-three priests, representing members of the Dominican Order throughout the world, will convene at the Dominican House of Studies, 487 Michigan ave. ne., today for their triennal General Chapter.

The chapter, so named from the custom in the Middle Ages of reading a chapter of the monastic rule at meetings, is the first ever to be held in the Western Hemisphere.

Attending the sessions will be representatives and delegates from the 30 provinces of the order, the master general of the order, the Most Rev. Emmanuel Suarez of Rome, and three priests who accompanied the master general on his trip from Rome to the United States.

During the first week of the general chapter, committees will plan the agenda and prepare for the general assembly, which will convene formally on September 18. Sessions of the general assembly will be limited to 10 days.

The delegates will consider the rules of the order in the light of current needs, preaching, studies and matters of administration.

Hosts at the meetings will be the Very Rev. T. S. McDermott, provincial of the Province of St. Joseph, which includes the Eastern United States, and the Very Rev. W. M. Conlon, superior of the House of Studies here.

General chapters have been held by the Order of Preachers, which was founded by St. Dominic, since 1220. There are three types, those concerned with election of a master general, those attended by provincials only, and those attended by elected delegates of "diffinitors." It is this third type that is being held here.

In addition to the St. Joseph Province, the order has provinces in the United States with headquarters at Chicago and San Francisco.

In Washington with the master general are two American members of the order who are now stationed in Rome. They are the Most Rev. Paul Shehan, procurator general, and the Very Rev. Timothy Sparks, assistant general for North American Dominicans.

The Very Rev. Emmanuel Montoto, a Spaniard, secretary general of the order, will also attend the sessions.

Seminary's Head to Talk Here Sunday

Guest preacher at Foundry Church (Methodist), 16th and P sts. nw., on Sunday will be the Rev. Dr. Lester A. Welliver, president of Westminster Theological Seminary, Westminster, Md.

Dr. Welliver, a member of the Pennsylvania Conference of the Methodist Church, served in pastorates in that conference and was superintendent of the Harrisburg District before becoming president of Westminster Seminary six years ago.

At 11 a. m. Sunday he will preach on "A Declaration of Independence" and at 8 p. m. on "Life's Magnetic Center."

On Friday at 7 p. m. the third annual Foundry Church School Worker's Retreat will be held at Holiday House on Mount Vernon blvd., near Alexandria. Theme of the retreat is "Our Faith in Action" and the speaker at the evening meeting will be the Rev. C. Stanley Lowell, pastor of Wesley Methodist Church.

Discussion groups will be led by the Rev. Dr. Thomas A. Stone, assistant pastor of National Presbyterian Church; Mrs. Clarence T. Nelson, Robert Gnegy and Miss Sally Chesser.

Bishop Dun To Preach Sunday

The Right Rev. Angus Dun, Episcopal Bishop of Washington, will preach at 11 a. m. Sunday at St. Alban's Episcopal Church, Wisconsin and Massachusetts aves. nw.

Bishop Dun will announce the coming of the new rector of St. Alban's, the Rev. E. Felix Kloman, who will arrive September 15 and conduct services on September 18. Mr. Kloman, who has been rector of Christ Church, Philadelphia, since 1938, succeeds the late Rev. Charles T. Warner, who died last January.

Bishop and Mrs. Dun will leave Washington Sunday evening for San Francisco, where they will attend the General Convention of the Episcopal Church from September 26 to October 7.

Child Parley Set For December 3, '50

By Dorothea Andrews
Post Reporter

A fact-finding Midcentury White House Conference on Children and Youth will get under way December 3, 1950.

Aim of the conference, announced yesterday by its national committee, will be "to consider how we may develop in children the mental, emotional and spiritual qualities essential to individual happiness and responsible citizenship."

This goal, set out by Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing, committee chairman, will be reached in a different way from goals of previous conferences.

Emphasis will be on fact-finding and recommendations beforehand, with the conference itself devoted to analyzing and developing follow-up programs, Ewing explained.

After Two-Day Study

The conference goal was reached after a two-day committee session at the White House, initially addressed by President Truman. Representatives of labor, education, medicine, church, civic and other groups attended the committee sessions.

Actual focus of the conference next year will be achieved by these means:

1. Bringing together in usable form pertinent knowledge related to the development of children and indicating areas in which further knowledge is needed.

2. Examining environmental influences.

3. Studying the relative way in which home, school, church, welfare and other social institutions are meeting child needs.

4. Formulating proposals for improving parental, environmental and institutional influences on children.

5. Suggesting means for communicating these proposals to the public.

Is Fifth in Series

Next year's conference will be the fifth called at 10-year intervals by the President. Earlier sessions have dealt with physical and economic problems affecting children, and have resulted in improved conditions and needed legislation.

President Truman is honorary chairman of the national committee. Leonard W. Mayor of New York City is chairman of the executive committee. Appointed as chairmen of special committees which will carry out the conference work were Benjamin E. Youngdahl, St. Louis, Mo., fact finding; Lyman Bryson, New York City, communications; A. J. Brumbaugh, Washington, conference program, and Chris L. Christensen, Chicago, Ill., budget and finance.

Garbo in Hiding . . .

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

HAIR-DOS AND DON'TS—The lady is Greta Garbo, whose latest game of hide-and-seek to avoid public recognition takes on these two forms. She uses a hastily disarranged hair-do, with the assisting hand of a companion, to disguise herself at the beach at Ostia, near Rome. And she relies on the more conventional cover-up of dark glasses and sloppy hat during a visit to St. Peter's in Rome

Cyclist Flies U. S. Flag on Red Zone Tour

Vienna, Sept. 9 (U.P.).—A carefree Brooklyn youth told today how he pedaled blithely through the Russian zone of Austria with an American flag flying on his bicycle.

Sidney Schwartz, 22, said he had a wonderful time, taking color photographs of the towns and villages through which he passed and chatting with Soviet officers he met along the way.

United States authorities had announced he had been "captured." His "disappearance" had threatened to touch off another East-West squabble.

Schwartz said he flew his U. S. flag on his bicycle 'so I would not be considered a spy." No one objected to the flag or the camera, he said. He wanted a Russian officer to pose for a picture, he said, but the officer refused, saying:

"No, I might break the camera."

Schwartz's one-man expedition behind the Iron Curtain ended at noon yesterday when he arrived in Vienna. He had spent three and a half days on a leisurely trip through the Russian zone.

Schwartz identified himself as a former Army sergeant and a graduate of New York University. A short, slender youth, he came to Vienna to rejoin the Army. He speaks fluent Russian.

He crossed the East-West line at the Linz-Urfahr bridge Monday on a four-power "gray pass" made out in Switzerland, he said. Such a pass permits a person to travel anywhere in the Soviet zone.

House Group to Visit European DP Camps

Frankfurt, Germany, Sept. 9 (U.P.).—Nine members of the House Judiciary Committee made plans today for a tour of refugee camps to determine whether displaced persons are a threat to Europe's economic stability and world peace.

Representative Francis E. Walter (D., Pa.), chairman of the group, told a press conference the possibility of achieving world peace is remote "unless the problem of these people is solved."

Negro Mothers Ask Court To End Play Segregation

Five Negro mothers yesterday asked District Court for an injunction to allow their children to use public recreation facilities anywhere in Washington.

They said color-line regulations of the Recreation Board are unconstitutional, against public policy and deprive a minority group of property and liberty without due process of law.

The mothers charge that their children, because fo the color bar, must go great distances to recreational facilities or else play on the streets. Such a choice may breed juvenile delinquency, they charged.

"Without Incidents"

Bringing suit in behalf of their children are Mrs. Georgia Byrd, 1258 Owen pl. ne.; Mrs. Louise Jackson, 1046 16th st. ne.; Mrs. Adele S. Harris, 1435 Montello ave. ne.; Mrs. Louise Camp, 1526 Levis st. ne., and Mrs. Olive P. Johnson, 1636 Montello ave. ne. They are represented by Attorneys Frank D. Reeves, Leroy H. McKimmey and B. W. Lawson, jr.

Defendants are the Recreation Board, Milo F. Christiansen, superintendent of recreation; the Board of District Commissioners; the Board of Education and Julius A. Krug, Secretary of the Interior.

The suit, according to the plaintiffs, is brought on behalf of all persons similarly situated. The plaintiffs say funds for public playgrounds come from all the taxpayers and that, therefore, adequate facilities should be provided for all children.

According to the suit, from 1941 until July, 1949, both white persons and Negroes used the Wheatley School playground and the Trinidad playground "harmoniously and without incidents."

Police Reported Called

But on July 21, it is charged, agents of the recreation authorities refused the Negro children the right to play there solely on the basis of race or color.

Police were called, the suit says, and the children left when the officers left their patrol wagon and threatened arrests.

The Wheatley and Trinidad playgrounds are in the immediate neighborhood of the children named in the suit. They now must go between five and 12 blocks across heavily traveled streets to reach a playground that will accept them, they contend.

Boy's Death by Fire Ruled Accidental

The death of Bernie Williams, 16, fatally burned last Tuesday in a fire that gutted a garage back of the 600 block of I st. ne., was listed as accidental yesterday by Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald.

Bernie, son of Mrs. Eva Agnes Vance, of 520 E st. ne., and a companion were holding a secret meeting in the garage when the blaze was started by a candle, which fell to the floor. He died Thursday night.

The Rev. Edward Gabler, former rector, will be the preacher at a homecoming service at Christ Episcopal Church, 620 G st. se., at 11 a. m. Sunday. Mr. Gabler was rector of the church from 1928 to 1946 and is now rector of Trinity Church, Vero Beach, Fla. Present rector of Christ Church is the Rev. Carter S. Gilliss.

Congress Heights Baptist Church, Esther and Brothers pls. se., will observe the third anniversary of the pastorate of the Rev. A. Lincoln Smith at 11 a. m. Sunday. Since Mr. Smith's pastorate began, the church has gained 300 in membership and has purchased a parsonage and two church school buildings.

The Rev. Dr. Andrew R. Bird, who returned this week from a vacation in Ocean Grove, N. J., will preach on "Seeing Jesus" at 11 a. m. and "What Do You Expect?" at 7:45 p. m. at the Church of the Pilgrims, 22d and P sts. nw.

Regular services of the Arlington Unitarian Church, 4451 1st. pl., South, will be resumed at 11 a. m. when the Rev. Gilbert A. Phillips preaches on "When Will Religion Become of Age?" The congregation met for union services with All Souls' Church in Washington during the summer.

"Like a Mighty Army," a sound film produced for the United Lutheran Church in America, will have its first Washington showing at 9 and 11 a. m. in the parish hall of Atonement Lutheran Church, Rhode Island ave. and North Capitol st.

The Rev. John Halko, director of the department of research and church planning of the Washington Federation of Churches, will preach at 11 a. m. at Universalist National Memorial Church, 1810 16th st. nw. The Rev. Dr. Seth R. Brooks, pastor of the church, will return to his pulpit September 11.

The Rev. Dr. Ralph D. Smith, superintendent of the Washington West District of the Methodist Church, will speak at services at 11 a. m. making the first anniversary of Hughes Methodist Church, Wheaton, Md.

Hughes church was named after Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, retired senior bishop of the Methodist Church. The Rev. Harold R. Lanman, the pastor, also announced that there will be an open house at the church from 3 to 5 p. m.

Traditional folk and patriotic songs of Norway will be sung by the Skalden Choral Group of 12 Norwegian men at 8:15 p. m. at First Congregational Church, 10th and G sts. nw. At 11 a. m. the Rev. Dr. Carl Heath Kopf, pastor of the church, will return from his vacation to preach on "The Starting Point."

Welfare Program Quarterly Church Conference Topic

The welfare program of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints will be discussed at the quarterly conference of the Washington Stake next Saturday and Sunday at the chapel, 16th and Columbia rd. nw.

J. Willard Marriott, stake president, said the principal speaker will be Henry G. Moyle, a member of the Council of the Twelve Apostles of the church and director of its welfare program.

Two films on Mormon Church welfare programs, produced by church members who are executives of Walt Disney studios, will be shown in the amusement hall of the chapel at 8 p. m. Saturday. The movies and general sessions of the conference on Sunday at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m., at which Mr. Moyle will speak, are open to the public.

A special meeting for the priesthood of the stake will be at 6:30 p. m. Saturday.

Winter Schedule Back

Services at Westomerland Congregational Church, Westmoreland Circle nw., will return to the winter schedule Sunday. The Rev. Philip Gordon Scott, pastor, will speak at 11 a. m. on "The People Are Too Many."

End Gambling Or Legalize It, City Jury Says

Baltimore, Sept. 9 (AP).—The Baltimore grand jury today said police ought to start enforcing the gambling laws wholeheartedly or else gambling should be legalized.

Perhaps the best remedy, it said, is heavier fines and some prison sentences for violators.

The comments were made in the final report of a jury panel that has been sitting since May.

Col. Beverly Ober, Baltimore's new police commissioner, recently reminded patrolmen on the beat that it is their duty to check on gambling and make arrests.

Up to that time, only Capt. Alexander Emerson and his vice squad brought in offenders. The grand jury warmly commended Capt. Emerson and his outfit.

"It is highly desirable," the jury said, "either to pass the necessary legislation so that these violators may be apprehended, or, as the only alternative, the legalizing of gambling.

"This grand jury is fully cognizant of the complications involved as a secondary recommendation."

Hungary Sets Red Trial

Budapest, Hungary, Sept. 9 (U.P.).—Laszlo Rajk, top Communist leader who was relieved as foreign minister and arrested last June, will go on trial September 16.

Loudoun 4-H Fair to Have 1500 Entries

Purcellville, Va., Sept. 9 (Spl.).—The fourteenth annual Loudoun County 4-H Fair will be held Saturday at the fair grounds here, with more than 1500 entries expected.

The fair will get under way at 9 a. m., when entries are to be in place. Judging will begin at 10 a. m. Also on tap, for the first time, is a parade of floats made by each of the county's 18 4-H clubs.

Entries are being made in baby beef classes, dairy cattle, swine, poultry, garden, canning, clothing, housekeeping, feed, handicrafts and hobbies.

Among county breeders from whom entries in the livestock classes are expected are Fleming Bros., Thomas Bros., Adolph Rose, Arnold Bros., Sam and Ann Legard, Frank Cornwell, Charles Poland, Randy Rust, and others.

The canning, sewing, cooking and garden entries will be shown in the auditorium. A long table there will be devoted to products of 4-H Club girls. The night pony show will bring the fair to a close.

According to Loudoun County Agent W. W. Turner, Saturday's fair promises to be the largest in its 14-year history. Purcellville is about 50 miles west of Washington on Route 7.

Dairy Show Slated Today In Nokesville

Manassas, Va., Sept. 9 (Spl.).—The first Prince William County 4-H Club and Future Farmers of America dairy show will be held at 1 p. m. (EST) Saturday at the J. F. Hale & Son farm, Nokesville.

The show, which is to be an annual affair, is aimed at increasing the interest of this county's youth in livestock. Farmers and merchants of this area have contributed more than $700 in pure bred heifers and cash, which is to be awarded to winners.

Feature competition will be in the four heifer classes. Thirty-seven boys and one girl have entered calves. The winner of each class will be given a pure bred calf. Cash prizes will go to entrants who place in the competition.

The lone girl who will compete is 9-year-old Sue Breeden, of Manassas. She will enter a Holstein calf.

"There is a class for you"

La Scott Shames Missus Macbeth

By Richard L. Coe

DAN DURYEA meets his better in the Capitol's "Too Late For Tears." Lizabeth Scott is the girl, and as a pair they make the Macbeths look like The Model Couple.

This is as good a melodrama as I've seen since Congress convened. The story's a crackerjack, the lines are often swell and the Scott-Duryea combination is a ball.

"At the risk of seeming tedjus," asks Dan after he's slapped Liz a couple of times, "wheredja stash the cash?"

After Liz has gotten Dan to buy some poison with which to kill her sister-in-law, he gazes at her cold, cold face and says: "Let me hold that little bottle while you fix me a drink."

It all gets started when Husband Arthur Kennedy and Wife Lizabeth are driving on a sea cliff road in their car. Before they know what's happened, someone's tossed a big black bag chuck full of cash into the back seat. Liz makes her nice husband keep driving and sneak the bag into their apartment. He wants to inform the police. Liz wants clothes, clothes, clothes, and, being an affectionate husband, Arthur temporizes. While he's away, comes a caller, Duryea. He hits Liz a few times, wants to know where the swag is.

Liz offers a complicated meeting place. "I don't like your setup," remarks Dan. "It sounds like a snipe hunt." But he goes along and meets her shortly after she's pumped some lead into Arthur.

"Tigers" Burns Brightly

This gets Dan into quite a party. Though he affectionately calls Liz "Tiger," he knows when he's beaten. "Tiger" doesn't miss a trick all the way down the line and the only thing that's too clever for the girl is the Code that requires malefactors, even beautiful, blonde, female malefactors, be visibly punished on the Nation's screens. Otherwise, I'm sure Dan's pal would still be living handsomely at Mexico City's swank Reforma Hotel.

Until now I've never been an admirer of La Scott, but I must say she gets her teeth into this one. She's good. Duryea is bewitched by her wickedness, which leads to a novel approach to his silken cruelties.

Don DeFore and Kristine Miller are effective as the good people involved, and Kennedy is as fine as usual, making one regret that his duties in Gotham's "Death of a Salesman" will be keeping him from the Hollywood scene.

The screen play by Roy Huggins is from his Saturday Evening Post story and Byron Haskin directed suspensefully.

"TOO LATE FOR TEARS." United Artists release produced by Hunt Stromberg. Screen play by Roy Huggins from his Saturday Evening Post serial. Photographed by William Mellor. Music by Dale Butts. Directed by Byron Haskin. At the Capitol.

THE CAST

Jane Palmer	Lizabeth Scott
Don Blake	Don DeFore
Danny Fuller	Dan Duryea
Alan Palmer	Arthur Kennedy
Kathy Palmer	Kristine Miller
Lieut. Breach	Barry Kelley

BLUE BARRON and his orchestra take over the Capitol stage with sorgs and orchestrations they've made popular . . . There's a comic on the different side in one Alan Carrier, quite a sharp fellow who makes like he's shy . . . Another good comedian is the more familiar Hal Sherman, a mightly effective man with words and feet . . . Virginia Lee lures a friend from the audience for funny acrobatic didoes . . . Barron's admirers won't be disappointed with the stage show he's gotten together.

THE S. S. MOUNT VERNON tonight will have a hillbilly wedding afloat . . . Miss Opal Erma Green of Washington, and Bernard Wilson Jenkins of Arlington, will be married by the Rev. Cleveland Autrey, a cousin to Cowboy Gene . . . Seems that the couple met at one of the local Saturday night barn dances and that Bernard proposed while Grand Ole Opry Star Jimmy Dickens was singing that he's just "a plain old country boy" . . . So, girls, it just goes to show that if you're a hillbilly fan you man get your man.

HOME LOT REUNION: Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Ford, Eleanor Powell, that is, find themselves working at the same studio for the first time in their married life. Glenn's just finished "The Doctor and the Girl," with Charles Coburn and Gloria De Haven. Eleanor will return to the lot where she was long a star for her first film in several years, "The Duchess of Idaho"

Bosox Bounce Back Behind Kinder, Jolt Yanks, 7-1

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

NEW YORK, SEPT. 9.—Casey Stengel, the Yankee manager, was developing a sudden interest today in the pitching staff of the eighth-place Nats. "Those Washingtons must think they're in a September drive for the pennant," said Stengel.

There was a mutter in his tone. His interest springs from the upcoming weekend events at Yankee Stadium, where his Yanks engage the Nats in double-headers tomorrow and Sunday, and he had not overlooked what had been transpiring this week in Philadelphia.

POVICH

"That Washington Club pitches all those dillies against the A's and comes in here loaded for us," said Stengel. "Looks like they're saving Scarborough, Harris and Hudson for us."

Stengel was completely right. In three games with the A's this week Joe Kuhel kept his top three pitchers out of action. Against the A's he successively started Jim Pearce, green-pea rookie from Charlotte; Dick Weik, winner of one game all year, and rookie Lloyd Hittle.

But the Nats can't be accused of any special prejudice against the Yanks, on the basis of any preference for the Red Sox of Joe Cronin, son-in-law of Clark Griffith. It was one of Griffith's pitchers, Scarborough, who threw a six-hitter at the Red Sox and knocked 'em out of the pennant in the last week of last season.

THE YANKEES' pennant chances worsened slightly with that defeat by the Red Sox this afternoon, but you'd have to call their position a very nice one, still. The figure filberts have come up with the interesting data that if the Yanks win 15 of their last 23 games, the Red Sox would have to take 14 of 18, even to get a tie.

The Red Sox were a dashing ball club today, liking the whole idea of slapping down the Yanks, and there was one episode when they appeared to be rubbing it in. Birdie Tebbetts, who owns all the base-running speed of a rheumatic snail and is rated the man least likely to beat out a bunt, did that in the seventh inning to the flat-footed surprise of third baseman Bobby Brown.

This is not the Joe DiMaggio series. Big DiMaggio couldn't collar any kind of a hit in the two games, or even come close. But Stengel made DiMag's status clear enough when he said, "I'm not benching him against any kind of pitching."

THE YANKEES were giving Bill Johnson, their substitute first baseman, a horrible time of it all day. Their infielders turned loose five low throws at Johnson in the first three innings, all of which he dropped. At that point the Yankees needed more than anything else a lecture by fight referee Arthur Donovan with his patented "keep 'em up" warning.

Joe McCarthy, a hermit in the Red Sox dugout most of the year, made one of his rare appearances on the field in the seventh inning. It was a moral-support gesture toward Ellis Kinder who had the bases full of Yankees. Kinder breezed a morale-supported third strike past Bobby Brown to get out of trouble.

Tavern-keeper Hugh Casey moved in for his first pitching stint with the Yankees after Ed Lopat was replaced for a pinch-hitter in the seventh. The calm of Casey's Brooklyn bistro, even on a night when the joint was jumping, was wonderful compared to the two-run storm he ran into. He wild-pitched one run home.

These Yankees apparently are never to be confused with free-swinging Yankee teams of an earlier era. Six runs behind, one out and a man on base in the ninth, Phil Rizzuto laid down a bunt.

Cards Lose To Reds, 6-1, Miss Chance To Up Lead

Cincinnati, Sept. 9 (AP).—Johnny Wander Meer stopped the St. Louis Cardinals with a masterful five-hit pitching performance tonight that gave the Cincinnati Reds a 6-to-1 victory over the pennant-seeking Redbirds. The decision held the St. Louis first-place margin over Brooklyn at one game.

The Cards, who had won 11 and tied 1 with Cincinnati in their last 12 games, could have stretched their National League lead to two games by winning tonight, but Vander Meer stopped all that.

Big Johnny has won only five games all season and three of those victories have been over St. Louis. Two of them were shutouts but he was at his best tonight.

He yielded a run in the first inning and then cut the Cards down with machine-like precision until the ninth. In that seven inning stretch, from the second through the eighth, only 23 men faced the Cincinnati southpaw and only one got beyond first base.

Vander Meer weakened momentarily in the ninth when he gave up singles to Stan Musical and Nippy Jones and walked Enos Slaughter. All of that came with one out. Then Vandy bore down again. Marty Marion went down swinging and Del Rice flied out for game-ending putout.

The Reds did lusty clubbing at four St. Louis pitchers—Alpha Brazle, Ted Wilks, Jerry Staley and Bill Reeder.

Giants Break Dodger Streak

Brooklyn, Sept. 9 (AP).—The New York Giants piled it on thick today as they scored one of their infrequent victories over Brooklyn's Dodgers by a 10-1 count.

The loss snapped a six-game Brooklyn winning streak.

A six-run splurge in the seventh inning, highlighted by the two-run homers of Bob Thomson and Henry Thompson, ruined Preacher Roe and the Brooks.

Roe, who had dueled Lefty Dave Koslo in a shutout match for six innings, was reached for five of the runs and had none out when he was relieved by Ralph Branca. Branca was touched for one more in that inning, on Jackie Robinson's error, and for another two in the eighth.

Kiner Clouts 44th Homer

Pittsburgh, Sept. 9 (AP).—Andy Pafko's grand slam homer climaxed a seven-run fifth inning tonight as the Chicago Cubs crushed the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-1 behind the three-hit pitching of Walt Dubiel. Ralph Kiner hit his forty-fourth home run of the year in the ninth inning for the Pirates' only score.

Gavilan Whips Castellani in Ten

New York, Sept. 9 (AP).—Kid Gavilan of Havana twice floored Rocky Castellani, Luzerne, Pa., gamester, to whip the 1948 "rookie of the year" by a unanimous 10-round decision tonight in the opener of the Madison Square Garden boxing season. Gavilan weighed 150, Castellani 154¾.

Robinson by TKO

Omaha, Sept. 9 (AP).—Sugar Ray Robinson, world welterweight champion, tonight scored a fifth-round TKO over Benny Evans of Oklahoma City. Robinson floored the willing Evans four times en route to the victory.

TAKOMA HOPEFUL—Bettie Roland, District swimming champion in four departments, is one of Takoma pool's representatives in the swimming races of the President's Cup Regatta program today at 2 p. m. at Indian Spring Country Club. She holds titles in the 150-yard individual medley, 100-yard freestyle, 220-yard freestyle, and 100-yard breaststroke

Regatta Swim Opens at Indian Spring

A record field of 210 swimmers has entered the President's Cup Regatta swimming meet which starts at 2 p. m. today at the Indian Spring Country Club pool, and with a host of national and Olympic champions and one world record holder competing, records appear due for a kicking around.

Olympic star Joe Verdeur, world record holder for the 300-meter breaststroke, represents the Brighton Hotel team of Atlantic City and is chief reason that club is favored to retire the President's Cup, awarded annually to the team winning the 300-meter medley relay.

Verdeur's record for the 300-meter breaststroke is 2:30, and with him swimming the second leg of the backstroke, breaststroke, freestyle event, Brighton is heavily favored to win for the third straight time. The 23-year-old Philadelphian also holds the Olympic mark of 2:39.3.

Washington's chief hope is 20-year-old Bettie Rowland. Swimming in the Takoma team colors, Bettie recently won four individual events and was a member of two winning teams in the D. C. AAU championships.

Ambassador Hotel's swimming club has entered more than 100 events and will have some 55 swimmers in action, topped by several D. C. AAU champs.

Dave Scott and Milt Eaton of Ambassador and Charles Hallock and Lou Hodges of Takoma figure to make the win column. Scott is the District 100-meter freestyle champ, Eaton, D. C. breast-stroke titlist, and Hodges recently won the backstroke in the D. C. AAU meet. Halleck was second in the freestyle and may prove the dark horse in the event.

Schedule for Weekend Cup Regatta Swim

Bonadies Wins Last Lanham Race

Tony Bonadies, of the Bronx, won the 100-lap championship last night on the final card of the season at the West Lanham Speedway before 5200 fans.

Ed "Dutch" Schaefer, Floral Park, Long Island, pushed Bonadies for 85 laps before running into tire trouble. Schaefer still managed to finish second ahead of Larry Bloomer, Norristown, Pa.

Against Cardinals

Gilmer Leads 'Skins Tonight in Hometown

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 9.—Two years after his last collegiate appearance here, Birmingham's favorite football son, Harry Gilmer, comes back to Legion Field tomorrow as a member of the Washington Redskins in their exhibition tussle with the Chicago Cardinals.

The game will benefit the Children's Hospital fund and be a preview of both teams' first league outing September 26, but to the 25,000 Alabamans in the stands it will be just a setting for "Harry to run and pass and run."

Gilmer has packed a lot of heartache into the time since he last ran wild at Legion Field. That was in late 1947 when the tow-headed youngster, after setting University of Alabama opponents on their heels for three years and leading the Crimson Tide into as many bowl games, took the field against an unbeaten Georgia eleven.

As rabid as were the packed stands, there were few who thought even Gilmer could stave off Georgia's bid for a Sugar Bowl bid. But the little son of a Birmingham carpenter completed his first six passes and personally plowed over for 'Bama's first touchdown. When his team needed another score, it was Gilmer who got off a 21-yard pass to Rebel Steiner to beat the Bulldogs, 14-7.

Since that glorious day which wound up his college career, Gilmer has run exactly seven plays for his professional owners, the Redskins. One was in a token appearance here last year. The other six were in National Football League competition as the courageous youngster battled a serious leg injury.

Now Gilmer is whole again and Birmingham breathlessly awaits gametime, when it expects Harry 'to show these ol' pros how to play football."

To Gilmer himself the affair is of utmost importance, although only an exhibition. "I can't let the hometown folks down, now can I?" he asked today as he continued his back-breaking round of personal appearances, practices and skull drills.

Redskin and Cardinal coaching staffs will be taking the outcome seriously, too. Despite mediocre success in preseason action so far, the Cardinals are being tabbed one or two-touchdown favorites because they were Western Division champions last year.

They'll present a seasoned, albeit injury-ridden, lineup against Coach Billick Whelchel's contenders from Washington. But what the Redskins lack in seasoning they could make up in rookie hustle—with Gilmer a possible deciding factor.

Harry again will back up the old master, Slingin' Sammy Baugh at the quarterback slot. Halfbacks Rob Goode and Dan Sandifer, and Fullback Ed Quirk fill out the

Col. Matt Winn, 88, Rushed Onto Operating Table

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 9 (AP). Col. Matt Winn, 88, world famed as "Mr. Kentucky Derby," was admitted to St. Joseph Infirmary tonight and a few minutes later was wheeled into an operating room.

Nature of his illness could not be learned immediately. Doctors and members of the family at the hospital declined to discuss his condition.

Colonel Winn enjoyed the crowning experience of his colorful sports career last spring when he celebrated the Diamond Jubilee of the Derby.

After the spring racing season here, he went to his summer cottage on Long Island, N. Y., to rest. He appeared in good health at that time.

Winn, president of Churchill Downs, home of the Derby, was 13 the day he saw Aristides win the first Derby back in 1875. Since then, he has seen them all. And since 1902 he has been head of the corporation which, under various names, has owned Churchill Downs and managed the Kentucky Derby.

Bolling Wins Again In Air Force Tourney

Bolling meets Lowry Field of Denver, Colo., tomorrow.

Macks Sweep Series With Nats, 5 to 2

Philadelphia, Sept. 9.—Connie Mack's parade of southpaws completed a clean sweep of the three-game series with the Washington Nats here tonight when Bobby Shantz, one of the smallest hurlers in the majors, won 5-2, before 1518 who composed the third smallest crowd ever to see a night game at Shibe Park.

Lefthanders Alex Kellner and Lou Brissie beat the eighth-placers in a twin bill here Thursday.

Lloyd Hittle, Nats $50,000 Coast purchase was outpitched by the runty 5-foot, 6-inch Shantz who cost the Athletics carfare from a neighborhood sandlot. Hittle was responsible for all the winners' runs before leaving the work for Dick Welteroth in the seventh.

The Washington southpaw, however, might have made a battle out of it except for a damaging error by Sam Dente in the first inning. The Nat shortstop booted a third out grounder by Hank Majeski and it led to a three-run damage count against Hittle before the side was retired.

Ellis Wins 9th in Row; Doerr and Pesky Homer

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

New York, Sept. 9.—Ellis Kinder, 35-year-old curve baller, gave a liberal dose of starch to the flagging flag hopes of the Boston Red Sox today with a smart four-hit, 7-1 conquest of the pace-setting Yankees.

Before 53,548 stadium fans, come to see the Yanks apply the crusher to the second-place Sox, Kinder rallied the Boston club with his ninth consecutive pitching triumph.

In a shabby exhibition, marked by three grievous fielding errors plus their futility against Kinder, the Yanks permitted the Boston club to lop a full game off what had been a 2½-game lead.

Bosox Get 9 Hits

Against left-hander Ed Lopat and reliever Hugh Casey the Red Sox turned loose nine hits, highlighted by their first safe blow of the game—Johnny Pesky's two-run blast into the right field seats. Little Pesky, deemed least likely among the Red Sox to hit a homer, matched his previous home run output of the season with his third-inning smash off Lopat. He had last hit a homer on May 1, in Yankee Stadium.

Bobby Doerr crashed a homer into the same seats an inning later, to improve Kinder's lead to 3-0, and from those two blows the Yanks never did recover.

It was no breeze for Kinder. He walked nine men and was in trouble frequently, but only two Yankees progressed past second base.

Yankees Threaten

Kinder got over the big hump in the seventh after Rizzuto singled for the Yanks' second hit of the day and scored Johnson, who had walked. A walk to Woodling, Kinder's third of the inning, filled the bases with two out, the Yanks trailing by four runs, and Bobby Brown up.

At this point, Manager Joe McCarthy moved out on the diamond to confer with Kinder, left him in, and was rewarded when the venerable right-hander struck out Brown on a curve ball.

And at a time when Kinder needed another lift he got it in the eighth from First Baseman Bill Goodman. Joe DiMaggio opened the inning with a single, and Yogi Berra drove a fierce smash toward right field. Goodman lifted himself fully 5 feet into the air to spear the ball and make a landing on first base for a killing double play.

Technically, the first two Boston runs were unearned, with Phil Rizzuto making a wild throw to

Johnny Mercer's Recording the Tune

Fans Ready to Sing Choo Choo's Praises

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Sept. 9.—They're not only talking about All-America Charlie Justice down here, but they're singing about him as well.

"All the Way Choo-Choo," a jivy, catchy little tune which extolls the virtues of North Carolina's scintillating halfback, is the current rage of Chapel Hill.

Orville Campbell, who wrote the lyrics and Hank Beebe, who composed the music, are hopeful that the popularity of their first production won't be restricted to this immediate area. They don't expect the little ditty to achieve the prominence and acclaim that North Carolina's brilliant football player has amassed, but they are confident they'll gain a lot of financial yardage with the effort.

To properly present the song about one of America's foremost football players, the authors have selected Johnny Mercer, one of America's foremost stylists.

THE COMPOSERS are in New York today making final arrangements for the Mercer recording. They wanted to take Justice along for 'inspirational effect," but Football Coach Carl Snavely suggested that Mercer could get along without Justice much more easily than the Carolina football team could, even for a few days.

As a result, Choo Choo remains in Chapel Hill trying to go all the way in practice while Mercer is in New York working over "All The Way Choo Choo."

Nowhere in the verse or the six choruses is there a mention of Justice's name. On the cover page of the sheet music, however, are four pictures of Justice, three in football uniform with his familiar No. 22 and as any good Tar Heel knows, who else could be No. 22 except their Choo-Choo?

THE AUTHORS cringe when asked if Justice will share in the royalties. "He's a college football player," they remind you. "Charlie's just wild about the song and has wished us all the success in the world. Gee, he's a great boy."

Chances are "All The Way Choo Choo" won't be the rage of Washington for some time yet. As a public service to Undersecretary of State Jimmy Webb, restauranter Jim Magner, Football Coach Jim Tatum and other Carolina alumni in Washington, here are a couple of verses:

"A touchdown pass would break a tie,
"The end said hit me in the eye,
"While thousands roared, the coach looked glum,
"Choo-Choo merely said 'which one?'"
(Chorus)
"All the way Choo-Choo, all the way, a-chug chug chugga with a hip hooray, bing, bat, boot that ball around, open that throttle and cover ground.
"Punt formation once was called,
"Choo-Choo waited for the ball,
"Why it ought to be against the law,
"They found that ball in Arkansas."

While these two verses deal with Justice's passing and kicking ability, there are two others which musically deal with Justice's prowess as a runner.

The last verse is a double compliment to Choo-Choo all in itself.

"At the football game he does all the stunts,
"He runs or passes, fakes or punts;
"Between the halves he leads the band,
"Then sells peanuts in the stands."

Haley, O'Keefe Lead Gonzaga to 32-6 Win Over Mt. Vernon

Corby Cup Taken by Mrs. Levy

By Leila Edwards

Consistent golf won the highly coveted Corby Cup for Mrs. Gilbert R. Levy of Prince Georges Country Club yesterday at Columbia in the last event scheduled by the Women's District Golf Association.

Steady nines of 44 and 43 gave Mrs. Levy an 87, and she deducted a 12 handicap for a net 75. Ten one-putt greens, plus the ability to avoid hazards and sandtraps which plagued most of the field of 100 players accounted for her victory.

The lowest gross score of the day was posted by Mrs. A. B. Bower of Manor. Mrs. Bower, who has been a winner in every tournament she has played in this year, scored a 40-39—79 to win.

Mrs. Walter R. Stokes, also of Manor, trailed Mrs. Bower by two strokes, shooting a 45-36—81.

Second low net was the best Mrs. H. E. Davies, Manor, could do as three-putt greens added unnecessary strokes to her card of 89-13—76.

Mrs. Frank Mirth, Washington, with 89-12—77, was given third net, while Mrs. J. R. Lewis, Prince Georges, placed fourth with 90-12—78.

Two players tied for the fifth spot, Mrs. John Long, Indian Spring, 91-11—80, aand Mrs. D. H. Henderson, Congressional, 85-5—80. Mrs. Long won out in the matching of cards, 6 down to par, and Mrs. Henderson was sixth with 9 down.

Another tie occurred when two of the lower handicappers, Mrs. Stokes, Manor, with 81-0—81, and Mrs. Rex Howard, Kenwood, 85-4—81, deadlocked for seventh place. Mrs. Stokes was matched into the top space, with 8 down to par, and Mrs. Howard received eighth prize, 11 down.

Other winners:

Ninth—Mrs. C. B. Hartman, Indian Spring, 95-13—82.

Eleventh—Mrs. Lillian Riley, Washington, 94-12—82.

Twelfth—Mrs. Betty Meckley, Kenwood, 85-3—82.

Mrs. M'Cord Wins Army Navy Event

Mrs. Frank C. McCord, 110—28—82, won the ladies' day 18-hole full handicap tournament at Army Navy Country Club yesterday. One stroke back, 109—26—83, was Mrs. C. P. Martin.

Mrs. L. K. McIntyre won the nine-hole tournament with 58—14—44 and Mrs. E. P. Schrut was runner-up, 61—14—47.

Winners in the ringer tournament, announced yesterday, were, class A—Mrs. C. G. DeKay, 68; Mrs. J. S. Phillips, 69; Mrs. William Schoech, 70; class B—Mrs. C. P. Martin, 79; Mrs. Philip Whaeman, 81 took the honors.

Dedrick Wins Junior Golf Title at Kenwood

Don Dedrick won the Kenwood Country Club junior championship yesterday by defeating John Eisinger, 4 and 3. Dedrick was 6 over par for the 15 holes played.

Dedrick, turned 2 up, won the tenth and then halved the next three holes with pars before winning the fourteenth with another par 4s Eisinger went over par to go 4 down. Dedrick closed out the match on the next hole with a par halve.

Nolan Takes Two Passes For Scores

On the passing of Billy Haley and the running of Tommy O'Keefe, Gonzaga High swept to a 32-6 opening football game victory over Mount Vernon before 5000 last night in Mount Vernon's stadium, just outside Alexandria.

Haley's tosses accounted for the first three Gonzaga scores, the first on a 45-yard play with Tom Welch the receiver. Mike Nolan caught the next two on plays of 70 and 34 yards.

O'Keefe reeled off scoring runs of 9 and 55 yards in the second half, the second run coming after he latched onto a 5-yard pitch by Greg Meuback. Mount Vernon scored with two minutes left on a 52-yard pass play, Stan Kelly to Ed West.

After Haley's dazzling passing display in the first half, when he picked up more than 200 yards through the air, O'Keefe put on a great show of running.

Following the second half kickoff, O'Keefe sparked the Eagles on a 95-yard land drive. In seven plays, he picked up 67 of the yards and with the ball on Mount Vernon's 9, he powered through the middle to score.

Davis Makes First Test of Knee in Scrimmage Today

Andy Davis' banged-up knee gets its first hard test in scrimmage today, and George Washington University's football fortunes depend on the outcome.

The Colonials' varsity will clash with the freshmen squad at 4 p. m. on Frog Island, and Davis will try to prove he's okay before about 15 Southern Conference reporters, who have been invited up for the occasion.

The blond flash hurt his knee in the Duke and Georgetown games last year, and had cartilages removed in a springtime operation.

2 Horse Shows For D. C. Fans On Weekend

By Harry De Mawby Jr.

The Montgomery County Horse Show to be held on the farm of T. A. (Lex) Barnsley at Olney, Md., today and the last of a series of two member shows of the Washington Bridle Trails Association at Equitation Field in Rock Creek Park tomorrow are the local equine offerings this weekend.

The twentieth annual Montgomery starts at 10 a. m. with particular interest centered on heavy draft horse classes, breeding classes and driving contests for four- and six-horse teams. The afternoon session, starting at 1:30 p. m., includes five hunter classes, two open jumping events, a five-gaited, fine harness, and junior saddle class listed.

The Bridle Trails Association sponsors two shows yearly for the benefit of everyday park riders, usually drawing as large a gathering of exhibitors and spectators as any of the all-day shows. It is free of charge, with no entrance fees or admission. The season's championships for association members are awarded to horses scoring the greatest number of points, accumulated in both events, in both a privately owned and public stable division.

Entering the final contest, the Potomac Riding Stable's Silver holds a 3-point lead in the stable-owned division and Tommy Thompson's Loch London is one-half point ahead of Georgie Stetson's Black Star in the privately owned division.

Mrs. Dixon Lewis Wins Congressional Golf

Mrs. Dixon Lewis, 99—18—81, won the ladies day tournament yesterday at the Congressional Country Club in class A. Class B horors went to Mrs. D. L. Moorman, 98—20—78, and Mrs. C. H. Zevallos, 107—29—78, took the class C award.

U. S. Wightman Team Takes Every Set, Sweeps to 3-0 Lead

Philadelphia, Sept. 9 (AP).—The United States team took a commanding lead in the Wightman Cup tennis competition today by sweeping aside Britain in two singles and a doubles match without the loss of a set.

Doris Hart of Jacksonville, Fla., and Mrs. Margaret Osborne duPont of Wilmington, Del., were victors over Mrs. Jean Walker-Smith and Mrs. Betty Hilton, respectively, in the singles competition. The American doubles team of Miss Hart and Shirley Fry topped off the successful day with an easy 6—1, 6—2 triumph over Jean Quertier and Mrs. Molly Blair.

The British doubles team was just no match for the capable United States duo.

A brisk wind sweeping over the Merion Cricket Club court seemed to handicap the Britons more than it did the Americans, and it was particularly disastrous to Mrs. Hilton's game as she bowed to Mrs. duPont, the American champion, 6—1, 6—3.

Miss Hart's victory was equally as decisive. She took the first set from Mrs. Walker-Smith, 6-3, and then came back with a 6—1 triumph.

Tatum Tells Almas Club Schedule Is No Pushover

Head Coach Jim Tatum of the University of Maryland football team yesterday expressed concern for his pigskin forces during the coming season and cautioned his listeners not to take the Terps' schedule too lightly.

Speaking before the weekly luncheon of the Almas Temple Club, Tatum said he thought many fans considered the Maryland schedule too soft.

"Michigan State and Boston U. will be our toughest foes," he said, but we look for plenty of trouble from the other teams that have improved steadily since the war. Out at Maryland we are considering every game a tough one until it's over."

Assault Races Stymie Today At Aqueduct

New York, Sept. 9 (AP).—Two titans of the turf, Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Stymie, greatest money winning horse of all time, and King Ranch's Assault, meet for the ninth time in their careers in the $20,000 added Edgemere Handicap tomorrow at Aqueduct.

The meeting of the two mighty thoroughbreds, accentuated by the fact that it will be the 1949 debut of Stymie, one of the most popular horses ever to race in New York, is expected to attract a crowd of 40,000. The race is at a mile and an eighth.

Stymie, winner of $911,335, has been slowly brought back to racing form by Trainer Hirsch Jacobs after a winter spent on the farm of Jack T. Skinner near Middleburg, Va. Workouts in recent days indicate that the 8-year-old son of Equestrian is razor sharp.

Assault Holds Edge

Stymie is trailed on the list of top money winners by the Calumet pair of Citation and Armed, and Assault. The King Ranch colorbearer, triple crown winner of 1946, is fourth with total earnings of $675,520.

In eight previous meetings with Stymie, Assault hold a 5-3 edge. A peculiar thing about their rivalry is that no horse has ever defeated both of them in the same race.

PITCHER HITS THE DIRT—Al Neville of Spring Grove, Md., slides into third base as Pittsburgh's Steve Krivanes lets First Baseman Dick Gaspare's throw get away in the eighth inning of yesterday's All-America Amateur Baseball Association Tournament game on the Ellipse. Pitcher Neville leaped right up, and scampered on home before Krivanes could retrieve the ball.

To Reach Semifinals

Unbeaten Heurich Routs Zanesville, 19-8

By Jules Loh

Heurich remains the only undefeated team as the All-American Amateur Baseball Association's double elimination tournament goes into the semifinal round this afternoon.

Washington's representative registered a 19-8 triumph over previously unbeaten Zanesville in the nightcap of a doubleheader last night at Griffith Stadium.

Zanesville started right out by transforming four walks into four runs in the first inning

Brewers Score Five

Washington countered with five runs after two were out in the second when Pitcher Printz singled in Elmer Leukhardt and Ralph Cooper who had singled and walked, respectively. Red Giegerich and Willie Kauffman walked to fill the bases and Charley Aquilino emptied them with a triple.

Heurich added one in the third, four in the fifth, one in the sixth, four in the seventh and four in the eighth

In the first game Baltimore knocked Susquehanna out of the tournament, 3-0.

In a game yesterday afternoon at the Ellipse, Spring Grove, defending champ, downed Pittsburg 8-2.

In today's semifinals at 1:30 at Griffith Stadium, Zanesville will play Spring Grove in the first half of a twin bill and Washington will face Baltimore in the nightcap.

Johnson to put Tebbetts on base in the third inning. It was with two out that Pesky whaled his homer.

After Doerr's homer provided Boston's fourth run, in the fourth, the Red Sox wangled another out of Lopat in the fifth without getting the ball beyond the infield. Both Tebbetts and DiMaggio beat out singles that Rizzuto and Coleman couldn't come up with.

Ted Williams supplied the Red Sox with their fifth run when he singled through the Yankees' Williams' shift into right field. They got their last two runs off Hugh Casey in the eighth on only one hit. He wild-pitched one of them home. The Yankees were having one of their worst days of the season.

Redskins Play Cards Tonight

backfield. Chicago's famous quartet of Paul Christman, Charley Trippi, Elmer Angsman and Pat Harder will furnish the main opposition.

Egged on by Birmingham newsmen, George Marshall, owner of the Redskins, has reopened his verbal war on the All-America Conference and its organizer, Arch Ward of the Chicago Tribune. Nobody figures to get hurt very badly. The Chicago Cardinals were laboring under a misapprehension when they traded two veterans to the Redskins for Halfback Bob Nussbaume. They thought he was a defensive standout. So now he's used solely as a safety man. In Gilmer's best year at Alabama (1945) he competed 57 out of 88 passes for 13 touchdowns and 905 yards with three interceptions. Baugh set three N. F. L. records in 1947 by competing 210 tosses in 354 attempts picking up 2938 yards and 25 touchdowns with 15 interceptions after the Redskins.

Civil Service Unit To Help Find Jobs For Laid-off Workers

At the direction of the President, the Civil Service Commission is mapping out a program to the thousands of laid-off career employes find other jobs.

A new job-hunting unit will be created in the commission's examining division. An examiner will be placed in charge and made responsible for placing different groups of Federal workers, such as clerks, skilled mechanics, professional, technical and other workers.

The laid-off career people will be given frank advice on job prospects. Unfortunately, too many can't be placed in agencies other than those that laid them off. They will be told to keep in touch with the personnel offices of their agencies on vacancies and turnover.

Special noncompetitive tests will be given career people who decide to seek jobs in other lines of work. A laid-off clerk, for example, could be given a typist test and certified for a typist job if she passes.

The jobless employes will be placed at the top of appropriate Civil Service registers directly under eligible, disabed veterans. The commission will give them top priority to fill vacancies for a year.

JOBS: This is good news for men who are looking for clerical jobs. The Veterans' Administration wants to hire up to 400 Grade 2 tabulating-machine operators (men only) here to help get out GI dividend checks. No Civil Service status or experience is required for the jobs, which won't last more than six months. If interested, make application in Room 2057 of the Munitions Building on Constitution ave. Those who are selected will be given training. Also, there may be a chance to transfer to the Census Bureau after the VA job is completed.

CSC CHAIRMAN: A White House intimate was asked who would be appointed chairman of the Civil Service Commission. He answered:

"I don't know who it will be, but I do know this—it won't be Donald Dawson because he can't be spared from his present White House job; it won't be Clarence Dykstra because he hasn't been asked, though he would be well-qualified for any Federal post, and it won't be any of the Federal personnel people who are after the job."

He added that the new chairman would have to be a good administrator, a man who knew how to work with Congress, and who had some knowledge of the Government's personnel problems. He said the list of possible appointees had been narrowed to three.

CENSUS: A decision will be made in the next few days on the city where between 5000 and 6000 temporary Census jobs will be located. It probably will be either Boston or Philadelphia.

FASTER AND BETTER: Harry B. Mitchell, chairman of the Civil Service Commission, yesterday pledged his agency would simplify its regulations and do its work faster and more efficiently. He revealed his plans in a speech before the annual convention of the National Association of Employes of Collectors of Internal Revenue at York Harbor, Me. Mitchell said in part:

"I have been concerned, and apparently everybody has been concerned about Government red tape. We have too many procedures. We have too many regulations. Too many regulations are stated in language that even a Philadelphia lawyer could not understand. I have proposed that we cut the regulations down and say what we have to say so that the average employe can understand them.

"Our commission has also pledged itself to take immediate steps to encourage better promotion programs. What we have in mind is to try to get agencies to see all of their qualified employes are considered for promotions when vacancies occur. We do not want any more persons than necessary 'lost' in the Government—in blind alleys—without opportunity to get ahead.

"I have also issued orders calling for down-to-earth letters. The Government answers millions of letters every year. A few unnecessary words cut out of most of them and the use of words that all of us can understand would be a step in the right direction.

"I am convinced that our own Civil Service Commission can improve its examinations, that it can simplify its regulations, and that it can serve the agencies and the public even better if the future than in the past."

Former D. C. Resident Killed in Car Crash

Mrs. Wm. Coleman Victim of Wreck In Virginia, Husband Seriously Injured

Mrs. Helen Ferguson Coleman, former president of the Virginia Division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, was killed in an automobile accident south of Richmond Thursday afternoon.

Her husband, Col. William A. Coleman, USA (ret.), was seriously injured and was taken to a Richmond hospital.

The Colemans, who have lived in Appomattox, Va., since Col. Coleman's retirement in 1945, were returning home from a visit with friends in Washington.

Mrs. Coleman was born in Woodstock, Va., the daughter of the Rev. Sydnor G. Ferguson, a Methodist minister, and Mrs. Catherine Hanson Ferguson. She formerly had lived in Washington during her husband's military service here. Before moving to Appomattox, the Colemans lived in Alexandria.

Mrs. Coleman is survived, in addition to her husband, by a daughter, Mrs. Richard Janatka, of Appomattox, and three sisters, Mrs. Ferguson Carey of Alexandria, Mrs. Oswald Lyon of Washington, and Mrs. James W. Foley of Winter Park, Fla.

4 Hurt When Car Overturns in Bethesda

Four persons were injured, at least two of them seriously, when their car overturned on a narrow road near Bethesda Naval hospital and hurled them to the pavement yesterday.

Taken to Georgetown University Hospital, where they were said to be unconscious and in undetermined condition, were:

Mrs. Beulah Crismond, 30, of Suitland, Md., her skull possibly fractured; Mrs. Frances Foley, 27, of 222 15th st. ne. with possible fractures of the spine, ribs, and skull, and Joseph H. Pier, 36, of 3410 Center st. nw. with a fractured elbow and bruises.

The car's driver, identified by police as Elmer P. Pier, 29, a painter of 7239 Arlington ave., Bethesda, was in undetermined condition at Suburban Hospital. Police said he was Joseph Pier's brother.

The accident occurred on Jones Bridge rd. at Hawkins ave. Police quoted a witness as saying the car was traveling at "between 50 and 60 miles an hour." It ran over a depression on the shoulder of the road, went out of control and sideswiped a tree.

According to the witness, the car turned completely over several times, rolled 213 feet, and wound up on its four wheels diagonally across the road.

When police arrived, they found all four victims had been hurled from the car, with both women lying near the auto's right side, Joseph Pier about 20 feet from the right side, and Elmer Pier kneeling by one of the women.

The car, a 1949 Oldsmobile sedan, was a complete loss with its entire right side torn to shreds. The four injured persons were taken to Georgetown and Suburban hospitals by the Bethesda-Chevy Chase and Kensington rescue squads.

Neely Sets Round-Table Session Date

Senate District Chairman Matthew M. Neely (D., W.Va.) yesterday set 10 a. m. Monday for the start of his conference with representatives of Washington groups about ways to improve their city.

Neely said his present plan is to have the meeting in the Senate District Committee room in the Capitol. But if a standing-room-only crowd turns out the meeting may be shifted to a larger room, probably the Senate caucus room in the Senate Office Building, he said.

From the letters of those who have expressed interest in attending, Neely said, a conference of more than 50 persons is likely, and their sessions may run into two days at least.

The meetings are planned as Neely's first official move as District Committee Chairman in formulating the outlines of future District legislation.

He emphasized that he wants to receive the constructive suggestions for city betterment from representatives of substantial local groups.

"I'm just hoping that we can develop some program that can get everybody behind it," said Neely. "I'm hoping that some things will be found in an area of general agreement about which we can do something without stirring up a fight."

He said he is interested in receiving the advice of any persons who believe that they have constructive ideas for promoting the general welfare of the city. But he cautioned that he does not want the meeting to become a gripe session for the airing of personal complaints.

Toddlers in a Tots' Nursery School . . .

THE STORY HOUR IN THE NURSERY SCHOOL AT 6719 CONWAY AVENUE, TAKOMA PARK

3 Girls Find Sweet Tooth Does Wonders

A lollipop a day keeps the tears away.

That's a formula guaranteed to work by three young Takoma Park girls who operate a successful day nursery.

Some time ago, Mrs. Bernard S. Klateman of 6719 Conway ave., Takoma Park, remembered she'd heard about a nursery run by children. It occurred to her the same might be done in her neighborhood. She put the idea up to her daughter, Sandra, 10 years old.

Sandra conferred with playmates Barbara Kimmel, 11, of 402 Circle ave., and Carol Gondolf, 9, of 6712 Conway ave. They liked the idea.

Formula Is Simple

And so, each morning at 9:30 nine toddlers from 20 months to 4 years of age have been arriving at the Klateman home in the arms of their mothers. At noon, lollipop in hand, they are returned by the three nursery operators. When lunch is finished, the candy is theirs.

Free of charge, the three girls lead games, teach drawing, read, hold songfests, and so on. There are chairs and benches to sit on, swings to swing on, teddy bears and toys to play with.

Sandra, Barbara and Carol maintain a daily record of attendance and conduct.

"If they're not good," the girls say, "they don't get a sucker." It's as simple as that, and it works.

Weekday Sessions Over

According to Mrs. Klateman, having nine tots romping on her lawn each morning hasn't caused a bit of inconvenience. "I just look out every now and then," she says. The girls, she says, do a bang-up job of watching them.

Unfortunately, the return of school days will eliminate weekday sessions. But the girls like their work well enough to want to continue. They'll be running the nursery each Saturday from now on.

Hotel Worker Dies in Plunge From Bridge

J. Wilton Dedge, 67-year-old Shoreham Hotel timekeeper, kissed his wife goodby as usual yesterday morning when he set out for work shortly before 6 a. m.

"I'll call you around 8:30 a. m.," he promised as he left their apartment at 611 Maryland ave. ne.

His wife, Kathryn, never got her telephone call. Instead, authorities notified her that her husband stopped at the rail of the Calvert Street Bridge on his way to work, paused there briefly, then plunged 100 feet to his death on the Rock Creek Park roadway below.

"I can't understand why he did it," she sobbed later. "He acted just as usual when he left this morning. He didn't give a sign that he was thinking of doing such a thing."

Mrs. Dedge said her husband's ill health could be the only possible reason for his death. He had a hernia and just a short while ago had suffered a severe case of ptomaine poisoning, she said.

Police said he was identified by papers in his pocket but that he left no notes. Fellow workers at the hotel told them he had appeared despondent for some time. Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald issued a certificate of suicide.

The Dedges came to Washington in 1941, after living for a number of years in New York City and Newark, N. J., where Dedge was employed as a private detective. He worked at the British Embassy here during the war, and had been employed at the Shoreham Hotel since May, 1946, Mrs. Dedge said. He was a native of Echols County, Ga.

Besides his wife, he is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Laura Dedge Chambers, of Cheverly, Md.; Mrs. D. W. Guyton, of Marion, S. C., and Mrs. Y. F. Allen, of Valdosta, Ga., and a brother, Edward C. Dedge, of Halo, Ga.

Fire-Escape Fall Injures Boy, 4

Four-year-old William Guillory was injured yesterday afternoon when he fell two stories from a fire escape adjoining his home at 103 2d st. ne.

He was admitted to Casualty Hospital with a possible fractured skull and face bruises.

Police said his mother, Mrs. Jeffery Guillory, could not explain how he came to be on the fire escape at 101 2d st. The youngster landed on earth alongside of the sidewalk, they said.

Matchbook Collectors Show 'Treasures'

Matchbook collectors from all over the country huddled together last night at the Dodge Hotel discussing prized covers and swapping tales of legendary matchbook heroes.

With particularly fervid interest they heard the oft-told but always welcomed tale of the Well Digger, the father of them all.

His name unfortunately has passed into oblivion, it seems, but his story lives wherever matchbook collectors gather.

He it was who was digging a well in the flat lands of Kansas one day when the pipe he was smoking snuffed out. So up he climbed out of the well to seek a matchbook in his coat lying on the ground. Just then, they say, the well caved in.

A sage and grateful man, the Well Digger thereafter venerated the matchbook, for, of course, it had saved his life. And he devoted his remaining years to matchbook collecting.

Thus is the tale often told by the faithful. Like last night, when it was told by Edgar A. Perkins, a Hyattsville real estate man with a Herculean build and a flattened matchcover looped to his buttonhole—the convention insignia.

A tolerant man, Convention Chairman Perkins graciously overlooked a reporter's use of a lighter and showed him the impressive match collections on display—collections of little, medium and jumbo-sized matches; exhibits of movie star matches and hotel matches and athletes matches.

Perkins explained his own entrance into the match-collecting fold with great frankness:

"I used to make ashtrays, with a glass tray in the middle circled by match covers. Then it dawned on me it was a shame to ruin match covers this way, so I gave up making matchcover ashtrays and began collecting match covers."

He pointed out the priceless original matchcover, hand-made in 1892 as an advertisement for the Mendelson Opera Co. of New York, owned by the Diamond Match Co., and insured for $25,000.

Bias in Schools Of Arlington Denied by Early

Girl Complainant In Error on Lack Of Courses, Negro Principal Says

By Richard Morris
Post Reporter

Superintendent William A. Early testified yesterday that discrimination, if it exists in Arlington County schools, is against whites rather than Negroes.

His comment came under direct examination in an Alexandria Federal District Court suit, charging the county with racial discrimination in its high schools.

The suit was brought by Constance Carter, a 17-year-old pupil at Hoffman-Boston High School (Negro), who asks that she be given equal educational opportunities with white students or be admitted to the county's white high school.

Four Courses Were Available

Before Early was called, Negro Principal Stephen M. Syndor of the Hoffman-Boston School testified that four courses the girl claims she was unable to take in 1946 were in fact being taught at the time.

He said she was mistaken in her claim that Spanish, civics, typing and physical education were not available. The last course was not taught by a "certificated" instructor, he conceded. But since that time, two such teachers have been added for the purpose.

The defense for the school board and superintendent have one more witness to present. Judge Albert V. Bryan continued the hearing until next month—probably October 18—because of his docket in Norfolk next week.

Lawrence Douglas, defense attorney, asked Early if he had observed discrimination against Negroes "solely on account of their race or color."

White Schools Antiquated

"I have not," Early replied. "Discrimination has been against the whites, if anything." He alluded to three "antiquated" white elementary school buildings, saying Negroes have "all modern buildings, well-equipped, well-ventilated and adequate."

Early would not concede under cross-examination by Attorney Oliver Hill, that white school facilities are restricted to whites "purely on the basis of race."

"It's purely on the basis of law," Early said. If a white student attempted to enter Hoffman-Boston, he would be sent to Washington-Lee High School by the same token, he added. State law requires segregation.

Early said inability to provide desired courses for whites or Negroes in Arlington would necessitate sending students to regional high schools in Manassas, Va. Arrangements have been completed, he said.

The plaintiff's attorneys have concentrated largely on failure of the school board to provide exactly the same course for Negro and white high school students.

Dr. Howard A. Dawson, director of rural services for the National Education Association, is the principal defense witness yet to be heard.

Two Freed Of Numbers Charges

Charges against two men, who claimed they were "trapped" into writing numbers for a plain clothes police officer who operated under an assumed name, were dismissed yesterday in Arlington County Court by Associate Trial Justice Harry R. Thomas.

Found innocent of charges of operating a lottery "by virtue of entrapment" were: V. Harold Ramsey, 37, of 1729 Massachusetts ave. se. and Raymond Cullen, 22, of 1707 N. Monroe st, Arlington. Ramsey, who operates a gas station at 4019 Lee Highway, Arlington, is Cullen's employer.

According to testimony, police officer M. Reedy placed numbers bets with Ramsey on August 17 and with Cullen on August 18, after he was introduced to the men by James Sisk of Vienna, Va. Sisk, who is Cullen's brother-in-law, introduced Reedy as his wife's uncle, Mortis Kidwell, it was testified.

The two men were arrested August 18, by Detectives Russell Runyon and John Sanders, who said they confiscated several dozen numbers slips. Both men signed statements August 18, admitting they had taken numbers for "friends and a few customers" over a period of two months, according to Runyon. They denied, however, that they had ever made any profit from handling these numbers.

Arlington Police Chief H. L. Woodyard indicated yesterday he will ask Commonwealth's Attorney Denman T. Rucker for a ruling on whether the court decision will effect methods of police arrest in gambling cases.

12 to Fight Extradition In Prince Georges Gaming

Twelve persons indicted by the Prince Georges County grand jury on gambling charges last May will fight extradition from Washington to Maryland, they announced yesterday.

The extradition hearings were postponed by Judge Mathhew F. McGuire of District Court until October 10. The suspects refused to waive their right to the hearing.

They were listed as William (Snags) Lewis, George P. Scott, Fred Sutton, Lonnie Black, Mae M. Cooley, Ralph Spottswood, Edward L. Hinkle, Gregory Seger, Sterling D. Welch, Ellis Solet, Philip Samakow and Helen Danhakl.

Woman, 26, Is Seized As Lottery Operator

Vice squad detectives yesterday arrested a 26-year-old woman at 303 7th st. se. and charged her with operation of a lottery and possession of numbers slips.

Lieut. Roy Blick, vice squad chief, said the woman, Lillian Walker, of 714 6th st. nw., was arrested on the second floor by detectives who had a warrant. She threw numbers books and slips out the window as police closed in, Blick said.

Police recovered marked money, according to Blick. The woman was arraigned before United States Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence and released under $1500 bond. Her case was continued until September 15 so she could get a lawyer.

Astronomer to Speak

Dr. Brancroft W. Sitterly, American University professor and formerly astronomer at the Van Vleck Observatory and the U. S. Naval Observatory, will speak on "The Shape of Our Universe" at a public lecture, sponsored by the National Capital Astronomers tonight at 8 o'clock in the Commerce Department's auditorium.

D. C. Fireman Found Dead, Gun Nearby

A day of reminiscing about war experiences by two District firemen was climaxed some time later yesterday when one of the firemen was found fatally shot in his front yard at 4109 Southern ave. ne., with his pistol nearby.

Pvt. Joseph H. Price, 42, of No. 8 Engine Company, in celebration of the fourth anniversary of his Army discharge spent the earlier part of the day with his friend, Pvt. William J. Moore, of 201 33d st. ne., a member of the same company, who was discharged from the Coast Guard four years ago August 30.

Price's body was found fully clothed by a neighbor, Cecil Gilbert, of 4115 Southern ave. se., about 5:45 p. m. A bullet wound was in the right temple.

The weapon, a target pistol, was identified by a brother, William Price, of 1708 R st. se., as one which previously belonged to his father, Herbert Price, who died last November.

Dr. James I. Boyd, deputy medical examiner for Prince Georges County, said he would issue a certificate of suicide.

A bachelor, Price joined the Fire Department in 1931. He served continuously, with the exception of three years in the Army during World War II, and had been assigned to Engine Company No. 8 since leaving the service.

Firemen there last night said he had dinner with a fellow firefighter, Pvt. E. L. Sellers, about 5 p. m. They reported Sellers described Price as "appearing happy."

Police learned he was to have worked the 6 p. m.—6. a. m. shift last night and today, but called up about noon and requested the day off.

In addition to his brother, William, Price is survived by another brother, Roland Price, of 2920 Nelson pl. se.

Fay Sends Back Shimon Papers to Major Barrett

Total Hits 59

D. C. Lists Two Cases Of Polio

Two polio cases were reported yesterday by the District Health Department, raising the District's total for the year to 59.

At this time last year, 71 cases of the disease had been reported.

Both the cases were admitted to Children's Hospital. They involved a 7-year-old boy living in the first block of Buchanan st. ne., admitted Wednesday, and a 2-year-old boy of the 400 block of 10th st. ne., admitted Thursday.

Meanwhile, the District Commissioners issued a proclamation urging public support of Polio Emergency Week, ending September 14. They asked District residents to contribute wholeheartedly to the emergency funds appeal of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

United States Attorney George Morris Fay announced yesterday that he has returned the police report on Lieut. Joseph Shimon to Maj. Robert J. Barrett, superintendent of police.

The report, it has been said, deals with wire-tapping and involves evidence in the divorce of a socially prominent Washington couple.

However, neither Barrett nor Fay has confirmed this. Barrett, commenting on one phase of the report, said Wednesday that it details how police investigators found narcotics in the desk of Shimon.

Fay, who received the report from Barrett Wednesday, said he was returning the report to Barrett with the suggestion that it should be forwarded directly to the Justice Department.

The prosecutor said this was the procedure that should be followed inasmuch as the Justice Department was consulted by Barrett before the investigation into Shimon's activities was begun.

Not long after the investigation began last month, Shimon was plucked from his post in the United States Attorney's office, returned to uniform and assigned to the Fourteenth Precinct.

For about 10 years, Shimon had been a special investigator for the United States Attorney's office.

At a press conference Wednesday, Barrett said it was believed that the cache of narcotics found in Shimon's desk was part of the loot of a gangster, Henry R. (Big Boy) Milton, who was killed by police a year ago. He said it was "more than likely" that Shimon would be tried by the police trial board for "negligence in handling evidence."

Before leaving Washington yesterday on an out-of-town trip, Barrett instructed Capt. Robert V. Murray, assistant chief of detectives, to carry the report to Assistant Attorney General Alexander M. Campbell, who heads the Criminal Division at the Justice Department.

James Hicks, Ex-Mechanic, Dies Here

Mr. Hicks

James Walter Hicks, 76, of 1627 Montague st. nw., mechanic at the Naval Gun Factory, died at Georgetown Hospital yesterday after a brief illness.

The son of an old Maryland farm family, he was born at Hicks' Mill near Bowie and educated at county schools there. He has been living in Washington for the past 50 years.

He started as a mechanic at the gun factory. When he retired in 1938 after more than 40 years service, he was Master Mechanic of the sight and miscellaneous shops.

When the war emergency began in 1940, he was appointed by President Roosevelt to act as special consultant for the Board of Economic Warfare.

Mr. Hicks was a member of the Holy Name Society and of Carroll Council No. 377, Knights of Columbus.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Clara Etter Hicks, two daughters, Mrs. Marcel Mallet-Prevost, Bethesda, Md., and Mrs. Robert Lee Peace, St. Louis, Mo.; a son, Walter R. Hicks, Manhasset, N. Y.; four sisters, Miss Nellie Hicks, Miss Minnie Hicks, Miss Agnes Hicks, and Mrs. Dora Harmon Dempsey, all of 4612 Albemarle st. nw.; and a brother, Robert Eugene Hicks, of 1512 U st. se.

Funeral services will be held Monday at the Church of the Nativity, 6008 Georgia ave. nw. The time of the services has not been determined yet. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Arlington Bride of Day Dies Of Honeymoon Fall Injuries

How a Washington telephone operator was fatally injured in a 90-foot fall from "Lover's Leap" in Webster Springs, W. Va., the day after her wedding was revealed here yesterday.

The victim was Mrs. Genevieve Dever Downs, who lived until recently with a sister, Mrs. Paul J. McCray, at 718 S. Barton st., Arlington, Va.

Mrs. Downs was married August 22 in Parkville, Md., and she and her bridegroom were visiting Mrs. Downs' family in Cleveland, W. Va., according to Mrs. McCray.

The day following their marriage they visited a bluff overlooking the river with another couple. The newlyweds both slipped on some loose shale and fell over the edge of the precipice. Downs, a City Cab driver, suffered back and leg injuries in the fall.

Mrs. Downs, a Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. operator for seven years, died of internal injuries in a hospital at Buckhannon, W. Va., on September 3.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at the Clarendon Methodist Church in Arlington and burial was in National Memorial Park.

T. P. Harrow Funeral Set

Funeral services for Thomas Patrick Harrow, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Harrow of 1900 H st. nw., who was killed in an accident in California last Saturday, will be at 10 a. m. Monday at Gawler's funeral home, 1756 Pennsylvania ave. nw. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Mr. Harrow

Mr. Harrow was killed at Antioch, Calif., when the motorcycle he was driving collided with a truck. His wife, Mrs. Pauline Harrow, who was riding with him suffered injuries to her head and hip.

Born in St. Louis, Mr. Harrow came to Washington in 1940 when his mother, Mrs. Helen Harrow, took a job on the White House staff. He was a graduate of Central High School and was employed first in 1941 as a document clerk in the House of Representatives.

He left Washington in late 1941 to take a job at the Mare Island Navy Yard in California. In 1948, he was employed as a crane operator for the Columbia Steel Mills in Pittsburgh, Calif., where he lived at the time of his death.

While in Washington, Mr. Harrow was a member of the Moose, the Washington Opera Guild junior group, and of the Washington Model Yacht Club.

3d Candidate Seeks School Board Election

A third candidate, Marcus M. Jackson, filed papers late yesterday for Arlington's School Board race, just under the midnight deadline. Two of five board seats will be filled in the November elections.

The two other candidates in the race, supported by the Arlington School Board Nominating Convention are incumbent board member Curtis E. Tuthill and E. R. Draheim.

Jackson, owner of the Jackson Funeral Home at 1309 N. Edgewood st., Arlington, is commander of American Legion Post No. 139 in Arlington, and has worked in Arlington Community Chest and Mile of Dimes drives.

Jackson said he will run on an independent platform.

He said the school board needs "a man that has been in business and is accustomed to handling large sums of money," since it has 6½ million dollars in school bond construction funds to spend.

Jackson also said he felt it "imminent and expedient that every teacher or principal, or applicants for such jobs should be screened relative to possible subversive activity and associations.

Besides the three school board candidates, the following candidates have filed for other Arlington offices:

For the one seat open on the county board: Incumbent Democrat Basil DeLashmutt; Robert W. Cox, and Jacob Bechtel, both independents.

For the two seats in the Virginia House of Delegates: Incumbent Democrats George Damm and J. Maynard Magruder; Republican I. Lee Potter.

5 Candidates Seek Falls Church Offices

Five candidates were entered last night, at the midnight filing deadline, for three Falls Church offices to be filled in the November elections.

They were:

For Commissioner of Revenue: Incumbent La Rue Van Meter, who is also city attorney; A. Burke Hertz, attorney.

For City Treasurer: Incumbent James E. Ferguson is unopposed.

For Justice of the Peace: Incumbent George T. McNab, real estate dealer; Robert C. Fitzgerald, attorney.

MRS. RICHARD WIER
. . . Washingtonian weds

The bride, who was given in marriage by her twin brother, Grahame Thomas Smallwood, jr., wore a gown of white slipper satin trimmed with rose lace. Her veil of imported illusion and rose lace was held by a tiara of silver-beaded roses and pearls, and her flowers were a bouquet of brandywine roses and lilies of the valley centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. William Neister Beasley, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Craig McCarley of Jackson, Miss., was best man, and the ushers were Lieut. (j. g.) Wilfred A. Hamel, USN, of Warren, R. I. and Lieut. (j. g.) William Edward Lucas, 3d, of Rancho Santa Fe, Calif.

The bride is a fourth generation Washingtonian. She attended schools abroad and she is a member of the Junior Assembly and State chairman for junior membership of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Lieutenant Wier was graduated from the University of Texas School of Business Administration. He is on duty at the Navy Department and also attends the George Washington University Law School.

After a Southern honeymoon, the couple will make their home at the Broadmoor.

IN A GOWN of candlelight satin and Caraguatay lace, Miss Anne Barber was married yesterday to Lieut. Col. George Robert Brooking. The bride is the daughter of Col. and Mrs. Henry A. Barber, jr., of Fort Monroe, Va., and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Gordon Geoghegan of Cordova, Alaska, and of Frank C. Brooking of Livingston, Mont.

The ceremony took place in the Chapel of the Centurion at Fort Monroe. Maj. Gen. Luther D. Miller, chief of chaplains, officiated at the ceremony, assisted by Maj. W. W. Bierck, post chaplain. A reception followed at the Officers' Beach Club at Fort Monroe.

Miss Dana Gunn of Little Rock, Ark., was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Barbara Emery, Miss Mary French, Miss Betsy Faris and Miss Patricia Wicks. Maj. Henry A. Barber 3d, USA, brother of the bride, was best man. Ushering were Maj. Valin R. Woodward, USAF; Lieut. Benjamin N. Murph, USAF; Lieut. Allen W. Ripley, USAF, and Lieut. Louis K. Solt, USAF.

The bride attended Holton-Arms School and Vassar College. The bridegroom attended the University of Montana and Montana State College. He served in the Aleutians and later with the 365th Fighter Group in Europe. He is

Anita Blair Tells Inner Wheel Club

Traffic No Problem for Blind Girl

By Genevieve Reynolds

A 17-year-old high school graduate, Miss Anita Blair, her sister and friend raced down a dark Texas highway at 70 miles an hour. Suddenly the driver was blinded by the bright lights of an oncoming automobile and collided with a stalled truck.

When Miss Blair recovered consciousness she had lost her sight and her interest in living. Now 27 and still blind, the tall, slender, attractive El Paso girl has more zest for life than one half the residents in the Nation's Capital. Moreover, with her nationally famous seeing-eye dog, Fawn, she weaves in and out of traffic cautiously and safely in cities throughout the country.

"Once you make up your mind that accidents don't just happen, you'll be safe," she cautioned members of the Inner Wheel Club when she appeared yesterday as guest of honor and speaker at the organization's mother-daughter luncheon held at the Mayflower Hotel.

Used White Cane at First

Miss Blair recalled how for six months she felt her way along the streets with a white cane. A white cane, she explained, is a symbol for blindness and alerts people to the fact that one needs assistance in crossing streets or climbing steps. Then she went to Morristown, N. J., and trained with Fawn.

Back in 1946 she and Fawn escaped from her eleventh-floor room in the LaSalle Hotel fire in Chicago when more than 60 persons were killed.

Recounting that vivid, dramatic moment, Miss Blair said, "I was awakened by a commotion outside my door. Fawn was standing by my bed, alertly istening. First I thought it was just another convention. After hearing screams, I put on my house coat, grabbed my pocketbook and harnessed Fawn. We went into a smoke-filled corridor jammed with panicky people. A man's voice directed me to an outside fire escape. With one hand on the rail and the other on Fawn we climbed to safety."

Tells of Fire Terror

It was only the next morning that she learned about the real tragedy. Hotel employes had turned off the lights as a safety measure and people became terrified in the dark.

"Why the lights were turned off, we'll never know," Miss Blair observed. "Someone waited 18 minutes in the manager's office before notifying the Chicago fire department."

Again cautioning on safety, she pointed out that if the people had been accustomed to the dark as she, they would not have lost their heads and could have been saved.

"I had to learn about safety the hardest way." Miss Blair remarked alluding to the loss of her eyesight 10 years ago in the automobile accident.

In a Technicolor film, Miss Blair depicts her first attempts to move around familiar streets by a cane, and how later with Fawn she walks confidently in and out of stores, restaurants, on and off buses and streetcars. Fawn even guided her through a four-year course and a diploma at the Texas College of Mines.

And when it comes to jay walking, Fawn doesn't take a chance on jeopardizing the life of her mistress. On several occasions she refused to go with people who attempted to show Miss Blair across a street by jay walking.

"Each blind person walks to a corners to cross, that's why we have fewer accidents," emphasized Miss Blair, who was given a national safety award in 1947 as the most outstanding woman in safety.

Giving Dog Signals

While Fawn directs Miss Blair around the country, she has to depend upon her own hearing in order to give the dog signals as to when and where to take her. Also, she feeds and grooms the dog herself. Only recently when she was in a hospital has she been separated from Fawn.

According to the safety expert blind people such as Helen Keller can not depend upon a seeing eye dog to get around because of deafness.

Miss Blair has become so conscious of safety for others that she travels around the Nation telling her story to school children, men and women's organizations and countless other groups. Always with her is Fawn who retrieves a lost handkerchief or 10-cent piece.

Summing up the philosophy of her life, she concluded, "Courage begets courage and confidence begets confidence."

Mrs. George Muth, Inner Wheel president, presided and Mrs. Hobart Corning introduced Miss Blair. Birthday greetings to members were given by Mrs. Jenny Penny.

Mayonnaise Recipe For Chocolate Cake

I hope you will be able to help me obtain a recipe I have wanted for so long. My husband and I are both very fond of chocolate cake and one of the best chocolate cakes I have ever tasted was made with mayonnaise. Do you know of a recipe for this?
J. A. D.

Here is a recipe for chocolate cake made with mayonnaise which Miss Ida Lansden of the Home Service Department, Rosslyn Gas Co., has perfected. She, too, says it makes a delicious cake which can be mixed very easily.

Miracle Cake

2¼ cups cake flour or 2 cups all-purpose flour
2 cups sugar
1½ teaspoons baking soda
1½ teaspoons baking powder
4 tablespoons cocoa
¾ cup salad dressing
1 cup cold water
2 teaspoons vanilla
¼ teaspoon red vegetable coloring—if desired

Sift all dry ingredients into a bowl and add the salad dressing, water and vanilla. Whip 2 minutes at low speed on a mixer or by hand. Bake 35 minutes at 350 degrees Fahrenheit. Makes one 10-inch square or two 8-inch round layers.

For really good measure, Miss Lansden also gave me the frosting recipe which she uses with this cake.

Chocolate Wonder Frosting

2 to 4 tablespoons milk
¼ teaspoon salt
3 squares melted chocolate
1 box powdered sugar

Mix all ingredients, adding only 2 tablespoons milk to start. With ingredients mixed, if more liquid is needed add more milk to give a spreading consistency.

My father will be 75 years old soon. My mother's seventieth birthday will be about six weeks later. Is it a proper way to celebrate both occasions on the latter's birthday? Since we would like to invite friends, as well as relatives, is it correct to send written invitations? Which is the proper way to word them? What could be served? He would like an afternoon affair.
B. M. C.

Yes, it would be nice to celebrate both birthdays on the same day—either the last birthday or a convenient time between the two.

To invite a large company it is usually written on note or foded informal cards as you would a letter. You could write something like this: "We would ove to have you drop in to greet mother and father on the occasion of their birthdays. Could you come for tea on Thursday, October 19, from 3 to 5 p.m.?"

With tea, you could serve dainty sandwiches, birthday cake, mints and nuts.

I want to make a chintz skirt for my new vanity dressing table, but I don't know how. Can you give me some idea how to proceed or where I might obtain such information?
R. J. E.

"Home Decoration Guide," which can be purchased for 25 cents at sewing centers operated by a nationally known sewing machine company, contains a section on covering dressing tables. In addition to the directions given there, there are how-to-do illustrations which should make the job easy for you.

If you are a novice at sewing and the directions do not give you as much help as you need to do the job, the same sewing center where you purchase the booklet has instructors who will help you with the problem. You can take single lessons or an entire home decorating course from them.

Where can I procure a few ounces of dill oil? I understand this is on the market now, but apparently is hard to locate.
Q. V. T.

I've checked wholesale and retail druggists as well as fancy and Italian grocers and find no one who sells dill oil. I did find one man who had heard of it. He said he remembered it as being used some years ago "in the country" as a liniment. Could any of our rural readers help us with this?

Ohio Dance, Bridge to Be Held At National Airport Sept. 17

By Nicha Soure

YOU don't have to be able to cut a rug in order to enjoy yourself at the Ohio State Society dinner dance. Why, you can round up a foursome and play bridge.

For an all-around good time, the Buckeye dinner and dance at the Terrace Room of the National Airport on Saturday, September 17, is the place to go. The dinner will be at 7 p. m., centered around a menu of roast turkey and cranberry sauce. Between dinner and dancing there will be a reception by the officers for the new members of the society and their guests.

Howard Williams and his orchestra will be on the bandstand for the dancing session. Be it rumba or a waltz, sweet or swing, Howard Williams will be there for any requests.

And, of course, there will be bridge. The society will also have instructors on hand for the novices. Ohioans and their friends from other States who plan to attend can state their desire for a rubber or two of bridge when they make their reservations with John S Bartlett at Michigan 0860.

Dress will be informal at the dinner-dance, which is the first affair on the Ohio fall calendar among the frequently scheduled parties.

Robert J. Hanger is chairman of the committee on arrangements, assisted by Charles Connolly, Francis L. Carr, Miss Ruth Coe, Barry Freer, Wilfred B. Putman, Cecil J. Wilkinson and Robert W. Minor.

Show-me Staters, how about an old-fashioned Missouri picnic?

If you nod your head in approval, drive out to the Community House on Rollingwood and Beach dr., Md., today between the hours of 3 p.m. and 10 p.m. and there you are. Just as the society says:

"Whether there's rain
Or whether there's sun
We will have food
And plenty of fun."

Admission will be by membership card, with members bringing their guests if they choose. Don't come dressed up, warns the society. Slacks, playsuits or what-have-you are the order of the day.

Carving the ham again this year will be Claude M. Houchins wearing his chef's hat and a unique apron complete with a pocket for broken dishes.

Clarence McCune, the Missouri State Society president who is in charge of arrangements again this year, has announced a wide variety in the program. For the exercise-minded there will be badminton, horseshoes and tennis. Then between 4 and 6:30 Ralph Case's Dog Patch Dandies will give out with some cowboy music. Dancing at the Community House will be from 7 to 10 p.m.

How do you get to the picnic? Says the society, "Take a bus to Chevy Chase Circle and transfer to the Rollingwood bus to the end of the line. Disembark, cross the road, and the greeters will be there to welcome you."

Snyders Hosts to Monetary Leaders

By Elizabeth Maguire

THE first reception of the monetary season was held yesterday at the Wardman Park Hotel. It was a party for tri-parti delegates, hosted by the Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. John W. Snyder. In the receiving line also were the Secretary of State and Mrs. Dean Acheson.

Mrs. Snyder wore a black dress and tiny black hat with swoosh of black feather, while Mrs. Acheson was costumed in smoke blue silk frock, and natural straw hat. Miss Drucie Snyder came to the party, escorted by Maj. John Horton. The Secretary's daughter looked smart in beige faille suit and black accessories.

Amicable conversations and cocktails were held by the American, British and Canadian economic policy-makers. The British Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Stafford Cripps, was the center of a great deal of attention. The British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Ernest Bevin, and Mrs. Bevin sat on a sofa somewhat withdrawn from the throng, to have a quiet talk with Thomas B. McCabe, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. Later, when the receiving line broke up, they were joined by the Secretary of State.

Kenneys There

W. John Kenney, former Undersecretary of the Navy, and Mrs. Kenney were there, having just arrived from California. They are leaving soon for London, where Mr. Kenney will serve as head of ECA. The Ambassador of Great Britain and Lady Franks, with Nantucket sunburns, were also guests.

The Secretary to the President and Mrs. Charles G. Ross talked with Chief of Protocol, Stanley Woodward, and the Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Charles Sawyer. The Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Willard Thorp, Raymond Muir, and the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Charles Franklin Brannan formed another group.

Among many others in the gathering were Canadian Minister of Finance, Douglas C. Abbott, Canadian External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson, and the Canadian Ambassador, Hume Wrong.

Sir Benegal Rama Rau, former Ambassador of India and now governor of the Reserve Bank of India, is to be honored this afternoon at a cocktail party given by the Minister of India and Mrs. B. R. Sen. Guests will include many distinguished persons now in Washington to attend the monetary conference.

Dutch Envoy Gives Party For Mme. Reuchlin

MME. HENRIETTE REUCHLIN was the guest in whose honor the Netherlands Ambassador and Mme. van Kleffins entertained Thursday at a luncheon party at the embassy. The luncheon preceded the opening of an exhibition of paintings by Mme. Reuchlin at National History Building. Later in the day a dinner was given in honor of Mme. Reuchlin by the Netherlands Commercial Secretary and Mme. Kokxhoorn. The artist is the mother of the Netherlands Minister, Jonkheer O. Reuchlin.

Perfume Party Given At Statler Hotel

THE EXOTIC scents of imported and domestic perfumes filled the atmosphere of the South American Room, at the Statler Hotel last night for the buffet supper given by Harry C. Webb to signalize the opening of his new perfume and cosmetic shop at the corner of Connecticut ave. and DeSales st.

Several hundred guests attended the 7 to 9:30 affair, a feature of which was a fashion show. Among those in attendance were the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Brannan, Lady Berendsen, wife of the New Zealand Minister, Mr. and Mrs. Camille Chautemps, Comdr. and Mrs. Gardiner Luce, Dr. and Mrs. Tomas Cajigas, Mrs. Irene Caldwell, William Lipscomb and Sir Willmot and Lady Lewis.

Mrs. Van Zandt in New York

Mrs. J. Parker Van Zandt is in New York attending a conference at Lake Success arranged by the United Nations Secretariat for members of the Speakers' Research Committee. The purpose of the conference is to familiarize persons attending with agenda of probable developments at the fourth General Assembly, which will open at Flushing Meadow, N. Y., on September 20.

Davises Back in Town

Dr. and Mrs. David Davis and their two daughters have returned to their home on Colorado ave. after spending the summer at Provincetown, Mass.

Alpha Phi Bridge

The Washington Alumnae Association of Alpha Phi social sorority will sponsor a benefit bridge at 8 p. m. Tuesday at 2801 Cameron Mill rd. in Alexandria. For reservations, call Mrs. Richard Turner at TE. 7892.

Dinner Honors British Bishops

The Ambassador of Great Britain and Lady Franks entertained last evening at a dinner honoring visiting Bishops of the Church of England. Among other guests were the Rev. Albert J. duBois, Rector of Ascension and St. Agnes Church, Washington, the Bishop of Washington and Mrs. Angus Dun, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Lee of New York.

The distinguished visitors of the Church of England are the Most Rev. John C. H. How, Primus of the Scottish Episcopal Church, and Mrs. How, the Right Rev. and Right Hon. John W. C. Wand, Lord Bishop of London, and Mrs. Wand, the Right Rev. Kenneth E. Kirk, Lord Bishop of Oxford, the Right Rev. Harold W. Bradfield, Lord Bishop of Bath and Wells, the Right Rev. Robert McNeil Boyd, Bishop of Derry and Raphoe, the Right Rev. Douglas John Wilson, Bishop of British Honduras, the Right Rev. Charles Francis Boynton, Bishop of Puerto Rico, and the Right Rev. William James Hughes, Bishop of Barbados.

Also the Right Rev. Fabian M. E. Jackson, Bishop of Trinidad, the Right Rev. John Jagoe, Bishop of Bermuda, the Rev. Harold Riley, Secretary of the English Church Union, and the Rev. C. Edwyn Young, Vicar of St. Silas' Church, London, and Mrs. Young.

Mission's 65th Year

The Central Union Mission will celebrate its 65th anniversary at Constitution Hall Sunday at 3 p.m. James L. Kraft will be the guest speaker and Homer Rodegeaver will be featured on the musical program.

Bulgarians Fete Liberty

Liberty Day of Bulgaria was celebrated yesterday at a reception held at the legation from 5 to 7 o'clock. The Charge d'Affaires of the Peoples Republic and Mme. Voutov were host and hostess on this occasion.

Mixed flowers decorated the drawing room and under a portrait of the late Prime Minister Georgi Dimitroff, a bowl of red roses was placed.

In the dining room, cocktails and hors d'oeuvres were served. There were a number of Bulgarian dishes. Diplomatic and official guests numbered about 140.

Return From Va. Beach

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Pretzfelder and Mrs. Jerome Antel have returned to Washington after a stay at Virginia Beach.

DATEBOOK DATA:

THE AMBASSADOR OF MEXICO, Don Rafael de la Colina, is entertaining at a luncheon at the embassy on Thursday, September 15, for Dr. Ramon Beteta, Secretary of Finance of Mexico and Governor of the International Monetary Fund.

A reception will be given the following day, Friday, at the embassy, by Dr. Beteta for delegates to the fourth annual conference of the boards of governors of the International Monetary Fund and the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development.

U. N. Club Dance Cancelled

The dance scheduled for tomorrow evening at the United Nations Club in honor of Miss Jane Lingo has been canceled, owing to the death Thursday evening of Thomas P. Morgan, jr. Miss Lingo is Queen of the President's Cup Regatta, and the late Mr. Morgan served as general chairman of the regatta.

Open Sunday!

THE 22 "HOMES of '49"

Look for the map and description in Sunday's Washington Post

The starting gun sounds at noon tomorrow for the greatest home exhibition in Washington history. Cosponsored by The Post and by local home builders and furnishers, the "Homes of '49" exhibit opens for your inspection 22 sample houses in all styles, prices and locations.

Come out and enjoy this splendid display—and be sure to get Sunday's Post for the map of the home locations. Clip this handy guide and start to visit the homes the first day.

Also in Sunday's Post, Lucia Brown describes for you the furnishings in the 8 fully-outfitted homes in the show. For a practical preview to your "Homes of '49" tour, see The Sunday Washington Post.

SPECIAL 1949-50 SCHOOL SECTION

How are school conditions this year for children in Washington and the surrounding area? A six-page section in Sunday's Post will bring you the answer in full. Reporter Elsie Carper tells you the 1949-50 outlook with regard to crowding, adequacy of teaching staffs, and physical equipment at local public schools. Pictures will show school construction in progress. The special school section will also feature fall announcements of business and trade schools and of evening curricula at colleges.

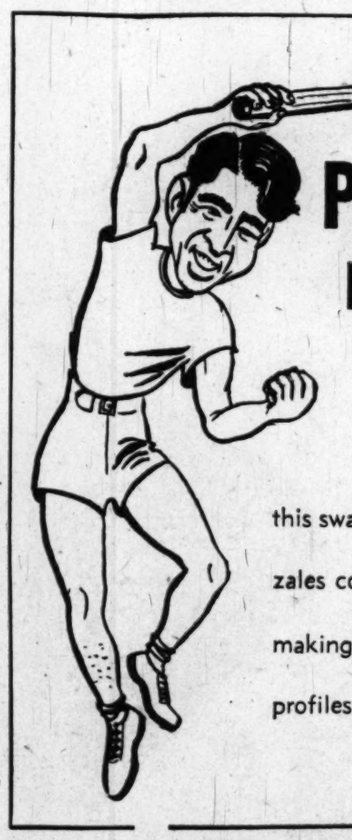
Complete GRID SCHEDULES for this season

Here's another page you'll want to save for frequent reference. Sunday's sports section will include football schedules for major college conferences throughout the country, for all colleges in the Washington area, and for both professional leagues. Know who your favorite teams are playing each week . . . plan which games you want to see and hear, with The Washington Post's 1949 schedule page.

The Short Evening Gown Is Back Again

One of the new short evening gowns which will soon be in vogue for the most formal type of event. Skirts will average about eight inches from the floor.

You'll be chic in a long or short evening gown this winter, reports Post style editor Peggy Preston. In the ninth of her ten fall fashion forecasts, Peggy tells you about the new brief formal wear. Read her description of skirts and overskirts soon to be featured in shops, illustrated with sketches by artist Rae Hesler. (And see Peggy's final article next Friday, featuring fashions in lounge wear and hostess coats.)



Pancho Gonzales
KAYO KID OF TENNIS

His flashing victory over Ted Schroeder made him new king of the court amateurs, this swarthy youth of 21. Where did "Pancho" Gonzales come from? Is he an all-time "great" in the making? In a special Sunday story, Shirley Povich profiles this colorful sports star. Don't miss it.

Blinded Veterans Picnic . . .

The Washington Post

Blind Veterans, Guests Enjoy Picnics—Jamboree in Virginia

The convention of the Blinded Veterans Association relaxed last night as more than 250 members and guests took to the country air for a picnic and jamboree.

Decked out comfortably on the rolling, 10,000-acre estate of A. Smith Bowman, jr., in Fairfax County, Va., the veterans ate hearty of the ham sandwiches, deviled eggs, and pretzels provided by The Washington Post.

They imbibed Virginia's bracing air and the frosty beer sent by Christian Heurich Brewing Co. They jigged to the hill-billy tunes sawed out by the Veterans Jamboree of Alexandria, Va.

The party was arranged by Lyn King of the Community Chest Federation.

At a luncheon in the Washington Hotel earlier yesterday, they were reminded by the Rev. Thomas J. Carroll, director of the Catholic Guild for the Blind, that in our day a blind man enjoys at least one advantage—it is easier for him to think through to an inner peace.

In our day, he said, "there is a constant seeking after distractions, a constant need of seeing a new show, of a change of scenery. Everywhere is distraction rather than detachment, turmoil rather than peace."

Joseph Clunk, who directs services for the blind for the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation of the Federal Security Agency, reminded the veterans there was no field of endeavor which they could not crack and that it was up to them to sell themselves into the jobs they desired.

The convention will close after adoption of resolutions and election of officers this afternoon and a banquet tonight. The demonstrations of members' occupations will be open to the public from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.

The Lyons Den . . .

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK.—Three former war correspondents who served in the European and Pacific theaters of war—Phil Whitcomb of Baltimore, Harold Peters of Buffalo and Martin Sheridan of New York—will meet in Germany next week on an unusual assignment. They were selected, at the request of the European Command, by Burnett Hershey, president of the American War Correspondents Association. Their job will be to cover the Army maneuvers, write dispatches as if the simulated warfare were real, apply all the censorship tricks they ever learned and try to ensnare the Army's new, inexperienced censors for whom this will be training.

The Palestine Conciliation Commission's recommendations to the U. N. will include giving Mount Scopus to the Israeli, additional territory to the Arabs, and provide for U. N. control of the sacred shrines of Jerusalem. . . . Winthrop Rockefeller, whose wife sailed for Europe last week, flew to join her there yesterday. . . . Birdie Tebbetts, the Red Sox catcher, supped at Toots Shor's after Wednesday night's game. Ethel Merman, who sat at the next table, watched him trying to finish some ham and eggs, and asked: "How y'doin'?" The saddened catcher sighed: "It's tough to enjoy food when your team loses."

Premier Queuille of France has been vacationing at a seashore resort. On a table near the terrace where he suns himself is a phone linked directly to Paris. Some visitors noticed that whenever the phone rang, Queuille leaped to his feet. One of them asked: "Why do you jump so? Surely by this time you must be accustomed to a telephone ring" . . . "My jumping whenever I hear a phone ring is a natural reflex," explained the Premier of France. "You see, gentlemen, I used to be a country doctor."

A newspaperman approached a member of the production-staff of "Death of a Salesman," in Sardi's yesterday, and asked: "What would happen if I reported tomorrow that Edward G. Robinson had been signed to play the Lee Cobb role in the movie adaptation?" The man replied: "If you reported that tomorrow, then tomorrow night Lee Cobb's understudy would have to go on."

Police Admit Theft Evidence Is Missing

Valuable evidence involving a person under indictment for grand larceny is "missing" at the Ninth Precinct station, Capt. Irvin Umbaugh admitted yesterday.

Umbaugh said, however, the person charged in the case has made "some admissions" and the United States attorney's office has advised police the case can move to trial without the missing evidence.

A search for the evidence, missing for more than a month, earlier led to the discovery that Pvt. Vincent S. Hurd, station clerk, was $332 short in his accounts. He has been suspended and will face the police trial board.

Maj. Robert J. Barrett, police superintendent, pointed out that the investigation had developed nothing to tie Hurd with the missing evidence.

Missing Girl Found With Grandparents

A 13-year-old Washington girl, believed to have disappeared mysteriously from a bus depot here Thursday night, was found to be safe yesterday with her grandparents in Chester, Va.

She is Alice Rickman, a student at Brent Junior High School, who lives with her mother and an aunt at 1377 North Carolina ave. ne.

The mother, Mrs. Opal Rickman, went to the Trailways bus station to meet her daughter Thursday evening. The bus came in while she was in the rest room. Then she was told that a girl, answering her daughter's description, had aligted from the bus and left left the station.

When Alice failed to turn up at home, Mrs. Rickman notified polic. It was not until yesterday morning that she learned that her daughter was still with her grandparents in Chester, just south of Richmond, and has postponed her return here for a day. She arrived safely in Washington last night.

Hospital Building Fund Campaign Reaches $11,000

A total of $11,000 has been raised so far toward a $25,000 sum needed as a down payment on the Arlington Hospital building, Hospital Administrator John J. Anderson announced yesterday.

The building drive, launched August 20 among business and professional people in the county, will be extended two weeks past its September 10 deadline, Anderson said, in order to reach its goal.

"We all feel confident and satisfied it will go over even before that time," he added.

The present drive is the start of a campaign to raise the $125,000 total purchase price, asked by the Federal Government for the 115-bed hospital. The structure was built in 1944 with $661,000 in Lanham Act funds.

The Government has agreed to accept the $100,000 balance of the purchase price in five annual installments, at 3 per cent interest.

Court Hears Meyers Plea For Freedom

Former Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers, serving from 20 months to five years at Lorton (Va.) Reformatory for subordination of perjury, will learn in a few days whether he can get a writ of habeas corpus.

Judge Albert V. Bryan heard arguments on a petition for the writ yesterday for the second time in Alexandria District Court. He took the case under advisement and said he would announce his decision "in a few days."

Meyers, wartime Air Force procurement official, was convicted in U. S. District Court here of persuading a business associate to commit perjury before a Senate investigating committee.

Yesterday's argument by defense counsel R. C. Bushnell centered on whether Meyers had exhausted all possible "remedies" in the sentencing court, as Judge Bryan had instructed him to do before seeking a writ in the Virginia District Court.

Bushnell said Meyer's case is like that of Harold Christoffel, former Wisconsin labor leader, who was recently released on a perjury conviction by the Supreme Court. The court found the congressional committee involved lacked a quorum at the time Christoffel allegedly committed perjury.

Bird Walk Season Here Starts Today

The first bird walk of the pre-autumn season will be conducted this morning by National Capital Parks as part of their weekend program.

Participants will start the day at 16th and Underwood sts. nw. to stroll in the woods along the Rock Creek Park golf course.

Another walk, to observe amphibians, will be conducted through Rock Creek Park in the afternoon, leaving 16th st. and Kalmia rd. nw. at 3 o'clock.

Events scheduled for Sunday include:

An all-day caravan trip to Cove Point Lighthouse, Md. Special buses will leave 1416 F st. nw. at 9 a. m., returning at 6 p. m. Participants are asked to bring their lunch.

A historical tour of Arlington National Cemetery and Lee Mansion. The group will meet at the Arlington Memorial Gate at 2:30 p. m.

A walk along the C & O Canal Parkway to observe snakes living on land and in the water. The snake walk will leave Stop 39 on the Cabin John carline at MacArthur blvd. and Cornell st. at 3 p. m.

On both days, the Canal Clipper, horse-drawn barge, will leave Lock 3, on 30th st. near M st. nw. at 2 p. m. and will return from Lock 5 in Brookmont, Md., at 4 p. m.

Army Slayer Given Life

Stuttgart, Germany, Sept. 9 (AP). A United States military court today sentenced Recruit Russell Jones, 22, to life in prison for killing three German strangers who crossed the path of his drunken orgy the night of last May 1.

3 Firms Notified On Violations of Healing Arts Act

Three Washington firms have been notified they are violating the Healing Arts Act by diagnosing and treating scalp conditions without a medical license.

J. Warren Wilson, assistant United States attorney, said the firms have been given a week to submit a plan whereby their operations could be conducted within the law. The plan is to be submitted to the Commission on the Healing Arts Practice.

One possible solution, Wilson said, would be for the firms to offer treatment only under supervision of a licensed doctor. Another possibility, he said, would be for the firms to confine services to cosmetology.

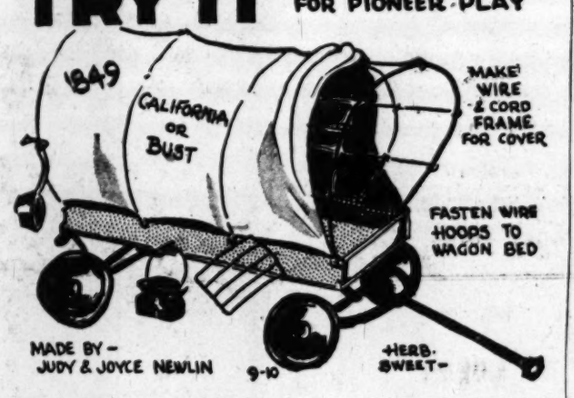
TRY IT COVER YOUR WAGON FOR PIONEER PLAY



Here is a chance to relive the days of the "Forty-Niners" just like they were lived one hundred years ago, during the time of the Gold Rush. When our forefathers crossed the prairies of our broad country, they traveled and lived in their wagons, protected only by the cloth covers spread over their wagon tops on large wooden hoops.

To make a covered wagon from your play coaster wagon take a heavy wire and cut four six-foot lengths for the main hoops. With a metal drill bore four holes in the side of the top edge of the wagon bed, and bend the wire hoop tips securely in the holes so that they will stay in position. A cross bracing of wire and cord should then be made to hold the cover in position. An old sheet can be patched and sewed over the framework for this cover.

Hang small pots, shovels, pans, washboards, and other pioneer-like objects of the wagon bed for equipment. Write "California or Bust" on the cover, and you will be a wagon Pioneer in '49.

Attractive Toy Shelves

Chests are good places in which to put toys. Cloth bags of heavy material are suitable for blocks and other sturdy playthings. But open shelves are especially good. Here are a few ideas that have been worked out by various parents. Perhaps you'll find something you'd like to work out for your child's room.

1. Paint the shelves to fit the color scheme of the room. If they have backs, the entire inside surface can be painted a color that contrasts well with the outside.

2. Arrange shelves of different heights so that toys can be placed in a way that shows them off to advantage. If a youngster can line up his train so that it looks as though it were ready to start off, it will give an effect that higgledy-piggledy stacking will never afford. So with dolls, toy steam shovels and other larger toys.

3. In order to help younger children know where the various toys should go on the surface or back of the shelf, make an outline of the truck, the fort, the doll bed and other toys. Youngsters won't always bother to place each toy in its special place but more often than not they will. It's almost like having a big puzzle to fit together.

As Long as We

I want to be a part of you . . . Each part of every day . . . Not just in all the things you do . . . Or every word you say . . . But even in the thoughts you think . . . And in the dreams you dream . . . For I would be the final link . . . In your eternal scheme . . . I want to walk with you at dawn . . . And sleep with you at night . . . Until the whole wide world is gone . . . And skies are out of sight . . . Until the sun has vanished, love . . . And only God remains . . . To light the moon and stars above . . . And pour the gentle rains . . . I want to sing you every song . . . And make your dreams come true . . . As long as I, and just as long . . . As life belongs to you.

BARNABY

Barnaby, I hate to bring this up, but it's high time your father wrote me a check for the pearls. Must be quite a tidy sum due me.
What pearls?
You wouldn't understand, little girl. A business transaction between Barnaby's father and me. Run in and ask him. . .
Okay.
But—
Gosh, he said a lot of things, but mostly he said the money was going to stay in the bank—
What IS this?. . . Misappropriation of funds? Larceny?
So I can go to college—
College? Oh. Yes. . I suppose my obligations as a Fairy Godfather—

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

This Is Why Columnists Have Bats in the Belfry

I called up Henry Liebschutz of 1222 S. 26th rd., Arlington, Va., on business the other evening.

Henry picked up the phone and politely said: "Would you hold the wire a minute, please?"

I said I would, and for the next minute or so I sat listening to muffled sounds of excitement that came drifting through the telephone. Something was happening at Henry's house, but I couldn't figure out what.

Pretty soon Henry returned to the phone. "So sorry to have kept you waiting," he apologized, "but I have been working on a project for several days, and you called just at the wrong moment."

My curiosity was getting out of hand. "Henry," I demanded, "what's going on out there?"

"Nothing," replied Henry calmly. "A bat came down the chimney a couple of days ago and we've been trying to drive him out ever since. You called just as we flushed him, and had him cornered."

"And?"

"And so I killed him. He had a 10-inch wingspread."

"Yow! You say he came down the chimney?"

"Oh, sure. That happens to lots of people. Hasn't it ever happened at your house?"

"I live in an apartment."

"That accounts for it. Well—I'll be seeing you."

"Goodbye."

Let's see now—what was it I called Henry about? I never got around to discussing my business with him.

WHISTLER'S ARTISTRY

Herb Harris of 1121 N. Kensington st., Arlington, Va., admires the "expression" that some policemen get into their whistle tootin'.

Champion, says Herb, is Pvt. Ray Taylor, who is usually stationed at 14th st. and Pennsylvania ave. nw. "I'll back Officer Taylor against all comers," offers Herb.

"For those who edge off the curb before the light changes, his whistle has a mild chirp.

For the more serious offenders, there's a robustly sharp series of explosive whistles that never fail to command attention. And for any situation ranging between those extremes, his whistle is always expressively appropriate."

Herb is right, but he has only half the story. Private Taylor has the gestures to go with the expressive whistle. Watch him in action some time while he keeps traffic moving past one of our busiest corners.

MISCELLANY

Absentee voters who want registration and voting information regarding their home States will find Mrs. Clarence Fisher of the District League of Women Voters extremely helpful. You can call her on Taylor 0056 . . . 12-year-old Elisabeth Griffith of 4356 Lee hwy., Arlington, Va., tries to catch me napping with the news that her local postoffice is running a big bargain in postage stamps. "They're selling 13 2-cent stamps for a cent and a quarter" . . . Robert W. Livingston of 1711 N. Edgewood st., Arlington, Va., tells me that his Give-Away offer of taro roots turned up a dozen former residents of Hawaii who enthusiastically reported that both the roots and the greens make excellent eating. But Bob doesn't know how to cook 'em . . . Ted Bullockus of 6323 Luzon ave. nw. forwards a clipping from a Dover (Del.) paper that lists new books at the local library, under two headings: "Friction," and "Non-Friction" . . . Len Johnson of 2836 27th st. nw. is the latest to complain about the handling of traffic over the Memorial Bridge approaches. He says that lines of cars are often backed up as far as the Pentagon exit . . . Betty Jane Cammack of 3819 Garrison st. nw. tells me that she boarded a plane to start her vacation, began reading her favorite newspaper, and learned from this column about a news item that had originated in the house across the street (a show for the benefit of Children's Hospital). . . . If you don't read The Washington Post, you can't keep up with the latest developments . . . Like the one uncovered by Sheldon M. Klein of 4611 15th st. nw., who caught us red-handed with this headline: "Detective Commended in Rape, Robbery Jobs."

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

When I read a book, I always wonder how the author knows where to end each chapter.

Sometimes I disagree with the author as to the place he has chosen; but I admire him for his decisiveness.

Do you suppose he knows at the start of the chapter just how and where he's going to finish it?

I worry about these things.

Jean Broulik
3850 39th st. nw.

Dear Jean:

I don't think I'm going to be much help, because I have never written a book.

In my own case, I try to stop just before I write so much copy that the desk will growl:

"What'sa usa settin' all this junk—you ain't gonna have room to print it all, anyhow."

Of course, people who write books don't have to put up with such things. They can set their own standards.

Detective story writers, for example, can limit themselves to one body per chapter; authors of historical novels can consider they've finished a day's work whenever the heroine has another love affair.

Judging by the current run of heroines, this probably makes for a very short working day for the author.

Bill.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Mother cat, and her daughter and two sons aged 4 weeks; very pleasant dispositions." (Johnson 3-6229 after 5 p. m.)

"Nice black-and white female puppy, 9 weeks old." (Union 2263.)

"Two kittens and their mother, who practicallly speaks English; also 3-month-old kitten; also—this breaks my heart—beautiful all black manx with green eyes." (Wisconsin 1307.)

"Pet kitten; we're moving and he can't come with us." (Tuckerman 2913.)

"Nine-month-old male pup wants home in country; wonderful watchdog." (Wisconsin 3656.)

"Beautiful, healthy part-Persian kitten with four white paws; 6 weeks old, very affectionate." (Hudson 6472.)

PERSONAL NOTES

J. R. Francis, 30, S. Old Glebe rd., Arlington, Va.; I've passed your complaint along to our circulation director and can assure you that he'll give it prompt attention. Thanks for telling us about it.

PIED TYPE DEPT.

Mrs. Russell Roller of 7135 Chestnut st. nw. chuckles at the paragraph of movie chatter in our morning contemporary which went like this:

"The reels of the 'Stromboli' film that Roberto Rossellini is refusing to send RKO compromise one week of work with Ingrid."

SHOP TALK

Complaining about the dearth of shoeshine stands these days. Post Reporter Edward T. Folliard mused: "What has become of the bootblacks of yesteryear?" A colleague at an adjoining desk shot back:

"Ain't you heard? They're 5-percenters now."

Airplane Junkets Are an Old Story

By Drew Pearson

There was a lot more than meets the eye behind the way Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson suddenly pulled in his horns about the airplane junketing of Congressmen.

Johnson

Real fact is that if Johnson had stuck to his guns and Congress had done any investigating, the executive branch of the Government would have been shown up for private joy-riding perhaps more than Congress. For Johnson himself uses an Air Force plane almost every weekend to visit his home in Clarksburg, W. Va., while Secretary of the Navy Matthews uses a Navy plane to fly to his home in Omaha on weekends.

That was why wise Steve Early, Undersecretary of Defense, called Majority Leader Scott Lucas of Illinois and asked him to arrange a conference with Senator Thomas of Oklahoma, who had been rebuffed by Johnson regarding an airplane junket for his committee.

At the off-the-record session which followed, Early told Thomas that Johnson had not seen the letter written to him, that it was written by an underling, and that Johnson didn't even know about it.

Hush-Hush on Air Junkets

Early quite frankly admitted that there had been some abuse of airplane junketing by bigwigs in the Government. He reminded Thomas that any investigation would bring out some equal abuse by Congressmen. The Air Force, he said, even had requests from Congressmen calling for airplane rides home on the pretext of official business.

Therefore, proposed the Undersecretary of Defense, both sides should call it quits. And in the future, he said, the Air Force would take the word of any Congressman, when he wanted a plane, that it was for official business.

Senator Thomas was delighted. A few days before, he had called for a report on every special plane used by the White House, by the Secretary of Defense, and by every other Cabinet member. But now he accepted Early's compromise and called off his probe.

So in the future it looks like both the executive branch and Congress can junket pretty much as they please.

Pat Hurley Set Fad

The man who originally started junketing in military planes was Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, in the Hoover Administration. At that time it was a Democratic Congress which protested. Especially when Hurley, flying to a meeting of Indiana editors, made an emergency landing and smashed up his plane. Democratic Congressmen howled to high heaven. They didn't mind the possible loss of a Republican Secretary of War, but they did object to the loss of a $72,000 plane.

Since then the cost of airplane construction has so increased that the smashup of the big transports which carry the Cabinet would be nearer one million dollars.

Since then also, Pat Hurley's ideas of airplane junkets haven't changed, and the Defense Department still has a $30,000 bill against the State Department for the use of a special Army plane when he was Ambassador to China and insisted on a private plane to carry him home.

Since then, other Cabinet officers — though Democrats — have caught up with Hurley. For instance, the Defense Department sent the Interior Department a $16,000 bill for the personal trip of Secretary of the Interior Krug to Japan, carrying Krug's father and his personal physician, Dr. Roy L. Sexton, who, because of Krug's health, frequently accompanies him. The Army felt that since Krug had made this something of a family deal, the Interior Department or Krug should foot the bill.

The Interior Department finally scraped some money out of its budget and paid the Air Force, though in the end it was the taxpayer, not the Interior Department, who lost out.

In addition, Secretary of the Treasury Snyder has his own Coast Guard plane, a C-54, with a special crew assigned merely to carry him wherever he wants to go.

Then there is Secretary of Commerce Sawyer who has a special Civil Aeronautics plane assigned to him, which he uses to fly back home to Cincinnati on weekends. And Secretary of the Navy Matthews, in addition to using a special plane for weekends in Omaha, took a recent junket to Honolulu, carrying his entire family along for a 10-day outing in delightful Hawaii.

Another point which would have come out if Senator Thomas had insisted on his investigation is the way Mr. Truman has lent his plane to private individuals. The President has a habit of telling friends, "Oh, take my plane," no matter where they are going.

Last year, for instance, he sent his private plane across the Atlantic with Archbishop Athenagoras to Turkey, supposedly as an act of good will to the Greeks. But General Vaughan, who arranged the trip at the suggestion of his two cronies, John Maragon and William Helis, did not realize that Athenagoras is not particularly popular in Greece and that the gesture did not benefit the United States.

Shortly after the war, forthright Secretary of War Bob Patterson laid down a flat rule against airplane junketing—especially against private planes with special crews for Cabinet bigwigs. Patterson even ruled that he himself was not to have a private plane.

It's been only three short years since that ruling was made. But, in the interim, it's become as obsolete as the use of wigs by the Supreme Court of the United States. The American taxpayer would be a lot better off, however, if Secretary Johnson had stuck to his original guns or if Patterson's ruling was reinstated.

Whispering Campaign

Without meaning to, the FBI touched off a whispering campaign against Senator Elbert Thomas, Utah Democrat, in his home State.

It was caused by a routine check which the FBI made on all delegates appointed by President Truman to represent the United States at an international conference at Geneva. As head of the delegation, Thomas was investigated along with all the other delegates.

But for some reason, an FBI agent called upon a Republican county chairman and asked questions about Senator Thomas. And the Republican promptly spread the word that Thomas was under investigation by the FBI, the implication being that this was something sinister. Actually, it was nothing but a routine check. Many loyal citizens are checked by the FBI every day as a routine precaution before they are hired by the Government.
